Conference in Pacific Planned by President

Daughter of Stalin Defects

ROME (AP)—A police official at Rome airport said today that Joseph Stalin's daughter, Svetlana, 42, who reportedly has defected from the Soviet Union, arrived in the Italian capital a few days ago and probably is still here.

Sources in Washington said on Thursday the former dictator's only daughter had gone to India, defected through the U.S. Embassy in New Delhi and gone on to Rome.

The State Department and U.S., Soviet and Indian officials in New Delhi, Rome and Moscow all disclaimed any knowledge of the matter. But Russian sources in Moscow said Miss Stalina left the Soviet Union about two months ago with the ashes of an Indian believed to have been her husband.

Informants at Rome airport said Miss Stalina arrived in Rome early Wednesday on a flight from New Delhi.

The Rome Airport News Service said it was told by a police official assigned to the international arrival and departure terminals that "a person who arranged for (Miss Stalina's) arrival" was due in Rome eventually.

"Only after that time will the entire matter be made public," the unidentified police officer said.

The sources in Moscow said Miss Stalina had been living in the Soviet capital with an Indian Communist named Brijesh Singh who worked as a translator for the Soviet "Progress" publishing organization.

The informants said Singh died last December or January at the age of 59 and was cremated in Moscow. They said Miss Stalina obtained permission to accompany his ashes to India and visit his family there.

Stalin's daughter used the name Stalina because Russian women customarily add an "A" to their names.

She has lived in obscurity since her father's death in 1953 but was the subject of lively gossip while he lived. Reports had circulated in Moscow of numerous romances, and several of her lovers were reportedly jailed for incurring Stalin's displeasure.

Married at 17

At 17, she reportedly married a student named Grigory Morozov but was forced by her father to divorce him. One report said she had had four or five husbands since then. She was reported to have had two children by her first marriage, a son now 21 and a daughter now 15, and to have left them in the Soviet Union.

After Stalin's death she reportedly attended an institute in Moscow specializing in philology. She reportedly speaks English fluently.

Later there was a report that she had gotten a job as a teach-

Jailed Hoffa Again Asks for Release

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa, jailed after the U.S. Supreme Court refused last week to hear his appeals, has turned to the high court again in hopes of getting out.

Hoffa's attorneys asked Chief Justice Earl Warren to free Hoffa on bail from Lewisburg, Pa., federal prison until the federal court in Chattanooga, Tenn., rules on a motion for a new trial.

President Only Hints At Plan to Run Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson warns Democrats not to listen to political pundits who predict a Republican victory in 1968 — but he won't say yet if he'll be the GOP's opposition.

"I must say, after looking at some of the problems the Republicans have on their hands, that I'm not quite convinced by all the lamentations over our chances next year," the President told the Democratic National Committee Thursday night.

At an earlier news conference Johnson said he's not yet ready to discuss his 1968 plans. But National Chairman John M. Bailey predicted Democrats "will have a really great presidential candidate" — Lyndon B. Johnson.

In the news conference Johnson was asked not only about his own plans but about the prospects of Hubert H. Humphrey as a running mate.

Without committing himself specifically on a choice, Johnson replied with highest praise for his vice president.

"I have never known a public servant that I worked better with or for whom I had more admiration, or who I thought was more entitled to the public trust, than the vice president."

The President tossed some jibes at Republican critics, saying "some few are denouncing the war in Vietnam because it eats into social programs — which most of their party voted against."

Tax Incentives Restoration Met With Favor

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's call for restoring some powerful business tax incentives appears to be getting favorable early reaction in Congress.

But some lawmakers were looking today beyond the immediate issue — restoration of the 7 per cent investment tax credit and of some advantageous depreciation rules — to question whether Johnson still expects Congress to add a surtax to individual and corporate income taxes by July 1.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee announced a hearing next Tuesday and said the tax-writing group hopes to have the investment credit measure cleared for House action during the week.

Democratic Leader Carl Albert said the bill would be scheduled for debate before the end of the week if possible.

Byrnes Sees Trouble

But Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., while agreeing the incentive restoration probably will have easy going in the House, said it might spell later trouble for the President's proposed 6 per cent income tax surcharge.

"How can we march up the hill with a big tax cut for certain taxpayers, and then a few weeks later march down the hill with a tax boost?" he asked.

The House Republican Leader, Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, welcomed Johnson's move to restore the investment tax credit but said he is surprised "that the President still clings to his proposal for a 6 per cent income tax surtax in the face of

Pilots Down 2 MIGs

Clash Comes During Attack On Steel Mill

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force Thunderchief jets shot down a North Vietnamese MIG fighter, probably downed a second and damaged a third during a raid against a Communist steel fabricating mill 38 miles north of Hanoi today, a U.S. spokesman reported.

The F105 Thunderchiefs, flying from bases in Thailand, were attacking the Thai Nguyen steel plant when they encountered the MIGS.

No U.S. planes were reported damaged.

Total Now 36

A total of 36 MIGS have been reported downed in previous encounters over North Vietnam.

The Thai Nguyen plant makes bridge sections, cargo barges and petroleum drums. A spokesman said the "bombs were on target" but gave no other results.

The last duel between U.S. planes and North Vietnamese MIGs occurred on Jan. 6, when two of the Red jets were downed.

The raid over the North came during a comparative lull in ground fighting in South Vietnam, punctuated by a sharp clash between U. S. paratroopers and the Viet Cong in the tangled jungles of War Zone C.

Fighting died down to its lowest intensity in two weeks along the demilitarized zone, the scene of constant mortar attacks against U.S. Marine positions.

Viet Cong Supposedly Install New Chief to Talk With U. S.

BY KENNETH L. WHITING

SAIGON (AP) — A change of leadership in the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front to smooth the way for direct peace talks with the United States was reported today by allied intelligence sources.

Huynh Tan Phat, deputy chairman of the Viet Cong's political arm, has replaced Nguyen Huu Tho as chairman, these sources said.

Reports of a change in the front's high command have circulated in Saigon government circles for more than a month, the sources said. Interrogation of Viet Cong prisoners and defectors and captured Communist documents appear to confirm the reports.

Phat

Tho

Replacement of Tho by Phat reportedly was "for the purpose of treating directly with the United States" in peace negotiations. The sources said the Liberation Front plans no place at the table for Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's Saigon government. That alone would appear to be an insurmountable obstacle to negotiations between the Viet Cong and the United States.

American intelligence sources offered two possible reasons for the switch.

They said Phat might appear more acceptable to the Americans at the bargaining table. Tho is a widely known Communist figure in South Vietnam with strong ties to Hanoi. Phat is known mostly to party intellectuals and is relatively unknown outside Communist circles.

Could be Scapegoat

Another possible reason, the sources said, is that Hanoi wants Phat to negotiate so he can be discarded as a scapegoat if talks break down. Tho would retain real power.

Phat is now believed to be at NLF headquarters in Viet Cong-controlled areas of South Vietnam or — more likely — in Cambodia.

The clandestine Communist liberation radio usually reports Tho as being in South Vietnam. However, intelligence sources say he spends most of his time in or near Hanoi.

Phat, 41, was born in My Tho in the Mekong Delta and was trained as an architect by the French in Hanoi. He was arrested in March 1945 as a propagan-

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department said Thursday Marine Pfc. Douglas L. Kramer son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kramer of Milwaukee, and Marine Pfc. Daniel J. Orlinowski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex B. Orlikowski of rural Athens, Wis., have been killed in action in Vietnam.

Time, Place Unannounced By Johnson

Westmoreland, Lodge to Attend War Policy Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says he'll take part in a Vietnam strategy conference later this month, "in the Pacific area somewhere."

This surprise disclosure, voiced Thursday at a news conference, left questions unanswered — mainly where and exactly when.

Johnson said he would be meeting in the next few weeks with Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador in Saigon, and Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the American commander in Vietnam. But he wouldn't specify the site except as being "in the Pacific area."

The 30-minute session with reporters also brought from Johnson a reaffirmed defense of American policy in Vietnam — and an apparent off-the-cuff slap at Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., who has suggested possible other ways to resolve the conflict that last week produced record American casualties.

Johnson, wearing a deep-hued blue shirt for his first news conference on live color TV, also came up with another surprise: An announcement that he is asking Congress to restore immediately the 7 per cent tax credit business had been claiming until last Oct. 10 on new investments in plant and equipment.

He persuaded Congress to

Jet, Private Plane May Have Collided

URBANA, Ohio (AP) — While grim investigators search for the remains of the last of 26 victims, a farmer told today of seeing a Trans World Airlines plane hit something in the air, probably a light plane, before they both crashed Thursday.

James R. McGuire said he saw "the big plane hit something. I couldn't tell what."

The DC9 TWA jet disintegrated in flames on an approach to Dayton's Municipal Airport. A private twin-engine beechcraft fell at the same time.

Moments before the crash, veteran airline pilot Karl B. Kohlsatt of Chicago had been warned of "unknown traffic" in his range by the Federal Aviation Agency.

A recovery worker said one engine of the private plane was found amid wreckage of the jetliner.

Wreckage of the airliner and bodies of those aboard — 21 passengers and four crew members — were strewn through woods and gullies nine miles west of here.

AP Exclusive on House, Senate Finances

Capitol Hill's Fat Salaries Are Getting Fatter

BY JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — A generous Congress has pushed the salaries of its top employes to such levels that the House postmaster makes $550 more yearly than the postmaster of Chicago.

In the affluent society on Capitol Hill, $20,000-a-year jobs are commonplace. There are 494 of them, ranging up to the $28,500 paid to the head doorkeeper of the House — only $1,500 less than a member of Congress gets.

And while Congress talks of whittling down the Great Society programs, there are no signs that an economy wave threatens the spectacular success of its own private war against poverty.

Costs Skyrocket

Over-all payroll costs have skyrocketed 84 per cent in the House and 53 per cent in the Senate in the last six years. They are continuing to rise as the staffs of members and committees on both sides of the Capitol steadily expand. The House payroll increased by $6.4 million last year and staff additions just approved by the Senate are expected to increase the payroll 13 per cent. Senate committee costs more than doubled between 1956 ad 1966 — climbing from $4.7 million to $9.6 million.

Senate salaries totaled $25.89 million last year. The House total was $46.5 million.

In many cases, the salaries being paid appear to have little relationship to the economics of the market place.

The House postmaster, with less than 100 million pieces of mail to deal with yearly, gets $24,500 a year. Chicago's postmaster, responsible for 6.6 billion pieces, gets $23,950. The Senate, which generates less mail, pays its postmaster $19,636, about $1,000 more than the postmaster gets in Cleveland, where the mail runs to 1.8 billion pieces.

The manager of the bank that keeps accounts for the 435 members in the House gets $20,890 a year; the cashiers, $14,899. Banking sources say the manager of the average small private branch bank makes $10,000 or less and the cashiers' pay ranges from $4,000 to $7,000. The Senate has no bank.

Annual Raises

Fed by nearly annual pay raises, protected by patronage and all but screened from public view by formidably inadequate bookkeeping practices, the fat salaries have spread across Capitol Hill.

The shorthand reporters who record debate make $22,000 a year; the men who call the roll and those who record it make $19,200. The Senate chaplain, who reads a brief prayer to open each session, gets $15,880. The House chaplain gets $15,550.

Persons doing routine office work can make as much as $12,000, and messengers nearly $10,000, but at the lower job levels salaries are generally more in line with those outside Congress.

Salaries paid by the senators and representatives to their own staff aides also are more attuned to normal office practices, and the employes put in long hours, frequently working six days a week.

But aside from the members' own staffs, many House and Senate employes have duties only when Congress meets. This averages about four days a week, with recesses between annual sessions.

The legislative committees are a major source of the $20,000-and-up jobs. There are 133 of them on Senate committees, 79 on House committees and 14 on joint committees. The ceiling is $25,890 for both House and Senate committee staffs. The Senate boosted its top only last week to match the House.

One Staffer

Each House member is entitled to pay one staffer in his or her own office at the top rate of $20,850, but only 127 of the 435 do so. In the Senate, which has higher allowances, 109 aides get more than $20,000. In addition, the Senate itself has 25 top jobs, such as secretary, parliamentarian and sergeant-at-arms, paying more than $20,000, and the House has seven.

Congressional employes are eligible for the government's pension system under which a person with 30 years' service can retire at a little more than half-pay. Employes contribute 6½ per cent of their salary to the pension fund, the govern-

A Lovelier You

BY MARY SUE MILLER

Too Highbrow

A Lovely writes: A high forehead is supposed to be a mark of intelligence. Or so my mother always told me. But it's no beauty mark, when the hairline is so far back that it looks balding. Like mine! Long, wavy bangs are the only answer I've ever found and I am sick of them — all the trimming and the curling. Can you help me?

The Answer: When the hairline is too high, bangs are the only solution. But they do not have to be worn long or curly to do a good job of camouflag. In fact a bang cut on the diagonal not only serves the purpose, but is more flattering and interesting. It can be quite high on one side and slope gently to fit into the body of hair at the temple on the other side.

So cut, a bang needs no curl. It can be shaped with a comb to swirl a bit, and it will cling by reason of its tapered ends. Plus, perhaps, a touch of guiche fixative.

Contour brush-ons aid the cause A deep shade, applied to the entire forehead area, seems to narrow the expanse that a diagonal bang opens up The result of the dual move is an undetectable trick of the eye. And a delightfully feminine one!

If you are altogether "sick" of working away at your own bangs, why not try a wiglet of bangs — a pinwheel that spins around the front of your head, lending width to counteract height? It's a great out!

Your Problems

Ann Criticizes Reader's Attack On Sufferers of Mental Illness

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You speak out often against alcoholism and adultery, and you defend certain segments of society which you feel are being exploited. Will you please tell the American people the truth about mental illness? I am sick of whiners who haven't the courage to face life and use their "nerves" as an excuse.

Five years ago my son married a girl who was lazy and spoiled. It wasn't until after they were married that the real problems developed. She was afraid to have children — afraid to entertain her husband's business associates and finally afraid to leave the house.

This girl has cost my son a fortune in doctor bils and her psychiatrist says it will be a long time before she is able to function normally. It is to be expected that the psychiatrist would take her side and defend his profession.

Since the rest of us must face life and handle our problems, is it fair to coddle certain people and call them sick when they are merely hiding from reality? — Disgusted

Dear Disgusted: Your ignorance on the subject of mental illness is surpassed only by your determination to remain ignorant. The notion that a person who is emotionally ill is faking to avoid responsibility is equivalent to saying a polio victim could walk if he wanted to but he would prefer to be pushed in a wheel chair.

Your daughter-in-law will probably do better in the long haul than you, Madame. This girl could one day be a whole human being with insight and compassion as a result of her therapy, but you will be ignorant and stiff-necked as long as you live, unless you do something about it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When my husband and I were first married he made very little money. We scrimped and did without many things we really needed, but I never felt deprived or unhappy.

Now, 28 years later, my husband makes a very good salary and there is no reason to be so frugal, but we are living exactly the same way we did when we were first married. I am becoming depressed not because we do not have some things we can afford to buy, but because my husband's miserly behavior is getting me down.

Yesterday at supper he said, "Look, I have $300 in my pocket and I spent 20 cents for lunch I bought a carton of milk and a sweet roll." Then he put out his foot and crowed, "See these shoes? They are four years old I've had 'em resoled three times."

What is wrong with him? What can I do about it? I've thought of leaving him many times. Please help me. There is no one around here I can confide in. — Miser's Wife

Dear Wife: Your best bet is to insist on a fair allowance or separate maintenance. And follow through with the help of a lawyer if you must.

If a man gets his jollies spending 20 cents for lunch and getting his shoes resoled three times, that's his business, but his wife should not be forced to live like a charity case after 28 years of marriage when there is plenty of money around.

Snowdons Begin Bahama Vacation

By BOB MONROE

NEW YOR K(AP) — Princess Margaret arrives in New York today for a public reunion with her husband, Lord Snowdown, who has denied rumors that they are verging on divorce.

The couple is scheduled to spend just over an hour at Kennedy Airport from the time she arrives until they depart on a flight to Nassau in the Bahamas for a nine-day winter vacation.

In denying the divorce speculation last week, Snowdown said, "It's news to me, and I would be the first to know. How do they start?" he asked, referring to the rumors.

Lord Snowdown — Antony Armstrong-Jones until he married Queen Elizabeth II's sister six years ago — has been in the city since Feb. 26 when he arrived from Tokyo.

At Work

A professional photographer, Snowdon had been in Japan for four weeks working on what he called an "essay" with texts and photographs on Japanese life.

By the time he arrived here to work with the editors of Vogue magazine on another assignment, reports came from London of a so-called "widening rift" in the marriage.

There also had been rumors that Princess Margaret was expecting their third child. This also was denied by Snowdown.

Exaggerations and misunderstandings about two separate visits to hospitals recently, his and hers, were apparently the basis for the rumors, he explained.

Conflicting Rumors

He went to the hospital for a minor operation which was described as a "serious illness." It was noted that Princess Margaret did not visit him while he was there

Snowdown explained last week he had been there only 45 minutes. It was hardly long enough for his wife to have visited him, he added sardonically

Next Princess Margaret was in the hospital for a "routine checkup" when he left for Japan on Feb 1. This apparently led to the rumor she was expecting another child, and that his departure at that time indicated the 'widening rift"

In fact, Snowdon said, his wife knew of his plans to leave and "she wanted me to go."

While here he has been staying at the home of Alexander Liberman, editorial director of Vogue. The couple will be the guests of Jocelyn Stevens, a London magazine publisher, while in the Bahamas.

Fancy Skiers Butter Up Swiss Slopes

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland (AP) — The razzle-dazzle girls of this chic winter resort have been warned off the ski slopes. Their outfits are considered too dangerous.

Instructors are refusing to take girls wearing gold and silver lame ski clothes or shiny, lacquered trousers.

"They're much too dangerous," said one instructor. "When a girl falls wearing such an outfit, she slides down the slope like butter in a hot pan. One instructor nearly broke his neck trying to rescue a girl who slipped down the full length of the Olympic run."

500 Attend Funeral

Sorrow Hovers Over Wautoma

WAUTOMA — One of the chapters of the story of a grizzly, mass slaying committed in a remote Fish Lake cottage last Sunday came to an end here Thursday afternoon when three of the victims were committed to their graves.

Funeral rites were conducted in St. Joseph Catholic Church for Marvin P. Behr, 62; his daughter Barbara, 15, and his step - daughter, Mrs. Carol McBrair, 25.

Church Jammed

Services for the fourth victim of the crime, for which James D. McBrair, 27, has been charged with four counts of first degree murder, were Wednesday afternoon at the Assembly of God Church. The fourth victim was Cheryle Oleson, 14, who had been babysitting in the cottage for Mrs. McBrair's two children.

More than 500 relatives and friends jammed the church for services conducted by the Rev. George Weix.

The closed coffins were taken from Goult - Patterson - Hardell Funeral Home to the church shortly before the start of services.

Behr's flag - draped coffin was the last to be taken into the church and the last to be removed after the services. Inside the church, Behr's coffin was flanked by the two holding his daughter and stepdaughter.

Wautoma American Legion Post 317 provided a six-man honor guard for Behr at the church and at graveside. He was a veteran of World War II.

Father Weix began his rites with the reading of Psalm 50 from the Old Testament of the Bible and closed with the reading of Psalm 114.

Several newspaper photographers, television cameramen and reporters were at the church, but remained outside with their cameras at the request of the family.

Begin Testing

Thursday also was the day that McBrair began receiving psychiatric examinations at Central State Hospital in Waupun. The examinations, which are not to exceed 60 days, have been ordered by Circuit Judge Robert H. Gollmer Baraboo.

Jon Wilcox, the Wautoma attorney who was appointed McBrair's defense counsel by Waushara County Judge Boyde Clark, said Thursday if McBrair is found to be mentally capable of standing trial, he will request a preliminary hearing in County Court. When McBrair was formally arraigned Wednesday morning in County Court and then bound over to Circuit Court, Wilcox reserved the right to request a preliminary hearing at a later date.

Practically all details surrounding the four deaths have been withheld by Waushara authorities who have cited Supreme Court rulings regarding pre-trial publicity. All they have revealed is that the murder weapon was a .22 caliber rifle and that the deaths occured between 3:30 and 4 a.m. Sunday.

State Suggests Programs at County Home

Report on Volunteers Result of Recent Visits by Department

Recommendations for several new programs and activities for residents of the Outagamie County Golden Age Home were contained in a State Department of Public Welfare report received today by County Board Chairman Sylvester Esler.

The report, the state agency noted, is a result of visits to the Golden Age Home within the past year by department representatives.

One recommendation was for record-keeping of all volunteer work assignments.

Brief Workers

It said volunteer workers at the home should be briefed for individual assignments at the time of each visit; that they be given in-srevcie training in each activity until they are ready to work by themselves in the home's wards, and that they meet with home supervisors each time they leave to discuss questions and problems they encountered.

"Later," the report stated, "when the staff feels it is possible to expand the program, volunteers may be assigned to perform a few additional activities."

Some of the activities recommended were poetry reading groups, literary classes, game and discussion groups, fortune telling and guessing games, puzzles and conundrums, taking residents for rides with the approval of the home's administrator, reading, visiting and writing letters on referral.

Make Decorations

Others were helping the residents to make party or seasonal decorations, making layettes or crib-sized quilts for needy children, making large-size comforters for needy families, preparing crafts, helping with typing or giving personal appearance assistance.

MANITOWOC (AP) — Cora Belle Young, who pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the Dec. 22 shooting of 38-year-old Raymond Orr in the farmhouse where they lived in rural Chilton, was placed on five years probation Thursday by Circuit Judge F. H. Schlichting.

Miss Young testified that she shot Orr after he came home drunk and beat her.

Dist. Atty. Robert Koutnik, who reduced the original charge of second degree murder, told the court Orr's blood had an alcohol content of .19 per cent. The legal test for drunkenness in Wisconsin is .15.

Cutting Torch Ignites Parking Ramp Material

Sparks from a cutting torch were blamed for a fire that damaged about 100 board-feet of building material about 11 a.m. this morning at the Soldier's Square parking ramp now being constructed.

Firemen, who had the fire out in about five minutes, said the blaze started in tarpaulins and building forms. Firemen remained at the scene about 25 minutes.

Drive for Members Tops Goal for 'Y'

Appleton Facility Gains 6,105 For Facility; Extend Discount

The 1967 membership campaign goal of 6,000 for the Appleton Family YMCA was surpassed by 105 memberships, Dr. William Chandler, board president, has announced.

The original two-week campaign began Feb. 14 but was extended one week. The 10 per cent discount for new members plus those whose membership expires later but who promised to renew now, will apply until Wednesday, he announced.

Mrs. James Mohr headed the top division in the campaign with 430 members signed Eugene Jones was second with 225; Mrs. William Chandler, third, 144, and Gene Schmidtke, fourth, 140.

High Teams

High teams were led by Mrs Pearl Kottmer with 296 memberships; Robert Mickelson, 66, and Dr. Chandler, 52.

High individual campaigners were John Bartman with 219; Wesley Newhouse, 53 and Mrs. obert Kolosso, 47.

Dr. Charles Fenlon and Mrs. John Stevens, campaign co-chairman, received congratulations from the executive committee.

"This certainly guarantees that the YMCA will continue to serve the community on the same high level as in the past," said Dr. Chandler. "The growing membership also stresses the need to make plans to complete the building at the earliest opportunity," he added.

Parole Violator, Runaway Girl Are Held in Custody

A 20-year-old parole violator and a 16-year-old girl, both from New York, are in custody in the Outagamie County jail after their apprehension by Appleton detectives and an agent of the state probation and parole department Thursday afternoon.

Authorities received a tip about 3:30 p.m. that the couple probably was staying at the home of a 26-year-old man in the 2200 block of N. Richmond street.

Police, who found the youth and the girl at the home, said New York authorities have been notified of the apprehension. They said William Russell, 20, Arvene, N.Y., is being held as a runaway, police said

The girl, from Bronx, N.Y., is being held as a runaway, police said.

Bus Referendum to be Aired for Meeting of Holy Name Societies

KIMBERLY — Joseph Cummings, Appleton attorney, will speak on the school bus referendum at a breakfast meeting of Holy Name Societies from St. John Church, Little Chute, and Holy Name of Jesus Church following the 8 a.m. Sunday mass at the latter parish.

Men from the two parishes are to receive communion in a body at the mass after which they will assemble in the school gym for a joint meeting.

Plan Two Committees

Meeting Goals Set for Round the Lake Group

Creation of two new technical committees will be the goal of a special meeeting of the Around-the-Lakes Steering Committee of the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission which has been called for March 28.

The meeting, scheduled for 10 a.m. in the auditorium of the Home Mutual Insurance Co. building, Town of Menasha, has been called by Sylvester Esler, Outagamie County Board chairman and head of the steering committee.

In letters which he sent out today, Esler said the committee "has made progress in defining the general areas of mutual resource and land-use problems, electing officers, and creating the two new technical committees."

Defining Tasks

However, Esler said in his letter, "the committee still has the tasks of defining its role regarding inter-county cooperation, setting specific goals, organizing its operating procedures, and outling the responsibilities of the two new technical committees."

Esler said the committees, which would be made up of citizen members, would deal separately with problems in water purification and land-use areas.

Today's letters went to chairman of six Fox Valley area county boards; they were Joseph Drexler, Winnebago County; Marvin W. Knecht, Green Lake County; Ernest C. Freund, Fond du Lac County; C. J. Hipke, Calumet County; Carl E. Sturm, Waupaca County; and Elmer Weiland, Waushara County.

Appleton Water Grant Awaits Decision of Officials at Chicago

Documents supporting Appleton's request for a $1.5 million water project grant have been forwarded to federal officials at Chicago and a decision is expected within a matter of weeks.

Mayor George Buckley said Wednesday that city officials supplied information and data requested of them by Edward Bruder, acting director of the regional office of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) at Chicago.

The Appleton Council sent an eight-man delegation to Chicago three weeks ago and met with Bruder. Eighth Dist. Rep. John Byrnes (R-Green Bay) and Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D-Wis.) also attended.

Buckley said the brief sent Bruder contained information he requested, namely:

—Assurance Lake Winnebago waters will continue to provide a satisfactory raw water supply source once the city constructs a pipeline.

Mostly Reusable

—A guarantee that the proposed facilities needed for tapping Lake Winnebago could also be used for the most part (90 per cent) if and when Appleton decides to go to Lake Michigan in 10 to 15 years or more.

"Forwarding the information has been delayed pending our receiving the necessary information from the communities and engineering firms involved," Buckley wrote Bruder.

In conjunction with the Lake Winnebago project, the city furnished Bruder with:

—A copy of the Wisconsin Resources Control Low, providing for the granting of powers and a comprehensive program under a single state agency for "policing" the state's water resources.

Oshkosh's Efforts

—A letter from the public works director at Oshkosh indicating the extent of that city's efforts to improve the quality of Lake Winnebago waters through sewage treatment plant improvements and additions.

—Another letter from the works director at Fond du Lac describing what is being done there to improve sewage treatment and halt the polluting of the big inland body of water.

—Communications from two Chicago consulting firms — one in charge of designing the pipeline and shoreline intake, and the other a $1.5 million addition to the existing filtration plant — stating that the facilities for the most part could be used in the event the city went to Lake Michigan.

—A letter from the executive director of the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission, indicating action by that group to further the cleanup of Lake Winnebago waters.

Buckley said copies of all documents also were sent to Rep. Byrnes and Sen. Nelson, who asked to be kept informed of the situation.

Safety Officer Post Proposed For Outagamie

Action Taken After Council Hears Details From Brown County

Officials of the Outagamie County Safety Council Thursday night proposed establishment of a public safety officer post in the sheriff's department.

The recommendation, supported by Sheriff Norbert Marx, came after an information meeting headed by Sgt. James Pierquet, safety officer for the Brown County traffic police department.

Fifteen persons were at the courthouse meeting called by the county safety unit. Included were Marx, Sgt. Edward Metko, Board Chairman Sylvester Esler, and several Outagamie County supervisors, including representatives of the board's law enforcement committee.

Hear Officer

Pierquet, safety officer for four of the eight years the program has been in existence in Brown County, said his duties include coordinating vehicle inspection and registration programs and public safety programs, with emphasis on those relating to schools.

He said about half of his work is in the schools.

He also handles the county's bicycle registration, inspection and safety program, phases of the school bus safety program, and assists in the department officer training program. Although his job as safety officer is full time, he also is a vacation replacement for some of the ranking officers.

Pierquet said his 1957 budget, exluding his salary and car expense, is $4,170. His salary is $630 a month.

Has Equipment

The police sergeant, who said he assists in driver education programs, has a variety of camera, sound and safety equipment for his work.

Marx supported establishment of a safety officer position in his department, and explained the duties should be assigned full time to one man. Traffic police now do some public safety promotion work, mostly in the schools.

Appleton Supv. George Greisch, chairman of the law enforcement committee, promised close review of a safety director plan, should one be formally presented.

Esler said he has requested additional information on the plan from Myron Lotto, Brown County board chairman.

County safety council officials also pledged assistance in efforts to establish a safety officer position and program.

Union, City Reach Accord; Resume Rubbish Collection

Teamsters Ratify Two-Year Contract With Appleton Officials Ending One-Day Work Stoppage

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Municipal labor peace was restored this morning when members of Teamsters Local 563 ratified a two-year contract with the city, ending a one day work stoppage which halted rubbish-garbage collections in Appleton.

Agreement was reached between the union and the city's personnel committee at 10:07 p.m. Thursday, following a special city council meeting which capped an estimated 20 hours of mediation.

When negotiations broke down Monday night, Mayor George Buckley called in Wisconsin Labor Relations Board mediators. The work stoppage of 83 public works employes Thursday morning also prompted him to call the council together.

In a 59-minute executive session Thursday night, the council authorized the personnel committee to present the Teamsters with a new proposal to end the stalemate at the bargaining table.

Cost $55,000

The new contract package — consisting of wage increases, improved health-welfare contribution and other fringes — will cost the city an estimated $55,000.

By mid-morning most employes had reported for work and garbage and rubbish collections were resumed, along with street maintenance.

Terms of the contract call for a 15-cent hourly pay hike this year, retroactive to Jan. 1, and a 14-cent boost in 1968.

The city also agreed to pay 70 per cent of the insurance premium as of April 1, 1967 and 85 per cent beginning with Jan. 1, 1968.

The Teamsters gained an additional paid holiday, raising the year's total to seven, along with a half day off on Good Friday.

Call-in pay was boosted from two to four hours, and public works employes will receive double pay for work on Sundays instead of time-and-a-half.

Clothing Details

Night differential pay was increased from 15 to 20 cents an hour.

New changes in vacation policy include five weeks for 25

Agent for 4-H Girls Is Hired

Sharon Hutjens, route 2, West DePere, was selected by the Outagamie County Board's agriculture and conservation committee today to fill the position of 4-H Economics Agent.

She is a 1966 graduate from Stout State University where she majored in home economics education and since last September has been teaching home economics at Shawano High School.

During the summer of 1965 Miss Hutjens was employed as a summer 4-H club agent for Outagamie County. She will assume her new position on June 12.

She worked with William Shaw, county 4-H agent, on girls' project exhibits at the county fair last summer.

The county still needs a home economics agent to work with the adult women in the county to replace Mrs. Elda Burke who resigned late last year.

Supervisors to View Accounting Equipment

Outagamie County Executive Secretary Alvin Woehler and members of the county board's purchasing and general accounts committee will be out of town next week to examine modern accounting equipment

County officials, according to board chairman Sylvester Esler, are attempting to inaugurate a centralized bookkeeping service which would do the work for all branches of county government.

The Outagamie delegation will be in Two Rivers on Tuesday to look at National Cash Register Co. equipment and will be in Chicago on Wednesday to look at Burroughs Corp. equipment.

Arrangements and setups will be demonstrated which can be adopted to use in Outagamie County, Esler said.

Revenue Bonds to Finance New Ramp

Special Pre-Payment Feature Recommended by Consulate

Revenue bonds with a special call-in or pre-payment feature have been recommended for issuance to finance the $1.2 million Soldiers Square parking ramp.

A financing study and analytical report on the city's overall parking program was submitted to Appleton officials Thursday by T. G. Evensen and Associates, Inc., Minneapolis - headquartered municipal finance consultants.

Lyle R. Olson, representing the firm, asked for a Wednesday meeting with city officials to elaborate on the report.

Bank Note Financing

Proposed financing for thre 450-car ramp, now under construction through a short term bank note, would be for the following: land acquisition, $210,000; construction contracts and architect fees, $800,000; fund bond reserve, $100,000; and other, $90,000.

With completion of the ramp, Appleton will have 2,500 metered parking spaces.

"Ramps experience what appears to be relatively high utilization, indicating public acceptance of this type of parking in Appleton," the report said.

It was pointed out, however, that with the removal of angle parking from College Avenue there will be 130 less on-street parking spaces available, with the Soldiers Square ramp having to absorb the loss.

The East, West and Soldiers Square ramps — all constructed within the last five years, will hold a total of 1,150 vehicles.

Substantial Revenues

With reference to issuing revenue bonds that would be subject to call-in to finance the new ramp, the consultants said projected income figures indicate that net income revenues will be substantial and the city would likely want to pre-pay some of the financing.

It would give the city an advantage of reinvesting surplus money in the parking fund at 3 and 3.5 per cent, the consultants added, indicating the city would have more latitude in planning projects for future years.

Establishment of a parking system fund was recommended. However, consultants advocated sub-accounts for improvement, operations, revenue bonds, meter replacement and surplus.

Three debt retirement plans were suggested, covering 15, 21 and 26 year revenue bond issues.

Teachers Union To Vote on Pact

MENASHA — The contract agreement arrived at through mediation between the members of Local 1035, AFL-CIO, and the board of education will be presented for approval at the regular meeting of the board 7 p.m. Monday.

Arthur Kirby, mediator for the Wisconsin Employment Relations Board, has met with both groups in a number of sessions to settle a point of difference in a contract which was agreed upon in total last August except for a few items of semantics.

$4 Per Day Room Cost Hike

Theda Clark to Raise Rates

NEENAH — Hospital room rates per patient are scheduled to increase $4 per day starting May 1 at Theda Clark Memorial Hospital, it was learned today.

A notice from the hospital, apparently intended for employers in the area, announced the new rates early this year, although hospital officials have not yet made formal announcements through the press.

Gerald L. Aldridge signed the notice which was dated Jan. 24.

Addressing the announcement "to whom it may concern," Aldridge said: "Approximately 70 per cent of our operating dollar is for the salaries of highly technical, skilled and other personnel. The increase in the daily service charge is for nursing department, and other personnel salary increases, and increasing costs for procuring supplies and patient commodities."

The rate increases as posted would raise daily charges per patient from $27.50 to $31.50 for a deluxe private room; from $25.50 to $29.50 for a standard private room, and from $21.50 to $25.50 for semi-private accommodations.

Other new rates would include three or four-bed rooms, $24.50; pediatrics for children to 14 years of age, $24.50; nursery, $8.50; nursery boarder, $10 and intensive care, $40.50.

Comparisons of these types of room with current rates were not immediately available.

The last increase in rates at Theda Clark was last Sept. 1, when a $3 per day increase took effect.

At that time, Aldridge was careful to point out that rates at the local hospital were below those at similar hospitals in the area despite the increase.

On the national level, it was predicted by the American Hospital Association earlier this week that the national average of hospital costs including room rates and other costs of care would rise 18.6 per cent this year over last year's costs.

Wages, which nationally make up 60 to 70 per cent of hospital care costs, also were expected to be responsible for much of the national increases, it was reported.

Theft Reported on Church Coin Boxes

MENASHA — Police are searching for a thief that broke a door pane at St. Mary's Catholic Church and after forcing entry pried open two coin donation boxes in the vestibule, taking an unlisted amount of change. The burglary was discovered early Thursday morning.

$5,500 Base Set for Teacher Pay at Hilbert

Agreement Reached For 1967-68 After Lengthy Negotiations

HILBERT — A teachers' salary schedule has been approved for the 1967-68 school year at Hilbert Public Schools following negotiations between the faculty and school board over the last two months.

Base pay for a bachelor's degree will be $5,500 a year with a 4 per cent increase through step six; 3.5 per cent increase steps seven through 11 and 3 per cent increase for steps 12 and 13.

Teachers with a bachelor's degree plus 15 credits will receive $5,600 with $220 increases for each step through six; $193 for steps seven through 11 and $265 for steps 12 and 13.

Minimum salary for a master's degree is $5,900 with a maximum of $8,393 for 13 years experience.

Allowances for extra curricular activities include head football and basketball coaches, $300; assistant football and basketball coaches, $175; freshman football and baseball and track coaches, $125; freshman basketball and elementary art supervisor, $100; spring sports assistant, yearbook, class play, forensics and grade school basketball, $75; solo ensemble and Girls Athletic Association, $50, three forensic assistants $25 each.

Permit Issued For 4-Apartment Building in City

KAUKAUNA — A building permit to construct a 4-apartment building at 525 and 527 Idlewild St. was issued Thursday to Edward Gasner Jr., 1506 E. Main St., Little Chute. Cost was estimated at $40,000.

This will be the first 4-apartment building in the city. It will be a 2-story structure, 40 by 57 feet with 10-inch poured concrete basement and of brick and frame construction. There will be two apartments on each floor and work will be done by Smith Pilgreen Construction and Realty Inc., Neenah.

Winnebago Bar Being Polled on Whether to Rate Judge Candidates

OSHKOSH — Members of the Winnebago County Bar Association are currently being polled on whether they are in favor of conducting a judicial qualifications poll on the various judicial races which will be on the April 4 ballot.

Cards sent out to bar association members are to be returned by Monday indicating whether or not they favor a qualifications poll. If a majority of those returning the cards favor such a poll, ballots will then be sent out, according to association President Gerald Engeldinger.

If there is a favorable report, Engeldinger said all of the judicial candidates, from state supreme court on down, would be included. This would include Chief Justice George Currie, his opponent, Circuit Judge Robert Hansen; Winnebago County Judge James V. Sitter, his opponent, attorney Thomas Williams, and Winnebago County Judge Herbert J. Mueller who is unopposed.

Music Pupils' Recitals Set For Saturday

Preparatory Group From 6 Studios in Lawrence Program

Preparatory music pupils from six Lawrence Conservatory teaching studios will present public recitals at 3:30 and 4:30 p.m. Saturday in Harper Hall at the Lawrence Music-Drama Center.

Performers are students of Frances Clarke Rehl, lecturer in music; Rudolph Matas and Patricia Sayre, teaching specialists in music; Kristin Webb, instructor in music and chairman of special music instruction; Theodore Rehl, associate professor of music, and student teacher Margery Homfeld, a Conservatory senior.

Appearing on the 3:30 p.m. program will be: John Rosebush, Ben Schneider, Sally Ryder, Ricky Okada, Jane Dillingham, Jennie Turrentine, Julie Wegner, Becky Schmidt, Virginia Masse, Rebecca Rehl; Richard Rehl, Valerie Smith, John Kurka, Ann Sager, Suzanne Ueblein, Jene Smith and Debbie Hahn.

Accompanists

Accompanists on the recital will be Carol Van De Loo, Dorothy Kurka and Nancy Jayne.

Soloists on the 4:30 program will be: Carla Lindwahl, Debbie Brammer, Mary Jane Lindloff, Kim Strauss, Jane Becker, Ruth Brethein, Tim Wilson, Rochelle Greve, Helen Suechting, Susan Smith, Kim Koch, Tanya Heiberg.

Accompaniments on the 4:30 program will be played by Peggy Hollinger, Linda Greve and Jennifer Rathbun.

Among the composers represented on the two recitals are Liszt, Clementi, Mendelssohn, Haydn, Mozart, Ibert and Debussy.

Winnebago May Give Approval to Staggered Terms

OSHKOSH — A favorable recommendation is expected to come Tuesday from the Winnebago County Board toward a proposed State Assembly bill which would stagger the terms of county supervisors.

Under the proposed bill, supervisors living in odd-numbered districts would run for a one-year term in 1968 and those in even-numbered districts for a two-year term. After that, all terms would be for two years.

At the present time all 47 county supervisors come up for election in the even-number years.

Theory behind having staggered terms is to assure continuity of county government by making it impossible to have all new supervisors in one year. The average turnover of supervisors in any one election has rarely gone above 10 per cent.

Dates Set For State Conference

The 10th annual Governor's Conference on Children and Youth is scheduled for March 31 and April 1 at the University of Wisconsin campus in Madison.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles will greet persons attending the conference and present Young American Medals to winners of Wisconsin. The conference will be aimed at the role of home, family, education and society in shaping the image and outlook of children up to the age of 12.

Speakers will be Dr. Keith Osborn, Detroit, an educational psychologist; Dr. Mary S. Calderone, New York, executive director of the Sex Information and Sex Education Council of the United States, and Dr. E. H. Jorris, William Kahl and Wilbur J. Schmidt, top state officials of health, education and welfare.

Conference information and registration forms can be acquired by writing Doug Caruso, Wisconsin Youth Committee, District V, 209 Madison St., Oconto.

4-Year Campus Plan Might Need Legislation

CCHE Will Offer Bill if Attorney General Rules Full Program at Schools Is Illegal

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — If the attorney general rules against full four-year operations of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay, legislation would have to be enacted during this session of the legislature to allow the operation of the complete university in 1970, the state Coordinating Committee for Higher Education (CCHE) voted unanimously Thursday.

It took the position in preparation for a coming decision of Atty. Gen. Bronson LaFollette, who has been asked by state administration commissioner George C. Kaiser to rule on the legality of planning being conducted in preparation of the opening of the Green Bay and Kenosha County campuses.

If LaFollette holds that a 1965 law authorizing the start of the new schools does not specifically allow them to offer instruction to all four undergraduate classes in 1970, the CCHE voted, then its executive director Angus Rothwell must insure the introduction of legislation this spring to allow the classes to be offered as planned.

Kaiser has asked LaFollette to rule because legislation creating the school authorizes only a third and fourth year institution to start. He also raised questions about the expenditure of planning funds beyond a statutory limit in the act creating the new schools.

The legislation will be introduced only if LaFollette holds that state planners have been improperly planning the full four-year university without statutory authority.

The action came after adoption of a policy position calling for the opening of the schools as third and fourth year branch campuses in 1969 with conversion to full four-year operations in 1970 by closing the existing Green Bay two-year center and similar schools in Racine and Kenosha.

The position also calls for a 25 per cent space increase for the Green Bay school, and a total project cost for the two campuses which could reach $36 million during the 1967-69 biennium, according to UW vice president Charles Engman.

Milton Neshek, Elkhorn, a state universities regent and member of the CCHE, warned that the sudden boost in enrollments at the two new campuses could be dangerous to existing schools at Whitewater and Oshkosh. The new campuses were planned to divert students from campuses, he said, but too fast an enrollment increase — from a projected 1,300 students under the previous plan to 5,100 students in 1970 under the new proposal — "could leave us not only with empty dormitories, but with empty classrooms."

The Whitewater school recently has been plagued with an excess of dormitory space because of low enrollments.

CCHE chairman Walter Kohler said the time to consider such possibilities "is almost long past." The purpose of the new schools is to slow enrollments at other state institutions, he said.

He called the new proposal "a modest suggestion."

In other actions, the CCHE:

—Voted to express support for cuts made by Gov. Warren P. Knowles in the financing requests of higher educational systems for the coming two years when considered by the legislative Joint Committee on Finance next week. Two exceptions were made — backing a $2 million request for state funding of a share of local equipment costs of the new technical institutes being planned, and a partial backing of a state university research funds request.

The CCHE voted to support restoration of $18,000 of the $284,000 request.

They voted to back almost $50 million in budget reductions, from a total state tax fund request of $354 million.

—Approved the creation of technical school districts in Racine and Waukesha Counties, but took no action on a Fox Valley district made up of Outagamie, Winnebago, Calumet and Waupaca Counties pending further local action to solve area problems.

—Voted to oppose two bills before the Legislature calling for a sizable fee increase for out-of-state UW and state university students. Minimum nonresident enrollment fee would be $1,500, at both systems, compared with the university's present level of $1,050 and the state universities' $625 to $636.

The bills also require that if "actual cost" of educating a student is higher, a higher fee will be charged.

At Madison, under the plan, total fees could reach $1,825 annually.

"We feel that these bills would impose a severe means test on students," said Gale Kelley, a CCHE staff assistant.

—Backed the introduction of legislation creating a statewide educational television system governed by a board containing representatives of both public and private education on all levels. The state-supported system would include four new stations and two translators, to join three educational stations now operating, and a Minnesota transmitter which reaches into Wisconsin.

Total state cost to construct the system, and operate it during the coming biennium, would be $1,265,000, according to the staff. Annual operating costs in the future would be about $691,000.

Federal aid used to start the project would total at least $800,000.

Alcoholism Service Group Incorporates; Elects Board

Charter members of the Citizens Alcoholism Services signed non-profit incorporation papers and elected an 11-member board of directors at a public meeting Thursday night at the Outagamie Bank building.

Purpose of the new agency, according to the legal document which will be filed this week, "shall be to increase public understanding of alcoholism, its nature and treatment: to make this knowledge effective in solving the problem of alcoholism and the promotion of the tenet that the alcoholic can be helped."

Judge Urban Van Susteren, County Court Branch 1, who called the meeting in cooperation with the research and planning committee of United Community Services (UCS) said officers will be elected, and an advisory board appointed at a 7:30 p.m. meeting March 17 at the Outagamie Bank.

Board Elected

About 35 persons attending, elected the board after all nominations were made from the floor. They are Merton Ehricke, Appleton city welfare director; Alice Huck, UCS committee member; the Rev. Orville Jansen, pastor, St. Bernard Catholic Church; Thomas Lesselyong, assistant superintendent, Outagamie County Hospital;

Kenneth Murray, employe, Miller Electric Mfg. Co.; W. C. St. John, engineering staff, Wisconsin Telephone Co.; Fern Smith, secretary to advisory committee to State Alcoholism Services; Mrs. John Stoffel, charge-nurse, psychiatric ward, St. Elizabeth's Hospital; Patrick Toal, marketing and sales consultant; Mrs. Kyle Ward Jr., chairman, UCS alcoholism committee, and Lt. Booth Wood, Salvation Army.

Before the election the group heard a talk by Joseph P. Reese, Dane County alcoholic rehabilitation officer, who explained how he coordinates his work with a treatment center, half-way house, public information and referral center, Dane County courts, and other community resources.

Services Offered

Ehricke offered the services of his office to assist the new group, and explained that a high percentage of his caseload is involved in the problem of alcoholism.

The judge read letters from Allis Chalmers-Appleton plant and the Outagamie Community Guidance Center which indicated its future cooperation.

Support from the audience was offered from the county hospital, the rehabilitation department of Winnebago State Hospital, Good Will Industries, Inc., the clergy and Alcoholics Anonymous members.

Decision Is Awaited on Water Grant

National League of Cities reported under a Washington dateline that HUD's land and facilities development division is gradually digging out from under an anvalanche of applications for water - sewer projects, and turning back many because of lack of funds.

Congress appropriated $100 million for these loans and grants but applications have totaled $2.5 billion.

New Criteria

New criteria to distribute the limited funds, it was reported, will be based on such factors as urgency, comprehensive planning, and overall benefits.

The Appleton situations fits all the federal requirements, and Bruder has given city officials assurance the city's application holds a high priority.

Public Works Director Frank Keuler also said today that copies of Wisconsin Public Service Commission orders giving the city authority to restrict water useage during time of emergency, along with a recent sprinkling ban ordinance adopted by the council, will be sent to Bruder.

Miss Sharon Reigstad, DeForest, the 1966 Miss Wisconsin Teen-Ager, is the teen-age anti-smoking chairman for the Wisconsin Division of the American Cancer Society. Sharon is 16, a junior at DeForest High School and does not smoke. Sharon's advice is that the best way to stop smoking is not to start and that even if parents do smoke, it does not mean it is a good health habit for youth to start.

7 Fishermen Fined Total Of $305 in Calumet Court

CHILTON — Seven fisherman paid fines and bond forfeitures totaling $305 in Calumet County Court this week for game law violations.

Paying $75 fines for failure to tag sturgeons were Arnold Reinat, route 1, Chilton; Orlando Bauer, Sherwood, and Orley V. Grow, Greenville, Mich.

Reinat was arrested Feb. 11 on Lake Winnebago off the Town of Stockbridge shoreline. Both Bauer and Grow were arrested Feb 18 off the Town of Harrison shoreline. Arrests were made by Conservation Warden Richard Streng.

Paying $10 fines for failing to obtain sturgeon licenses were David J. Vendel, New Holstein, and Charles De Kulek, Manitowoc.

Fines of $25 for possessing another person's sturgeon tag were paid by Lee Getschow, Kenilworth, Ill. and Joseph Enders, route 1, Menasha. The arrests were made in the Town of Harrison.

Peter D. Tadyck, Fond du Lac, was fined $10 for fishing with more than three lines. He was arrested in the Town of Brothertown.

Hospital Fire Call Due To Short in Alarm Wire

AVS Okays Participation In Intern Teacher Program

Contract University Students For One Semester Assignments

Participation in the new intern program, whereby persons studying vocational fields in one of the state universities are assigned to a vocational school for one semester, was approved Thursday by the Appleton Vocational School Board.

Under the program rules, the intern teacher would be contracted for a semester and would work under the guidance of the regular teacher. The intern would receive eight credits toward graduation and a stipend of $1,200.

According to Milton Ness, director, there is a teacher shortage, though not acute, in the AVS machine shop and graphic arts department.

To Seek Intern

Applications for at least one and not more than two such interns will be made this month, Ness said.

Ness told the board that the program's big advantage is that it presents an opportunity for the intern to evaluate the school and if the arrangement works out to the satisfaction of everyone, the student may contract with the school after graduation, if a need exists.

In other business, Ness informed the board that a problem may arise with the summer school business education program because of a lack of a summer school in the Appleton Public School System.

Daily Calls

He said many calls were received daily by interested persons who would like to enroll in such courses as typing or bookkeeping.

The AVS rules state that a person has to be 16 or have completed his or her junior year in order to enroll. After some discussion, the board decided not to change this rule but felt that limitations on enrollments would have to be set since it is not the intent of the program to supply summer school for high school students.

No high school credit will be given for these courses, as in the past, Ness said.

Teamsters Okay City Contract; Resume Work

years and four weeks for 17 years.

In addition some clothing details were worked out, along with contract language clarification.

Mayor Buckley, ailing with the flu, sat in on the council meeting and then went home.

"I am certainly grateful for the assistance received from the WERB mediators and I am very happy about the settlement. The new contract is fair to both the city and union," Buckley said in a statement this morning.

"I am glad to have been able to play the role I did and am also pleased the council came up with the solutions and a total effort," Buckley added.

Terms Detailed

The terms of the contract were detailed at a joint, open meeting of city and union officials late Thursday night by Arthur Kirby, the WERB mediator who was assigned to the dispute and conducted 11 straight hours of mediation Wednesday, resuming again Thursday.

He was joined yesterday afternoon by Commissioner Arvid Anderson, Madison, a member of the Wisconsin Employment Relations Board.

Ald. John MacDonald (7th), personnel committee chairman, was the city's chief negotiator, assisted by Personnel Director Jerry Rusch. Robert Schlieve, secretary-treasurer of Local 563, headed the union bargaining team.

When the personnel committee's offer was presented to the union membership Thursday morning, it precipitated the work stoppage on a unanimous vote. The 83 workers again were unanimous today — this time approving the latest proposal.

Brief Statements

Principals in the negotiations, which resulted in concessions on both sides, made brief statements after reaching accord.

Schlieve praised the work of the mediators and indicated the dispute would not have been resolved without them. "The union regrets any inconvenience to the taxpayers but it (work stoppage) was our only alternative to restore the collective bargaining process," he said.

MacDonald, whose committee this year put in more hours than any previous group and had several unions and associations to deal with, commented, "I'm happy to have a settlement. I think we all are."

Earlier in the day, the personnel committee requested the men return to work while negotiations continued but this was rejected by the union, which claimed the workers were "out on protest until a satisfactory agreement is reached."

Negotiations Continued

Negotiations had continued until an hour before the council meeting with the union representatives turning down a 14-13 cent wage package offer.

When the council meeting ended at 8:36 p.m., Ald. Roy Pointer (14th), council president, announced the personnel committee would resume negotiations with the union, and Anderson and Kirby went back to work meeting with both parties.

The prediction by some aldermen as they left city hall that, "It will be all over with in 10 minutes," did not materialize when there appeared to be some confusion as to who would be the official city spokesman with authority to make finalizing commitments.

On the first offer during the post-council meeting negotiations, Schlieve claimed the city was engaging in "regressive bargaining" and threatened to leave city hall.

Resulted in Settlement

However, it was established the council had made a proposal in its discussion with the personnel committee, and there appeared to be area for the additional movement which did finally result in a settlement.

The initial request for the special council meeting was made by the personnel committee after DPW employes reported to the municipal garage early Thursday but failed to go to work.

But Public Works Director Frank Keuler said there was nothing serious. However, he indicated if the stoppage would have continued over the weekend, the department would have had major problems.

Keuler reported normal pickups were being resumed today.

Youth Held for Circuit Court

Elroy Barth, 18, Appleton, Charged In Jewelry Case

An 18-year-old Appleton youth, arraigned Feb. 26 on a charge of receiving stolen jewelry, Thursday afternoon was bound over to Circuit Court after a preliminary examination in Outagamie County Branch 2 Court.

Elroy Barth, 721 N. Morrison St., remained in jail after the examination in lieu of posting $2,500 bond. He is scheduled to enter a plea today.

Barth and Darrell Kaiser, 40, same address, were charged last month after an investigation by Appleton police detectives. Barth was charged with receiving and concealing a man's wrist watch while Kaiser was accused of receiving and concealing two men's rings and a woman's wrist watch.

Police said a 17-year-old Appleton youth stole the jewelry, worth approximately $4,600, from the Eugene Hopfensperger home, 534 N. Garfield Place Feb. 16.

State School

The youth has been returned to the state school for boys at Wales.

Police allege Barth purchased the watch for approximately $5 from the youth sometime during the afternoon of Feb. 18.

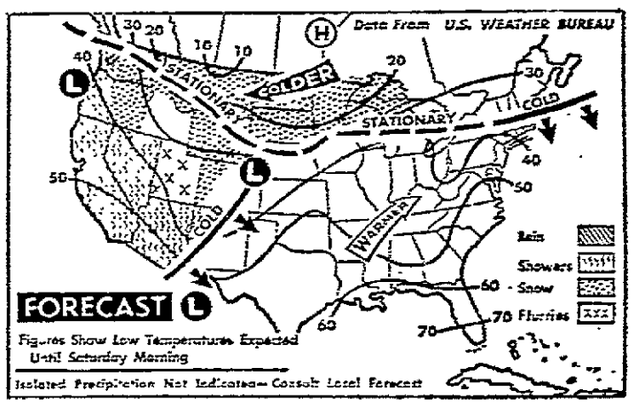
Three witnesses were called to the stand Thursday by Richard Hamilton, assistant district attorney. The witnesses were Eugene Hopfensperger, Det. Sgt. Carl H. Thiel and James Jones, 19, 1030 Christine St., an acquaintance of Barth's.

Hopfensperger testified he bought the watch about three and a half years ago in an Oshkosh jewelry store. It was purchased for approximately $350, he said.

Recovered Watch

Thiel, one of the detectives conducting the investigation, said he recovered the watch at the Barth home Feb. 20.

A statement which Jones said he dictated to Appleton police was admitted as evidence. The statement said, in part, that Jones was present when the youth who allegedly stole the jewelry told Barth the jewelry was "kind of 'hot'."



Showers Are Forecast Tonight along the Pacific coast and in the southern and central Plateaus. Snow is expected in the northern Plateaus and Plains, and in portions of the upper Mississippi Valley. It will be colder in the northern states. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Use Napkins or Hankies To Make Nifty Parachutes

BY CAPPY DICK

The miniature parachute and its passenger described as today's fun-project can be used indoors or out.

An ordinary paper napkin, if square, will do as the parachute material, although a handkerchief of very thin cloth will be far more enduring. You will also need four pieces of stout thread, each a foot and a half or two feet long, depending upon the size of the napkin or handkerchief. Tie one of these threads to each corner of the napkin as shown in the illustration above.

Paper Napkins

You now will need a pipe cleaner to mold the figure of the man. Cut off a short piece to become his arms. Loop the remainder of the cleaner to form a head, body and legs. Slip the arm-piece through the part which you have twisted to form the body. Tie the four parachute threads to the man's head. To launch the parachute, stand on a chair, grasp the center of the napkin with your thumb and forefinger and let it drop. The parachute will billow out and float the passenger slowly and gracefully to the floor.

Expect Lincoln Will Roll Past Salem Quintet

Racine Park Also Rated Favorite In Sectional Tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Milwaukee Lincoln, far and away the favorite for a second straight Wisconsin high school basketball crown, is primed to move a step closer to Madison tonight as the Comets meet lightly regarded Salem in a Racine Sectional semifinal.

Top-ranked Lincoln, averaging 103 points a game, will be tuning up for what could be the last formidable obstacle in the path of another title — A Saturday night match with third-ranked Racine Park.

Park (20-1) is expected to advance to the sectional finals by beating Greenfield (17-4), the Parkland Conference champions tonight.

"We have been figuring all along we would have to meet Park," said Lincoln Coach Jim Smallins. "It should be quite a game."

Shooting Average

Lincoln (20-1) has been shooting at a 51 per cent precision rate from the floor. Its starters have shooting averages ranging from 46 per cent to 56 per cent.

Park, which could run into trouble should it take the Greenfield challenge lightly, has scrimmaged with Lincoln this season. It has also scouted Lincoln.

"He (the scout) didn't find any weaknesses," said Park Coach Don Gardner. "He found some things that weren't as strong as others. Whether we can exploit those things is another problem," he said.

Park has Tom Manchester, a 5-foot-10 guard who ranks with

Jerry Kramer to Speak at The All-Fox Cities Banquet

Little Chute's JCs Sponsor Event March 27

An all-Fox Cities athletic banquet, sponsored by the Little Chute Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be held March 27 in the Darboy Club.

Jerry Kramer, right guard of the world champion Green Bay Packers, will be the principal speaker.

Athletes to be honored are the members of the all-Fox Cities football team, which was picked by The Post-Crescent last fall and the all-Fox Cities basketball unit, which will be picked by the newspaper in the near future.

The Little Chute JCs have voted a "Youth and Leadership" award to Packer Quarterback Bart Starr for his outstanding contributions to Rawhide, Inc. John Gillespie, who heads the Rawhide project, will accept the award for Starr.

Each of the players honored will receive a trophy from the Jaycees.

The Post - Crescent will also award each player a certificate, and the presentations will be made by Sports Editor John Paustian.

The master of ceremonies will be Bob Lloyd.

Tickets for the public can be purchased at seven Fox Cities outlets: Look's Drugs, Kaukauna; Vanderloop Shoes, Little Chute; Kimberly State Bank; Bank of Menasha; First National Bank of Neenah; and the Berggren and Pond Sports Shops, Appleton.

Sam McDowell, of Indians, Arrested On Drunk Charge

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Sam McDowell, the American League's strikeout king in 1965 and one of Cleveland's big hopes for 1967, was arrested Wednesday night on a drunk charge, Tucson police department records showed Thursday.

Sgt. William Hogan and patrolman Calvin Dotson arrested McDowell at a nightspot, according to the booking slip. He posted $10 bond and was released.

McDowell did not accompany the Indians on an exhibition game trip to Mexico City.

Manager Joe Adcock was with the team, and President Gabe Paul was in Chicago. Club officials here for spring training declined comment.

GREEN BAY — In an excellent position to repeat, the Waterloo's winging Black Hawks return to home ice this weekend to press their bid for an unprecedented fourth straight United States Hockey League championship.

Although still one point back of the pacesetting Green Bay Bobcats, the Black Hawks need only to split their six remaining games — all at home — to clinch the USHL title.

Two of those come up this weekend, when the fast finishing Marquette Iron Rangers (four straight wins) invade Waterloo's McElroy Auditorium to challenge the defending champions in a Saturday night-Sunday afternoon series. It is the only action scheduled.

Their title hopes jolted by a double loss to the Black Hawks in Green Bay last weekend, the Bobcats now must get outside assistance and mount a big finish if they hope to dethrone Bud McRae's talented Iowans.

In order for the Bobcats to finish on top, the Iron Rangers and the Rochester Mustangs, who invade Waterloo next weekend, would have to split their four meetings with the Black Hawks, and the Green Bay skaters would have to sweep their season - ending series with the Hawks in Waterloo March 25-26.

24 Selections Coming

Packers Get Second Most Picks in Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — The New Orleans Saints will get the most picks, despite several trades, and the pro champion Green Bay Packers will be next in number, because of earlier trades, when the American and National Football Leagues hold their first combined draft next week.

The Saints, starting their first year as the NFL's 16th team, will draft first and last in each of the 17 rounds beginning Tuesday morning with extra choices after the second, third and fourth rounds.

However, the new club traded two of its picks, including its No. 1 choice to Baltimore, and will have 35 selections in all.

The Packers, as a result of previous trades, will have 24 choices in the draft of 445 college seniors.

Baltimore, Buffalo, Houston and Philadelphia will get 21 selections; Chicago 19, and Cleveland, Denver, Minnesota, the New York Jets and San Francisco 18 each.

Atlanta and Kansas City get 17 each; Detroit, Oakland, St. Louis, San Diego and Washington 16 each; Boston and Miami 15 each; Dallas 14; Pittsburgh 13; the New York Giants 12, and Los Angeles 10.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle earlier announced the elimination of the redshirt draft of players who have college football eligibility remaining although their original college class is to be graduated. Last year, 65 redshirts, or futures, were selected by the two

Long, Grabowski Slated for Active Duty With 'Guard'

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Packer end Bob Long and former Packer Phil Vandersea, now of the New Orleans Saints, will go on a five-month tour of active duty in the army, it was announced today by officials of the Wisconsin army National Guard at Green Bay.

Duty will start around March 20 for the two members of the Green Bay National Guard unit. Also going on a tour of duty for five months will be the Packer's Jim Grabowski, who is a member of the Oshkosh National Guard.

Donny Anderson started his tour of duty the week after the Super Bowl game and will be out in time for the opening of Packer practice in mid-July. Long and Grabowski will finish their tour shortly after practice starts.

Watt to Miss Remainder of Spring Drills

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Pitcher Eddie Watt of the Baltimore Orioles is expected to be out for the remainder of spring training as a result of Wednesday's baserunning accident.

Watt received a broken nose, a fracture of the lower rim of the left optical bone and an eye hemorrhage when he was hit by a wild throw while sliding into third in a baserunning drill.

Dr. Leonard Wallenstein, team physician for the Orioles, said Thursday that the eye is clearing up but that the 24-year-old righthander must remain inactive for three weeks.

"Eddie's vision is less blurred," said the doctor, "but he must remain absolutely quiet to guard against a recurrence of the hemorrhage."

NFL 'Point Fixing' Probe Reported by Newspaper

Rozelle Aide Meets With Investigator

NEW YORK (AP) — Officials of the National Football League and the Nassau County district attorney are investigating reports of point fixing in the league last fall, the New York Post said Thursday.

The newspaper reported William G. Hundley, a special assistant to NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, and Dist. Atty. William Cahn met Wednesday and discussed "reports that points in at least 19 NFL games last fall were rigged."

A spokesman for Cahn's office confirmed that Cahn and Hundley met, but called it only a "general exchange of information."

Rozelle was unavailable for comment, but an NFL spokesman said it is routine for Hundley to converse with investigative officers in various levels of government.

Last November, Rozelle confirmed reports that Hundley was conducting a general investigation of continuing rumors in the American Football League, but declined to give details.

Cahn, who has been investigating what he calls a $100 million sports gambling ring, had said he had been told bookies took four AFL games "off the board" last season, indicating gamblers were suspicious of the games. He also said he found that one of the two biggest bookmakers and bettors in the country "picked 19 of 20 winners" in pro football games last season and was even able to pick the point spread of the games.

Erickson, Fleener, and LaViolette Win Writers' Coaching Awards

Oshkosh and Manitowoc Leaders Share Fox River Valley Conference Honors

Don Erickson, who defied the experts and guided Oshkosh High School to within a game of the Fox River Valley Conference championship, and Ed Fleener, who led Manitowoc to a tie for that same basketball title, were today named "Co-Coaches of the Year" by the Fox River Valley Sportswriters Association.

At the head coaching job at

Fleener

Manitowoc for only two years, Fleener has brought his club to one second place finish, and the tie for the FRVC championship (with Green Bay West).

Only one letterman returned to the Indians from a year ago when OHS had finished in a tie for the runnerup spot behind Green Bay West. That letterman, Bob Kleinschmidt, turned out to be Erickson's floor leader.

Erickson's most important work was with senior center Jon Weber, a player who played little in the past. Weber became an all-conference performer.

A former Madison East prep star and Whitewater collegiate star, Erickson coached at Beaver Dam and Lake Geneva before coming to Oshkosh eight years ago. He was awarded the Purple Heart during the Korean War.

The sharing of the honor by Erickson and Fleener marked only the second time in FRVC history that such a situation has occurred. In 1956, football coaches Ade Dillon, of Appleton, and Al Reed, of Green Bay East, were honored together.

Manitowoc was rated one of the prime contenders in preseason poll, and every game became a crucial one for the Ships. Fleener brought them through to a co-title. He built a well-balanced club. Only one Ship — Pete Wilke — ranked among the league's top 10 scorers.

Fleener is a native of Matoon, Ill.

Pennings Mentor Captures 1966-7 Honors in FVCC

Don LaViolette, who guided the De Pere Abbot Pennings to a co-third place finish in the Fox Valley Catholic Conference, has been named "coach of the year" in the loop by the Valley Sportswriters Association.

The 35-year-old LaViolette

started the season with only two players with any varsity experience back and his charges were picked to finish seventh in the 8-team loop.

Returning for the Squires were Dale Smith and Dave Doro who had worked their way up to the sixth and seventh spots on the varsity a year before.

LaViolette, a graduate of St. Norbert College, built his squad stressing defense. A matchup zone defense combined with the blocking of shots by Smith, a 6-feet-3 guard and center, was the key to the season.

Because of a lack of experience of the players working together, Pennings got off to a slow start, winning only two of its first eight games and posting a 1-2 loop record.

Then the Squires jelled and won six straight, five in the conference and had a 6-2 conference record. Then they dropped three games, two in the final two minutes before winning a pair and closed out with a one point loss to Oshkosh Lourdes in a game which saw the lead change hands 24 times.

Numbered among the Squires' feats were double victories over highly regarded Menasha St. Mary and Premontre, a 4 point loss to champion Appleton Xavier and a 4 point loss in overtime to runnerup Marinette Central.

LaViolette coached one year at Fond du Lac Springs and two years at Beloit Catholic where he handled the football, basketball and baseball teams before coming to Pennings in 1959.

Sanders Shares 'Citrus' Lead With Reframe

Doug Needs Only 25 Putts; Palmer, Gary Player 1 Back

By RON SPEER

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Dean Reframe hasn't had many big paydays in the six-year career as a golf professional, and the little guy with the bad eyes would really like to boost his bankroll by winning the Citrus Open.

A victory would give him $23,000 — nearly double his official career earnings as a golfer — and he's got a son now to spend it on.

Unconventional Style

The Reframs' first boy after two daughters was born 10 days ago, and the 5-foot-6 Floridian is prouder of the youngster than he was of his five-under-par 66 Thursday which gave him a share of the lead with Doug Sanders in the first round of the tournament.

Reframe putts through his legs, like a croquet player, because his vision is bad on conventional putting methods, and he needed only 10 putts in a blazing 30 on the back nine for his best round of the year.

The fine start put Reframe — who officially has won just over $30,000 since joining the pro tour in 1961 — in position to make a strong bid for his first tournament championship.

However, Reframe's putter wasn't as hot as that used by Sanders, the wisecracking Georgian who set a 1967 tour low by using only 25 putts.

Sanders sank two 14-foot birdie putts and was six under going to the 18th where he made his second bogey after hooking his drive into the woods.

Palmer, Player Close

Sanders and Reframe set the pace for 35 par-breaking golfers on the flat Rio Pinar course, with two feared rivals, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player, in close pursuit.

Palmer shot a 67 despite a bandaged thumb, and Player matched Palmer and could have shared the lead if he hadn't missed a five-foot par putt on his next to last hole.

Slender Don January and veteran Jay Hebert also fired 67s, with Charles Coody and Jack Rule only a stroke back at 68.

Directors to Pick Site for 1969 Test At Annual Meeting

Forty cities, from all corners of the state, will be represented by teams in the Wisconsin State Men's Bowling Association Tournament at a pair of Appleton establishments this weekend.

Team events are run at Hahn's Lanes while doubles and singles will be at the 41 Bowl.

Milwaukee heads the list of cities with 23 teams while Fond du Lac and Kenosha have 12 each.

Another highlight of the weekend will be the annual board of directors meeting at 10 a.m. Sunday at the Conway Hotel. Officers will be elected and a site for the 1969 tournament will be picked.

One of the top teams appearing here this weekend will be the Fruit Ranch Market, Milwaukee, which carries a scratch average of 1,017. The team bowls at 3:30 p.m. Saturday at Hahn's and individual averages include Norm Cummings 201, Tony Cubbs 209, Bob Niewicki 208, Dennis Nickolas 209 and Hal Kaminski 209. They will bowl in the double and singles at 5 p.m. Sunday.

Bill Hapac, 1940 Illinois Cage Captain, Dies

CHICAGO (AP) — William J. Hapac, 49, captain of the 1940 University of Illinois basketball team and a high school coach for 15 years, died today.

Hapac coached basketball, baseball and golf at Morton East High School in suburban Cicero. After his graduation from Illinois he signed a contract with the Detroit Tigers baseball team but World War II interrupted his career.

After the war, in which he was a captain in air corps special services, he played professional basketball with the Chicago Gears, Chicago Bruins and teams from Anderson, Ind., and Oshkosh, Wis.

Surviving are his widow, Ruth, his parents, two brothers and one sister.

Miami Team Takes ABC Lead

Syracuse Bowler Moves Into Second For All-Events

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)— Five rookies in the American Bowling Congress Tournament piled up a three-game series of 2,911 Thursday to take the lead in the regular team division.

The Dave Bethea Welding team of Miami rolled games of 929, 1015 and 967 as they took command of the five-man standings.

William Haley Jr., 40-year-old manager of a hardware store, spearheaded the drive with a 190-267-207—664 series.

Second Place

A team representing the Okaloosa, Fla., County Bowling Association moved into second place with 2,896.

Earlier in the day, Phillip Zollo of Syracuse, N.Y., took second place in regular all-events with a nine game total of 1,830. The 38-year-old pinsetter mechanic shot 619 in the team event, 617 in doubles and 594 in singles.

Jack Engstrom of Rantoul, Ill., leads regular all-events with 1,909.

Vince Ficco of Johnson City, N.Y., and Bob Furkay of Great Bend, Pa., collaborated on a 1,216 total to take second place in regular doubles. Dave Odell and Charles Furrer of Summit, N.J., still command the two-man standings with 1,316.

Hoosiers, MSU Battle to Wire For Loop Title

Both Clubs in Home Contests; Illinois at Wisconsin in Finale

CHICAGO (AP) — One of the Big Ten's tightest basketball title struggles in years ends Saturday with the possibility looming that Indiana and Michigan State will share the crown.

The two are locked for the lead with 9-4 records. Purdue (7-6) is at Indiana and Northwestern (7-6) at Michigan State in a televised attraction. Rounding out the finale, Iowa (8-5) is at Michigan (2-11) and Illinois (6-7) at Wisconsin (7-6).

All are afternoon games.

Minnesota and Ohio State have ended their seasons with 5-9 and 6-8 records, respectively.

If the Hoosiers and Spartans tie, Indiana will be the Big Ten representative in the NCAA tournament since it has not made an NCAA appearance since 1958. MSU went in 1959.

Three-Way Tie Possible

If both the favorites are upset and Iowa defeats Michigan, then the Hawkeyes, MSU and the Hoosiers would share the crown. In that case, Iowa would enter the NCAA playoffs since it last went in 1956.

Tom Kondla of Minnesota, ending his 14-game conference season Monday, virtually cinched the individual scoring title with 28.3. He has a 68-point bulge on second-place Jim Dawson of Illinois and 71 on third place Sam Williams of Iowa. Dawson's average is 25.2 and Williams' is 25.0.

Nagle Sixth

Other leaders include Bill Hosket, Ohio State, 22.8; Dave Scholz, Illinois, 21.4! Chuck Nagle, Wisconsin, 21.2; Jim Burns Northwestern, 21.1; Craig Dill, Michigan, 21.0, and Butch Joyner, Indiana, 20.2.

Leaders in other categories: Field goal percentage—Hosket .562, and Joyner .515; free throw percentage — Mike Weaver, Northwestern, .859, and Williams, .847; rebound average — Hosket 13.8 and Joe Franklin, Wisconsin, 13.2.

Sitzmarks

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Warm, sunshiny days on the slope are good for starts on those summer tans. Deck chairs in front of many ski lodges are filled with sun worshippers.

Then take slightly - thawing temperatures in the afternoon and add a nippy night or two and you have the ingredients for good skiing — on a granular substance called corn snow.

Such is Midwestern spring skiing.

Many resort operators feel this time of the year produces the season's best skiing. The corn snow, teamed with a few inches of fluff from the night before, make for ideal conditions.

But too few skiers feel that way. When mid-March rolls around, the lift lines ease up and only the dedicated mogultamers are on the slopes. The average skier seems to be tired of winter.

So the resort operators are turning into salesmen. Some hills, such as Pine Mountain, are offering discount rates for spring skiing. A buck off on lift tickets and in some lodges, the advertisement reads.

Other resorts take away a bit of that spring fever by offering skiing spectaculars and feasts. Indianhead is getting ready for its Spring Carnival on March 18-19 which will feature sky diving, torch light parades and costumed skiers.

Mt. Telemark has been a leader in such fests to promote spring skiing. The apres-ski set will be feted March 17-19 at the lodge pubs and in Hayward during the annual "Equinox" celebrations. Then comes Easter Sunday, sunrise religious services at the resort and the traditional egg hunt.

The following weekend, grills will fill the front of the lodge as the Blue Ox Feast gets under way. The season will close on April 9 at the conclusion of the Indian Sugar feast. Skiers will be treated to chicken and wild rice along with maple syrup poured over snow.

When Easter arrives in late spring, the resorts usually call it quits on that day — no matter how much snow is still left.

This year, with Pascualtide landing on March 26, the hill operators aren't ready to let the abundant bases (40 inches at Indianhead; 52 inches at Mt. Telemark) melt away in the sun without the help of sitzmarks.

Furthermore, Easter is timed right with most spring school vacations and ski resorts, already basking in the best season, both financially and snow-wise, are hoping spring skiing will be as wild as the New Year's weekend.

"It should be fabulous," one manager exclaimed.

Dick Ritger Has Early Lead in PBA Tourney

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Dick Ritger of Hartford, Wis., rolled a 249 in his final game Thursday night to overtake southpaw John Fabbro of Columbus, Ohio, for the lead in the Professional Bowlers' Association $37,000 Greater Buffalo Open.

Ritger, 28, who has won only $775 on the PBA winter tour, finished his 24 qualifying games with a total 5249, a 218.7 game average and 40 pins better than the second-place Fabbro.

The field was cut to 16 semi-finalists facing 16 games today. The top five move into Saturday's nationally-televised finals with their eyes on the $5,000 top prize.

Detroit Trades Back McLenna for Saints' Bradshaw

NEW ORLEANS (AL) —The New Orleans Saints announced Thursday they have acquired offensive back Bruce McLenna from the Detroit Lions in exchange for offensive tackle Charlie Bradshaw.

McLenna, a 6-foot-3, 228-pounder, did not see much action last year because of a knee injury. He has made a fine recovery from surgery last November, the Saints' announcement said, and is expected to give the new National Football League team needed running back strength. He was a star rusher at Hillsdale College in Michigan before joining the Lions.

Bradshaw, a graduate of Baylor, is a nine-year NFL veteran who played with Pittsburgh last year. Acquired by the Saints in the expansion draft last month, Bradshaw is the only NFL player with a law degree. He's 6-6 weighs 260 pounds, and lives in Houston.

State Judo Meet Slated For FVL Gym

The state high school judo championships will be held Sunday in the Fox Valley Lutheran High School gym.

Competition begins at 1 p.m., with the finals scheduled for 7 p.m. Trophies will be awarded in each of six weight classes — ranging from 120 pounds and under to over 205.

The proceeds from the event will be used to send the FVL club winners to the 1968 national high school championships. Ticket prices are $1 for adults and 50 cents for students. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

Fox Cities Drivers Win 2 Events in Field Gymkhana

Fox Cities drivers won two of the three events in the Fox Valley Sports Car Club's recent field gymkhana.

Neenah's Ron Rubsam took first place in the under-1,600 cc. division in a Volkswagen. Appleton's Art Last won the 1,600-3,000 cc. title in a TR4

Harold Van Egeren, of Green Bay, drove a Stingray to victory in the over-3,000 cc class.

Kaukauna's Tim Scheib was second in the under-1,600 class; Hortonville's Keith Dobberstein and Kaukauna's Lee Schmalz were second and third, respectively, in the 1,600-to-3,000 class; while Appleton's Dick Steffes placed third in the over 3,000 event.

ARD's Lessons In Golf Will Begin March 20

Registrations are being taken for the Appleton Recreation Department's golf school, which starts Monday, March 20.

The 4-week course for men starts March 20, while women's classes begin Tuesday, March 21. The session times, in the Madison Junior High School gym, are from 7 to 8 p.m. and from 8:15 to 9:15 p.m.

The instructors will be Jake Matthews and Merwyn Clough. Participants must furnish their own clubs and practice balls.

The registration site is the ARD office, 1205 W. Prospect Ave. The fees are $3.50 for adults and $2 for students. Each class will be limited to 20.

ARD Men's Meet Reaches Semi-Finals

Rueckl, Coated, Elm Tree, SSAC Post Easy Wins

Rueckl Studio, Appleton Coated Paper, Elm Tree Bakery, and South Side Athletic Club all notched easy victories Thursday night in the 22nd Annual Men's City Basketball tournament sponsored by the Appleton Recreation Department.

The wins advance the teams to Wednesday's semi-finals at James Madison Junior High School. Rueckl's will face Coated Paper in the first game, and Elm Tree and SSAC will square off in the second. The championship will be decided the following night.

Rueckl's defeated Malofsky Motors, 80-57, as Bud Muntner scored 33 points. Henry King pumped in 28 for the losers. Rueckl's held commanding 21-7 and 46-20 leads at the ends of the first two periods.

Coated Paper led only 30-26 at the intermission but went on to paste Tom's Drive-In, 71-43. A 22-9 edge in the third quarter helped pull CP away. Dennis Vaubel had 22 points for the winners, while Tom Grishaber hit 19 for Tom's.

Elm Tree took a comfortable (41-21) halftime lead, and then held off a closing rush for Babb's Menswear for a 66 - 57 triumph. Lee Otto paced the Bakery with 24 points, and Paul De Noble had 20 markers for Babb's.

Jim Peerenboom's 18 points led SSAC to a 64-48 win over Fox River Paper. The South Siders held a 52-31 advantage after three quarters and coasted in. Griff Howell hit 18 points for Fox River Paper.

Bill Shepherd, Former Lion Star, Succumbs at 55

DETROIT (AP) — Bill Shepherd, who starred for the Detroit Lions some 30 years ago as a triple threat football player, died Wednesday night in a Detroit hospital after suffering a stroke. He was 55.

Shepherd was the team's leading rusher for two seasons. In 1938, he gained 455 yards in 100 carries and the next season gained 420 yards in 85 carries. He also did much of the Lions' passing and punting.

Shepherd's career ended when he suffered a torn achilles tendon in a game with Cleveland in 1940.

Reds' Rose to Try 'Big Switch'

'Great Experiment' Trial Success as Mantle Fields 9 Chances Flawlessly

BY HAL BOCK

The Great Experiment-Part I ranks as an unqualified success as far as the New York Yankees and Mickey Mantle are concerned.

Today, the Cincinnati Reds and Pete Rose find out about the Big Switch.

Mantle made his debut as a first baseman Thursday as the Yankees outlasted Washington 8-7 in a battle of American League also-rans. The longtime center fielder handled nine chances flawlessly and made the best play of the game on the first ball hit his way.

That came on a hard smash between first and second by Bernie Allen in the first inning. Mantle dashed to his right, backhanded the ball almost nonchalantly, and flipped to pitcher Fritz Peterson for the putout.

Just Comes Naturally

"It wasn't as hard as I thought," Mantle said after playing four innings in the Grapefruit League's opening game. "I was more nervous at bat than in field. I didn't think about the plays, I just made them naturally."

The game was a home run battle settled by Chet Trail's two-run shot in the ninth inning. Steve Whitaker and Charley Smith also homored for New York while Cap Peterson tagged a pair of two-run shots for the Senators.

In the only other exhibition game, Chuck Hinton, homored, tripled twice, singled and drove in seven runs as the Cleveland Indians trounced the Mexico City Tigers 10-3. One of Hinton's triples came with the bases loaded. Leon Wagner belted a pinch hit homer for the Indians who got 15 hits.

The Reds, who were to meet Philadelphia in their opener today, will have Rose, one of the National League's top second basemen, playing left field.

Rose, who was involved in an abortive switch to third base last year, is on the move again this spring. He was unhappy with last spring's move and his play suffered before he moved back across the diamond.

But the peppery infielder is ready to switch rather than fight. "If the name of this game is follow the leader," he said, motioning towards Dave Bristol, the Reds' manager, "then I'm going wherever that man wants me to go."

Bristol, who had the Reds doing football exercises during the first week of camp, held a closed door practice Thursday devoted to blackboard work and fundamentals. He's liable to show up with the Notre Dame football team against the Phillies today.

Juan Marichal and Camilo Pascual continued their holdouts as San Francisco and Washington reported little progress in contract negotiations with the two pitchers.

Marichal, who has been holding out for $125,000, talked with Chub Feeney, the Giants' vice president, via a long distance telephone call Thursday. "I'll call him again in a couple of days," said Feeney.

Meanwhile Pascual, acquired from Minnesota during the off-season, got an ultimatum from George Selkirk, general manager of the Senators.

the best in the Big Eight Conference, and a jumping jack center, 6-foot-5 sophomore Jim Chones. It also has depth, ball handling ability and a respectable, if not Lincoln-like, shooting accuracy mark.

Presses Opponents

Lake Lincoln, Park presses its opponents into mistakes.

Gardner said if Park gets by Greenfield, "it would take our best effort of the year without a doubt to beat Lincoln. Obviouslp, it's a possibility, but the percentages of that possibility are not as high as we would like them to be."

Only 32 teams are left from the original field of 426 as the annual tournament, culminating next week in Madison, enters sectional play in eight cities tonight.

Outside of Lincoln, only Green Bay West is still in the running from last year's tournament eight.

West, (18-3), a four-time visitor to Madison, takes on Mishicot tonight in the Green Bay sectional while second-ranked small school, Wausaukee, one of only two unbeaten fives in Wisconsin, seeks its 23rd straight against Kaukauna (17-3).

Sixth-ranked Platteville, the only big school with an unbeaten record, goes after its 22nd straight against Evansville in the Janesville Sectional Madison West (15-6), recovered from an injury-triggered midseason slump, meets Stoughton (16-5) in the other semifinal

Unbeaten Record

Seventh-ranked Whitefish Bay (20-1) tangles with Eastern Wisconsin Conference power Cedar Grove (17-5) in the Oconomowoc Sectional. Cedarburg (20-1), which hasn't been to the Madison games since 1934, meets Waterloo (19-3), a small school that last made the trip in 1964.

Tenth-ranked La Crosse Central (19-3) meets Boscobel (11-10), the only survivor with a losing record, in a La Crosse Sectional semifinal In the other game, Baraboo (18-3) tests Ellsworth (19-2), the tall and talented team that bombed top-ranked small school Alma out of the meet Tuesday night

Meets Port Edwards

Wausau (19-2), a state champion in 1960 — the last time it made the Madison trip — meets Port Edwards (18-2) in a Wisconsin Rapids Sectional game. The fifth-ranked Lumberjacks, if they win, will play the survivor of the Loyal (18-4) — Stratford (20-2) match

Appleton (14-7) goes against New Holstein (17-4) while Waupaca (18-3) meets Horicon (13-6) in Neenah Sectional showdowns

In the wide open Spooner Sectional, Barron (20-1) goes against Glenwood City (17-3), the team that surprised Eau Claire Memorial last Tuesday night, and Cumberland (11-9) challenges Glidden (21-1), 10th-ranked small school

Green's Condition Much Improved

DETROIT (AP)—Doctors said Thursday the condition of forward Johnny Green of the Baltimore Bullets was much improved after he spent a night in a Detroit hospital

Green fainted and collapsed in the lobby of a hotel Wednesday just a few hours before he was to play in a National Basketball Association game with the Detroit Pistons

A Pistons spokesman said doctors determined that Green suffered a slight concussion when his head struck the floor and as a result he was having severe headaches

Oh No! Don't Look Now, Guys, but those are two basketballs being palmed by pretty cheerleader Claudia Urbank of Woodbridge High School-Woodbridge, Ohio. The 5-7 blonde senior could probably help her team in tournament play this week — if she were a boy. Looking on in awe are squad members David Whims (left) and Earl Ritch, who can't accomplish the same feat.

Southern Illinois Wallops St. Peter's, 103-58

Marshall Nips Villanova '5'

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Allen, who has seen his world turn from the dizzy distance of 10 feet, will take a good, long look at the city sights today.

And it'll be all pleasure for the tall tourist from Huntington, W.Va

Allen, Marshall University's 6-foot-9 pivotman, hit two free throws after the clock had run out for a 70-68 overtime victory over Villanova Thursday night in the opening game of the 30th National Invitation Tournament

Southern Illinois' smooth Salukis then mauled St Peter's, N.J., 103-58 to follow Marshall into the quarter-finals of the nation's oldest post-season basketball classic.

"It's just like you're in a world all by yourself," Allen said of the magic moment at the free throw line after he'd been fouled at the buzzer with the score tied 68-68 "All I could see was that rim. It seemed like an eternity before the ball went in. I said a prayer before—and after—the first shot"

Vital Rebound

Allen grabbed the rebound—his 21st of the game—after teammate Bob Redd missed a long jumper with two seconds remaining in the overtime period. The big center was fouled by Frank McCall—in front of the Villanova rooting section—at the buzzer.

"I could hear them booing," Allen said, "but the only thing I could think of was that Coach (Ellis) Johnson has been telling me all year—stretch and follow through"

Allen stretched, and the winning shot dropped in He followed through — and was engulfed by a wave of Marshall fans who had made the trip from Huntington Then he stepped back to the line and hit the bonus shot to finish with 11 points—including five of the Thundering Herd's six in overtime

Sophomore Jim Davidson led the Herd with 21 points, but game honors went to Villanova soph Johnny Jones, with 23

"We're going to be staying here, now," Allen said, "and we're going to see the sights We're going to see Everything"

In the Madison Square Garden nightcap, St Peter's saw too much of Southern Illinois, the nation's No 1 small college team—and then some.

Led by soph Dick Garrett, 28 points, and Little All-America Walt Frazier, 24, the Salukis handed the Peacocks the worst beating in NIT history in breezing to their 16th straight victory and 21st in 23 starts

The Salukis, refuting their reputation as a careful, ball control outfit, raced to a 41-29 halftime edge and then overran St Peter's with a 25-9 binge in the first 10½ minutes after intermission.

Wake Forest Rally Upsets Clemson '5'

Two Carolinas, Duke Advance to Semi-Finals of ACC Tournament

BY TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Wake Forest Deacons staged one of college basketball's greatest comebacks to beat Clemson and become the sentimental favorites to bounce the nationally fourth-ranked North Carolina Tar Heels out of the Atlantic Coast Conference Championship Tournament tonight.

Beaten 17 times during the regular season the underdog Deacons fell behind Clemson 22-4 before they rallied to beat the Tigers 63-61 in double overtime in the first round of the ACC tourney at Greensboro, N.C., Thursday night

North Carolina defeated N.C. State 56-53, Duke routed Virginia 99-78 and South Carolina edged Maryland 57-54 in the other ACC first round contests

After falling behind 34-29 in the second half, Clemson tied the regulation game against Wake Forest at 51-51 in the last minute on a basket by Joe Ayoob and Randy Mahaffey's two free throws

Saving Free Throws

Mahaffey sank two more free throws in the last 32 seconds of the first overtime to tie the score at 53-53 and again stave off defeat temporarily for Clemson. In the second overtime, Paul Crinkley scored six of Wake Forest's 10 points and wrapped it up for the Deacons.

North Carolina, which twice beat Wake Forest during the regular season, each time by two points, had to scrap all the way to down the N.C. State Wolfpack. Rusty Clark, 6-foot-11 sophomore, wrapped it up for the Tar Heels with a layup in the last 26 seconds.

Bob Verga's 35 points paced Duke over Viginia and put the Blue Devils into tonight's other semifinal against South Carolina. The Gamecocks squeaked past Maryland on Jack Thompson's jumper and Frank Standard's free throw that broke a 54-54 tie.

Butch's Pizza Wins, 85-84

Jim Peerenboom's Goal Tips Miller In Menasha Test

MENASHA — Jim Peerenboom's basket with two seconds left gave Butch's Pizza an 85-84 win over Miller Texaco of Beaver Dam in the St. John Class B basketball tournament Thursday night.

Peerenboom scored 34 points, and Jim Maahs had 16 for the winners Ron Kampstra tallied 30 for Beaver Dam.

Games tonight are Lox Club, Combined Locks, vs. Andy's Library, Oshkosh, at 7 p.m. and Gammey's Painters, Menasha, vs Butch's at 8 p.m

Two games are slated Saturday afternoon and evening with the semi-finals Sunday afternoon and third place and finals Sunday night

Titans' Hayek Named MVP In District

Bob White Wins Coaching Award Made by NAIA

ASHLAND (AP) — The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics says Bob White of Oshkosh State has been named basketball coach of the year in the NAIA's District 14.

Ron Hayek, the Titans' top scorer this season, was chosen by district coaches as the district's most valuable player. He was one of the top five scorers in the State University Conference throughout the season.

Oshkosh defeated Lakeland this week in the District 14 playoff, and will represent Wisconsin next week at Kansas City in the NAIA national tourney

The NAIA said Thursday Lakeland Coach Duane Woltzen ran second in the balloting, one vote behind White

Jim Sevals of Superior State, No. 2 in WSUC scoring this season and the conference's top scorer last season, was edged by Hayek in the balloting

Stan Johnson of Eau Claire State, the WSUC's top scorer this season, was third in the voting

Jack Meyer Dies; Pitched 6 Years For Philadelphia

Jack Meyer

A hospital spokesman said Meyer had been under treatment for a heart condition and twice had been hospitalized. He is survived by three children.

Meyer pitched six years for the Phillies and posted a record of 24-34. A right-hander, he retired voluntarily in 1961, when he experienced arm trouble. The previous year he underwent back surgery

Barth Pleads 'Indecision' on Reduced Count

Will be Tried in Circuit Court for False Imprisonment

A 27-year-old Appleton man, when asked Thursday afternoon if he agreed to a plea of no contest entered by an attorney on his behalf in a false imprisonment case. said. "I was hoping they (the court) wouldn't find me too guilty."

Marvin Barth. 721 N. Morrison St.. made the statement before Circuit Court Judge Andrew W. Parnell after charges against Barth had been reduced from abduction to false imprisonment.

Judge Parnell said he would accept Barth's indecisive plea as a plea of innocent and the case will go before a Circuit Court jury for trial.

Barth was charged by Outagamie County Sheriff's Department investigators with the Dec. 31 abduction of Rachel LaFonde. 18, route 2. Black Creek. Assistant Dist. Atty. Richard Hamilton made a motion to reduce the charge from abduction to false imprisonment, which carries a two-year maximum sentence rather than the 15-year maximum for abduction.

Enter Plea

Judge Parnell accepted Hamilton's motion and asked the defendant to enter a plea. Barth's court-appointed attorney, William Hegner. said he had discussed the plea with Barth and they agreed to enter the no contest plea.

Upon questioning by Judge Parnell. however. Barth indicated uncertainty. After a short dated uncertaintly. After a short court recess. the judge said he would accept Barth's "indecision" as a plea of innocent.

Barth was arrested after he was involved in a car accident when the car he was driving struck the car in which the Black Creek girl was a passenger. After the accident. the girl said at a preliminary examination last month. Barth pried open a window of the car she was in and forced her into his car.

The girl, who formerly was engaged to Barth. said she was detained by Barth for several hours.

Barth was returned to jail in lieu of posting $3.000 bond. No date was set for his trial.

The reduced charge of false imprisonment alleges Barth intentionally confined or restrained the girl without her consent.

Study New Street Lighting For Hortonville

Power Company Outlines Plan for Mercury Vapor Units

HORTONVILLE — The village board is studying a proposal to convert the village's overhead street lighting system to mercury vapor lighting.

Parker Schultz, Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. representative, said the power company operated 78 street lights in the village and the community owns an additional 21 lights under the present operation. Cost of operating the present lighting system is $4.023 a year.

Schultz outlined a plan to increase the street lighting 7.3 times. He said 192 mercury vapor lights would best meet the needs at an annual operating cost of $12.432.

Wisconsin-Michigan is to install a demonstration light near the village hall for inspection by board members and residents

The proposal was turned over to the village street committee for further study.

Man Injured In Scuffle at Oneida Tavern

Arthur Gugel, 40, Held at Hospital Under Police Guard

A route 2. West DePere man. whom Outagamie County police said was injured in a disturbance at an Oneida tavern. Thursday night. remained in St. Elizabeth Hospital under police guard today.

Authorities said charges would be sought against Arthur Gugel. about 40. who was arrested after a scuffle with police about 8 p.m. Thursday at Van's Valley Tavern

Authorities said Mrs. Gugel called the sheriff's department at 7.37 p.m. stating that her husband was at Van's Valley and was apparently drunk. She asked for police protection. saying she was "afraid" of Gugel.

A short time later. the sheriff's office received a call of trouble at the Town of Oneida tavern.

A patrolman. on entering the tavern, found the owner. John Vandenberg. talking with Gugel. Police said Vandenberg's shirt was torn and bar stools were knocked over in the tavern. Gugel reportedly had a cut over his right eye.

Refuses Information

Gugel reportedly refused to tell the patrolman his name or address When the patrolman placed him under arrest. Gugel. reportedly pulled a jackknife which he attempted to open. The patrolman took the knife away and wrestled Gugel to the floor.

At that point another patrolman arrived at the tavern and assisted in handcuffing Gugel.

Police reportedly attempted to assist Gugel down the tavern steps when he refused to walk. However. he squirmed free of the patrolmen and reportedly fell headlong down the steps.

The patrolmen then strapped his feet together and put him in a squad car.

Gugel at one point kicked a patrolman alongside the head, and once again had to be restrained Police said he "fought. kicked and screamed" all the way to the courthouse and continued to be "uncontrollable" in the jail.

A doctor was summoned and gave Gugel medication at the jail. Gugel then was taken to the hospital by Larry's Ambulance at 10.30 p m. He was treated for face lacerations.

Authorities said Gugel had to be strapped into his hospital bed.

Later investigation by county police revealed that Gugel entered Van's Valley tavern about 7·15 p m and caused a disturbance with the owner and with a customer. He reportedly tore the sleeve from Vandenberg's shirt and attempted to hit him over the head with a beer bottle after Vandenberg ordered him out.

U.S. Admits Bomber Raids Launched at Thai Airfields

Attacks Against North Vietnam In Second Year

By FRED HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Official acknowledgment that U.S. war planes are striking North Vietnam from Thailand smoothes the way for stationing B52 bombers on Thai bases.

Admission by officials here and in Bangkok that Thailand has been a springboard for air attacks on North Vietnam comes about two years after those operations started.

But the officials said nothing about air strikes from Thailand against Communist infiltration routes and other Red targets in neighboring Laos.

Up to 75 per cent of U.S. Air Force strikes against North Vietnam are understood to be mounted from Thailand. Communists have threatened countermeasures against the bases, but none has been attacked.

Thai Objections

U.S. authorities would have spoken publicly sooner about use of Thai bases for air operations against North Vietnam, but they deferred to Thai objections.

Pentagon officials speculated that the Thais removed their objections because they finally are convinced that the United States intends to stay in Thailand and defend it, if necessary, from any Communist attack.

Sources said no final agreement has yet been reached with the Thais on stationing B52s in Thailand. But they indicated this is only a matter of time.

A new base at Sattahip, about 75 miles south of Bangkok, has an 11,500-foot runway which is capable of handling the heavy jets.

Air Force officers in Vietnam have told reporters that Gen. William C. Westmoreland, top U.S. commander in Vietnam, has been pressing for more B52 strikes against Communist positions in South Vietnam.

Flights From Guam

The only way to provide the additional strikes, these officers said, is to place some of the B52s in Thailand to supplement missions flown by other B52s from the mid-Pacific island of Guam.

A 4,500-mile mission from Guam and back takes about 12 hours.

B52s flying from Sattahip would have to travel only about 500 miles and 2½ hours, round trip.

B52s are not used against targets in North Vietnam, largely because they are designed for saturation bombing, rather than the pinpoint bombing attempted in an effort to minimize civilian casualties.

There is also concern that these big bombers would be more vulnerable over North Vietnam than the fighter bombers to destruction by surface-to-air missiles and MIG21 jet interceptors.

Some 14 U.S. Air Force squadrons operate out of seven bases in Thailand. An eighth base is being built. Air Force men account for about 25,000 of the 35,000 U.S. service personnel in Thailand.

Reuther Starts To Plot Pact

End of Rebellion In Local Frees UAW Chief for Bargaining

DETROIT (AP) — Rebellion of an Ohio union apparently squelched, Walter P. Reuther is expected to begin laying down publicly today battle plans for what he sees as a rough fight for his United Auto Workers in upcoming contract bargaining.

Likely to learn his strategy first are representatives of some 50,000-member technical, office and professional workers who are UAW members. Next will be delegates representing 150,000 production workers in the agricultural-implement industry.

Both groups are in Detroit to set their individual goals for 1967 bargaining, which begins in four months. Reuther's speeches are on the agenda for each today.

If no strategy is disclosed in the speeches, observers expect it to come up in resolutions adopted as the two groups wind up their sessions Saturday. Such resolutions usually reflect guidance of international officers of the union.

Vote of Confidence

In winning a smashing 249-2 vote of confidence Thursday in the takeover of a rebellious General Motors local union at Mansfield, Ohio, Reuther advised at one point: "Save your shoe leather until after Sept. 1. We're going to need it then — walking together."

Current three-year contracts with the big three automakers — General Motors, Ford and Chrysler — run out Sept. 5. Some took Reuther's remark to indicate he expects a strike. He apparently was referring to Sept. 1 in general terms.

Negotiations will begin in early July.

At another point he said: "1967 is not going to be easy. The economic situation (lagging car sales and subsequent layoffs) is having its impact. We have a fight coming on."

The overwhelming vote of confidence on the Mansfield union takeover came from the national General Motors council, representing 132 UAW bargaining units in GM's nationwide manufacturing complex.

Ornaments Not Long for World On Auto Hoods

WASHINGTON (AP) — Those fancy chrome ornaments on auto hoods are on the way out, says the government.

The reason: Hood decor and other protrusions on the fronts of cars injure about 1,000 pedestrians daily, says the national traffic safety administrator, Dr. William Haddon Jr.

Haddon said Thursday night the government has told the auto industry to eliminate ornamental protrusions. There's no such ban in the auto safety standards which go into effect next Jan. 1, but Haddon said one would come later.

The General Services Administration, the government's auto buyer, won't purchase any 1969 cars with such protrusions.

Haddon said in a letter to auto safety critic Ralph Nader that he hopes the industry will comply voluntarily with a ban on such decorations.

Guidelines Published for Shaw Hearing

New Orleans Judges Clamp Controls on Assassination Probe

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — A judicial curtain was lowered today over a phase of Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's investigation of the Kennedy assassination.

A set of guidelines was issued for newsmen Thursday by the three criminal district judges who will preside at next Tuesday's preliminary hearing for Clay Shaw, a retired executive.

The 27-paragraph set of rules specified that witnesses, all lawyers in the case, officers and many others in official and unofficial capacities "are forbidden from making any extrajudicial statements of any kind concerning this case from this date and until such time as this case is concluded."

A 10-paragraph preamble on court proceedings and freedom of the press ranged as far back as the Magna Carta, signed by King John in 1215 and as recent as a 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals opinion of last Monday.

Dist. Judge Bernard J. Bagert, one of the three judges, has said that in his opinion the preliminary hearing will disclose the identity of the confidential informant mentioned by Garrison.

The district attorney alleged in an application for a warrant to search Shaw's home that the informant told him that a plot to kill Kennedy was formed at a meeting here of Shaw, Lee Harvey Oswald, David W. Ferrie, and several others.

Oswald, Ferrie Taken to Ruby

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A local cab driver has told the New Orleans, La., district attorney's office that he once drove David Ferrie and Lee Harvey Oswald to Jack Ruby's nightclub.

Raymond Cummings, 35, who gave the information to Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison connection with his investigation of an alleged plot to assassinate President John F. Kennedy, refused to talk to newsmen.

The Wife of the Recipient of the nation's highest honor dabs a tear from her eye as she stands next to him Thursday in the White House. Spec. 6 Lawrence Joel, wearing the medal of Honor, was presented with the award for helping wounded comrades in Vietnam although wounded himself. Congressional Responsibility

Controversy Over New Draft Laws To Center on O'Konski Committee

BY FRANCES MCKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — By virtue of his membership on the House armed Services Committee, Rep. Alvin E. O'Konski, R-Mercer, will be one of the architects of the new military draft law, already controversial on Capitol Hill.

In spite of the obvious fact that no draft law could possibly please everyone, O'Konski believes that Congress should take the responsibility of writing into the law, which will become effective July 1, the rules and regulations of the operation of the draft, rather than leaving it up to the executive order of the President, as is currently the case.

"Leaving the military call-up under executive order subjects the draft to insecurity, uncertainty and makes it subject to the whims and fancies of the moment," the congressman complained.

Political Motivation

As an example, O'Konski said that during an election year, the calling up by the President of 18 and 19-year olds could be "politically motivated" because these youth cannot vote.

"Then, right after elections, the President could change the rules again," he continued. "The present draft law leaves too much in the hands of the law, Congress will have to have enough courage to firm up the rules and regulations so that the youth of our country will know where they stand from year to year, rather than being in the situation of confusion that they are today."

Most members of the Armed Services Committee, which starts hearings early next month on draft legislation, have expressed similar feelings, O'Konski said.

Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, while not making blanket indictment against President Johnson's draft proposals, takes a dim view of any choice by lottery.

"Our experience with the lottery in the past makes me suspicious that it would not work in the future," he said, adding that he believed that an element of "universal service" would be better than the present system of "high selectivity."

Consular Treaty Shown as Step Toward Peace

Wyoming Senator Says U. S.-Soviet Pact Is Beneficial

By PHIL KEIF

WASHINGTON (AP) — The proposed U.S.-Soviet consular treaty was pictured today by a Senate backer as a step toward ending the Vietnam war.

Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., said the pact could better relations between the two nations while driving a new wedge in the growing split between the Soviets and Communist China.

In an interview, McGee termed "a hoax" the contention by Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., that the proposed treaty would prolong the war.

The treaty passed its first test Thursday when an amendment by Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., that would have eliminated immunity for criminal prosecution of consular officials, was defeated 53 to 26.

Talmadge said he couldn't understand why the Soviet Union should be given special privilege in view of its support of North Vietnam.

No other consular treaty provides full diplomatic immunity, he said.

Opponents say the clause would mean increased Soviet espionage since consular agents would be immune from prosecution for spying.

McGee, a lifelong student and former professor of international affairs, said the Soviets are supplying North Vietnam with third-rate weapons and materiel in an apparent attempt "to shut the thing off — at least slow it down."

Mundt says the treaty eventually would result in more trade with the Soviet Union and thereby help that nation furnish more military weapons to North Vietnam.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, has asked for approval of what is called an "understanding" that if the Senate ratifies the pact, it "expresses its hope that before the United States consents to the opening by the Soviet Union of any consular establishment in the United States, an honorable conclusion will be achieved in the Vietnam conflict."

A vote on her measure is scheduled for next week, after action on two proposals by Mundt. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says adoption of Mundt's reservations would kill the treaty.

One would require freedom of expression by Americans in the Soviet Union.

The other would require removal of Soviet weapons from Vietnam.

Whitewater to Stop DDT Spraying of Elms

WHITEWATER (AP)—Having received protests for several years from wildlife interests, the Whitewater City Council voted this week to stop using DDT to spray trees against Dutch Elm disease.

The city had been using DDT for about 10 years, and had received many complaints from persons expressing concern about the welfare of birds. The county voted to try another chemical.

4-Month Strike Ended At Fond du Lac Firm

FOND DU LAC (AP)—A four months stike of production employes at the manufacturing plant of Infants Socks Inc., ended Thursday.

Members of Teamsters Local 126 ratified a new one - year contract at a meeting Wednesday night, according to Donald Wetzel, business agent and recording secretary.

Flippers Note: Heads Favored

CHICAGO (AP) — In flipping pennies, the odds favor heads.

That's the conclusion of a "research project" in probability conducted by 160 freshmen mathematics students at Northwestern University.

Edward L. Spitznagel, assistant professor of mathematics, asked each of his students to shake a jar containing pennies and then record the incidence of heads or tails on a graph. This was repeated 200 times.

There were 319,020 penny flippings in all. Heads came up 160,136 times — 50.2 per cent of the tosses.

Spitznagel concluded that the distribution of metals in the pennies make them "tail heavy." Gravity would tend to pull stronger on that half of the coin, he said Thursday.

Mississippi Pair Held in Kidnaping

PASCAGOULA, Miss. (AP) — A county prosecutor and a defendant in a federal case involving a civil rights slaying were held today on a kidnaping charge.

Dist. Atty. Donald Cumbest said the two men tried to terrorize Jack Watkins into saying he beat a man into making a confession which led to the indictment of 12 white men in the Vernon Dahmer fire bombing in Hattiesburg, Miss., in 1966.

Cumbest identified the prisoners as Billy R. Pitts, 25, of Laurel, indicted in theDahmer case, and Travis Buckley, 32, of Bay Springs. Bond for Pitts was set at $16,000, for Buckley $14,000.

Buckley, in addition to being county attorney of Jasper County, is defense lawyer for 11 of the 12 men indicted in the federal proceeding.

The March 2 federal indictments charged the 12 with conspiring to intimidate and threaten Dahmer, for "urging and aiding other Negro citizens to vote."

Dahmer was killed in the firebomb attack on his home.

The FBI described the 12 as members of the white knights of the Ku Klux Klan, the most secretive and violent of the Mississippi klans.

Pitts and Buckley were arrested Thursday night. In addition to kidnaping, each was charged with attempting to obstruct justice in the federal case, and three counts of conspiracy.

Pitts also was charged with assault and battery and pointing and aiming a pistol. Bond for the men was set by L.A. Watts, County Court judge.

Woman Jurors Find Ex-Wife's Mischief Was Too Malicious

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A divorcee was found guilty Thursday by an all-woman jury of glueing shut the windows of her ex-husband's Cadillac.

The jury deliberated 10 minutes before returning the verdict against Beatrice Moss, former wife of retired manufacturer Ellis Kay. She could receive up to a $300 fine and a year in jail on the willful and malicious mischief charge.

Kay also has filed a $100,000 damage suit against his former wife, charging, among other things, that she painted the windshield of his car four times, painted the headlights pink and sent him a funeral wreath once when he was sick and also a package of records — all funeral dirges.

Worm Damage Heavy In Cuban Cane Fields

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — You get two and one-half cents for every worm you pluck from sugar cane plants in Cuba, says a refugee.

"Id bag 120 to 140 worms a day, and earned about 3 pesos daily," said Richardo del Valle Blanco, 34. A peso is pegged at $1 but brings much less on the free market.

"It is hard work," Del Valle said. "You have to split the cane, then get the worm out."

The refugee said cane fields have been heavily damaged by worms.

!! GLORY BE!!

ARE YOU LISTENING?

HERE'S A BARGAIN if I ever saw one. 3 bedroom Colonial on lovely tree-lined street in nice neighborhood. Large living room and formal dining room, carpeted plus drapes. 1½ car garage, concrete drive! South Neenah. It's a REAL GOOD BUY!

SOB STORY from the moment I walked into the state foyer and glimpsed into the large living room with fireplace and dining room, carpeted in blue and accented with lavender, I knew this was my dream home I was even more certain when I saw the 3 large bedrooms and 2 full tiled baths. Imagine how I felt when I saw the "dream" kitchen with all built-ins and illuminated ceiling joined by a beamed family room. My children could skip to Coolidge School. Unfortunately I can't afford it— CAN YOU? $26,900

ISLAND-MENASHA — with view of Lake Winnebago. Contemporary split-level with 3 bedrooms and 2 baths. Lovely complete apartment for the in laws on ground level. 2 car garage & patio.

$300 DOWN—Just bring your pajamas and tooth brush and move into this older, completely furnished 2 bedroom home with full basement and new furnace. Close to downtown Neenah. No closing costs.

Your Money's Worth

Several Ways to Halt Recessionary Trend

BY SYLVIA PORTER

For the moment, let's downgrade the economists who say that all we are now experiencing is a temporary pause in the upturn. For the sake of answering a vital question in many minds, let's join the pessimists who argue that the minus signs spotting our economy today signal the start of recession.

The vital question: Is not there a grave danger that the very discussion of recession will cause businessmen and consumers to become overcautious and thereby intensify the danger?

Sylvia Porter

The answer: Far more important and constructive is the evidence that alertness of the threat is in itself a potent "secret weapon" against the threat. Because of concern about the downturn, policymakers already have taken steps to stop it from continuing, deepening and spreading. If the economy does not perk up as a result of these and other steps on schedule, anti-recession policy will become more aggressive.

In short, by openly acknowledging that some key economic signals have changed from green to amber, we can act in advance to prevent the signals from turning a dark red.

Points to Consider

Consider these six points:

(1) Since the credit squeeze reached near-panic proportions late last year, the Federal Reserve System has been progressively easing up. It is deliberately feeding funds into the banking system to encourage business lending and deliberately putting financial institutions in general in better shape to make more mortgage loans. The aim of Federal Reserve policy through most of 1966 was to crub our pace of growth; the aim so far in 1967 is to spur our growth.

The results are starting to show, and the key point is that if the Federal Reserve concludes our economy needs more help, it can overnight pump much more credit into the business stream. Already, though, easier credit has pushed up new housing starts to an annual rate of 1¼ million units, a full 50 per cent above the low reached in October. Permits for new houses also have climbed sharply, telegraphing further recovery. Housing is a huge industry and its revival will fan out to bolster many other industries.

(2) The proposed July 1 effective date for a modest income tax increase seems increasingly unrealistic. The reasons the President put the day at July 1 were: to give the Federal Reserve a firm basis for easing credit and to give the economy time to pick up speed in response to this and higher Government spending.

If instead our economy continues to droop, income tax increases any time this year are dead.

Tax Incentive

(3) In place of an anti-inflationary income tax boost, the Administration well may ask for an anti-recessionary restoration of the investment tax incentives to encourage businessmen to hike their spending on new plants and equipment. This restoration, now slated for Jan. 1, 1968, could easily be pushed ahead.

(4) At all levels of government, spending is climbing to new peaks and the spending can be "adjusted" to stimulate activity. Early this week, for instance, the Administration released $380 million of funds into the mortgage market to spur housing this spring This was from a $1 billion fund "frozen" in 1966 as an anti-inflationary measure. Last week, it released $125 million of funds to spur highway construction This was from $1.1 billion of highway funds "deferred" in 1966. The unfreezing of huge totals can be continued in the months ahead

(5) A new package of Social Security benefits for millions of individuals is on the way and this money will flow immediately into the spending stream.

(6) Hefty income tax refunds for millions of taxpayers also are on the way and these windfalls also will be spent at once.

This is just a sampling of what will and could occur. This is why a recognition on economic danger is a protection against the danger. This is why in our era, well-advertised recessions rarely arrive as advertised.

YGOP Sets Program Plans

Theme Emphasizes Intellectual Aspect Of Political Issues

SHEBOYGAN — The Wisconsin Federation of Young Republicans (YGOP) today announced program plans for the 1967 Young Republican State Convention in Sheboygan April 28-30.

Consistant with the theme, "A New Direction for the NOW Generation," an emphasis on the intellectual aspects of politics will encompass the opening session of the convention Saturday morning with a series of "Issue Briefings," a back-to-back presentation of major national and state issues.

Rep. Edward Derwinski, Illinois, a member of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, will discuss U. S. foreign policy with particular reference to the war in Vietnam.

Analyse Policy

Dr. Robert P Hungate, dean of the School of Business Administration at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh will analyze current national economic policy, its implications and possible alternatives to current policy.

Before joining the university in 1965, Hungate served as director of the Bureau of Business and Economoc Research at San Diego State College, assistant head of executive programs and conferences for the graduate school of business at University at California-Los Angeles (UCLA) and a research economist for the division of research, also at UCLA.

Olson Wind-up

In a report to Young Republicans, Lt. Gov. Jack Olson will conclude the "Issue Briefings" by reviewing current state problems and how they affect the Republican party, and more specifically, the Young Republicans.

John Guiles, a member of the Young Republicans executive committee and its college director, will moderate the Saturday morning session. Guiles is a student at the University of Wisconsin in Madison.

The "Issue Briefings" as well, as all other convention sessions, will be conducted at the Sheboygan Municipal Auditorium on the city's lakefront

Kaukauna Legion to Celebrate Birthday

KAUKAUNA — American Legion Post No. 41 and its Auxiliary will celebrate the 48th birthday of the Legion at a dinner party at the Hyland House March 19

The event will get underway with a 5:30 p.m. cocktail hour followed by dinner at 6.30 and a special program. Reservations are to be made prior to March 15 with Richard Bohm, Stanley Luzon, Mrs. Stuart Black or Mrs. Fred Mason.

Lutherans At Little Chute Purchase Site

LITTLE CHUTE — A bid of $19,000 for 4.8 acres of land, to be used as a future building site for St. Luke Lutheran Church, was accepted last week, according to the Rev. James Diener, pastor.

The newly-acquired property is located on the north side of County Trunk OO in a new subdivision east of the new Little Chute High School.

The loan to finance the purchase of the property, on which a chapel and a parsonage will be constructed, comes from the Church Extension Fund of the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod

Services for the new congregation began in December, 1965, in the old theater building on Main Street The congregation was organized officially in April, 1966

Officers include Marvel Kobs, president; Leonard Elmer, Secretary, and Roger Smith, treasurer The services will continue to be held in the theatre-church, until the chapel is constructed.

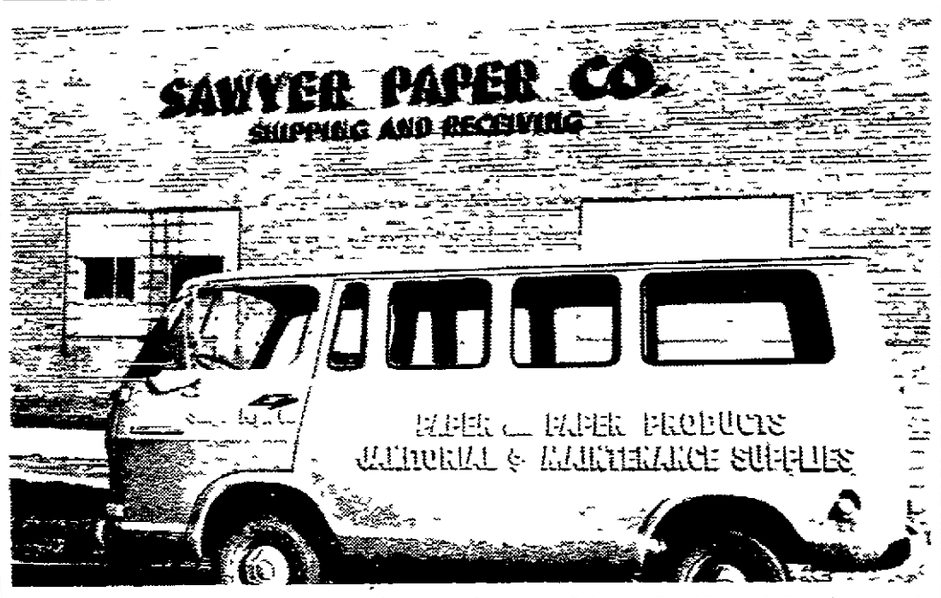
Shown Looking at the Tech-Care Certification of Franchise are left to right: Harley Slezak, owner of Good Housekeeping Shop; Harry Noack, shop manager; and Lee Crouch, service manager This certifies that Good Housekeeping Shop has met the high standards of performance required by Whirlpool Corporation in order to become franchised to render Tech-Care service for the following products: Laundry, Refrigeration, Aid Conditioning, Kitchen and Cooking Equipment. (Adv.)

As part of its program of emphasis on consumer service and satisfaction with RCA Whirlpool appliances, the home appliance manufacturer has set up a national franchised service known as Tech-Care.

Good Housekeeping Shop, 425 W. College Ave., has subscribed to this service which provides over 2,500 Tech-Care licensed technicians with over 1,000 service dealers. Tech-Care, which started in 1964, includes dealers authorized on a yearly basis by the RCA Whirlpool factory. Many hours of attendance at service schools plus practical experience are required of all Tech-Care technicians. Many tools also are required to perform exacting duties.

In setting up the Tech-Care program the customer's point of view was kept in mind. As a customer of Tech-Care you can expect: your appliance to be installed properly and demonstrated thoroughly, to know whom to call if service becomes necessary, your printed warranties to be fulfilled, service to be rendered within a reasonable time, the technician who calls at your home to be neat, courteous and capable, adequately trained on the product he services, the technician to have access to factory service and parts literature, the service shop to be equipped to perform a thorough job of repairs, to have complete confidence in the quality and availability of parts used in repairs, service to be provided at fair rates and a guarantee on the service performed on your appliance.

These services are available anywhere you live in the country. More than 5,100,000 Whirlpool-made appliances were bought last year. Whirlpool believes in a variety of choice and manufactures a dozen types and hundreds of models of appliances. But when it comes to service, Whirlpool is strictly for one standard. When you see the sign of Tech-Care service, you know you can count on the finest service for the finest appliances It's one of the things Whirlpool does to provide satisfaction with its products. (Adv.)



Neenah Firm Specializes in Maintenance Supplies — Sawyer Paper Co., Neenah, is in its 43rd year in the distribution of paper products and maintenance supplies.

While continuing to handle established products, the firm keeps up to date on new methods and supplies to hold its position as a leading distributor of quality paper products and maintenance supplies throughout northeastern Wisconsin.

Garbax, a modern refuse disposal system designed to handle almost every kind of refuse, has been added to the Sawyer Paper Company's line of floor machines, scrubbing machines, brushes and brooms, waste receptacles, soap dispensers, sweeping compounds, industrial paper cups and paper wipers, towels, tissue paper and materials (such as waxes, sealers, finishes) plus a wide range of germicidal cleaners, shampoos, soaps and powders

Now, with the introduction of the Garbax Disposal System in this area by the Sawyer Paper Co. a better and more efficient method of refuse disposal is being made generally available. This system is designed for the home, business, industry, schools, hospitals, restaurants, hotels and motels, parks and recreational areas.

Several different types are available. One is designed for wall, post or column mounting either indoors or out where it is desirable to keep the refuse bag clear of the floor or ground for easy cleaning. Another model has a holder, either with or without casters, depending upon portability required.

The Garbax system is quieter, more attractive and more economical No more clanging and rattling of noisy metal cans. The Garbax holders are a pleasant addition to any operation, public or private. The holder's pleasant, square lines hide forever the once-unsightly job it does. Designed for long time economy, Garbax holders will last many years with proper care. The special finish will withstand the elements for years.

And the system is cleaner, more convenient and speeds collection. Since the throw-away bag and its contents are carted off, there's no more chance for spillage or littering in transfering contents from refuse can to pickup container And, since the refuse never touches the Garbax holder, there's no more need for scrubbing dirty cans. The bags are designed to hold the toughest, wettest refuse in all kinds of weather and the holders seal odors in and insects out Prescored at the factory for easy cuffing, Garbax Refuse Bags are easily and quickly installed Everyone benefits from this improved, more efficient, time-saving system.

For maintenance supplies of all kinds of business and industry, and for more information on the new Garbax Disposal System for home or business, contact Mr Donald Verbrick at 722-3354, or write to him at the Sawyer Paper Co., 344 Smith St, Neenah, Wis. All of their products are backed up by 43 years of experience in the distribution of paper products and maintenance supplies (Adv.)

Prods Administration Inaction

Dairy Imports Biggest Threat to Prices Rep. Laird Contends

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., said today the dairy farmer is being left out of the prosperity many Americans are enjoying.

"The Johnson-Freeman Administration has the tools to improve farm prices; it's about time they began using them," he said.

There are predictions that realized net farm income will decline by more than 5 per cent in 1967 if present policies continue, and the blame for this lies with the administration, Laird said.

"More enlightened policies in Washington could lead to more equitable price returns for our farmers," Laird said in a statement.

Instead, he said, costs go up, prices decline and more and more dairymen are leaving the farms.

Dairy imports are "the biggest threat to dairy prices," he said.

"All our dairymen want is an opportunity to compete on a fair and equitable basis," Laird said. "This requires elimination of policies which favor foreign producers at the expense of our own farmers.

"Even Communist Bulgaria can ship colby cheese to New York, absorb its production and sell it on the American market at 10 cents a pound cheaper than our dairy industry in Wisconsin can produce it," Laird added.

Agriculture Gets Back Seat At UW, Legislator Charges

Administrators Reluctant to Give Farm Related Research, Facilities Priority in Appropriations

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The vast agricultural enterprise and vital industries related to it are "taking a back seat" in research and experimentation program emphasis at the University of Wisconsin, the chairman of the Wisconsin assembly committee on agriculture claimed Tuesday.

The charge came from Assemblyman Norbert Nuttelman of rural LaCrosse County, as he defended a proposal for a full-scale legislative inquiry into the agricultural service emphasis at the University of Wisconsin under its present administration.

The assembly temporarily delayed his proposal to set up a committee to make the study during the impending three weeks of legislative activity recess

The Nuttelman complaint probably came as a surprise at the University, where some leading faculty members for many years have privately complained about what they thought was an unfair emphasis in University budgeting on behalf of the agricultural interest.

The veteran farmer-legislator assured his colleagues that there is no partisan significance

Begin Convention Planning

Guernsey Farmers Shoring Up Ranks

SEYMOUR — The Outagamie County Guernsey Breeders Association stretched its boundaries Wednesday evening at the annual meeting and invited dairymen from surrounding counties, which lack breed organizations, to join in planning for the 1968 state convention at Appleton.

Evidence of this was indicated in the election of two new members to the board of directors.

Gerald Gaertig, route 2, Oconto Falls, was joined by Robert Engel, route 2, Shawano, and Engel was later named vice president They replaced Earl Woldt of Seymour and Oscar Mueller of Black Creek

La Vern Wehrman, route 2, Black Creek, was re-elected president and Jack Krull, route 1, Bonduel, was named secretary-treasurer succeeding Woldt.

Discuss Merger

Indications were the organization would encourage Guernsey dairymen from Waupaca and Brown counties also to join. Leslie Peckham, state association secretary, said there are about 30 county organizations in the state, one of which servers five counties and three others serving two counties. Calumet and Manitowoc Counties will discuss merger at the annual Calumet meeting at 1 p.m. Monday in Chilton.

High milk production trophy was retained by Wehrman who won it last year. His cow's record was 14,268 pounds of milk and 643 pounds of butterfat.

Oscar Mueller won the high butterfat trophy for his cow's production of 650 pounds of butterfat and 12,553 pounds of milk.

The annual twilight meeting was set for Aug 22; members were reminded of the parish show at Oshkosh (one of four in the state), and members voted to send two 4-H members on the annual Fox Valley Guernsey tour.

Calumet's 4-H Travelers To be Picked

Interviews March 18 To Decide Members For Chicago, Canada

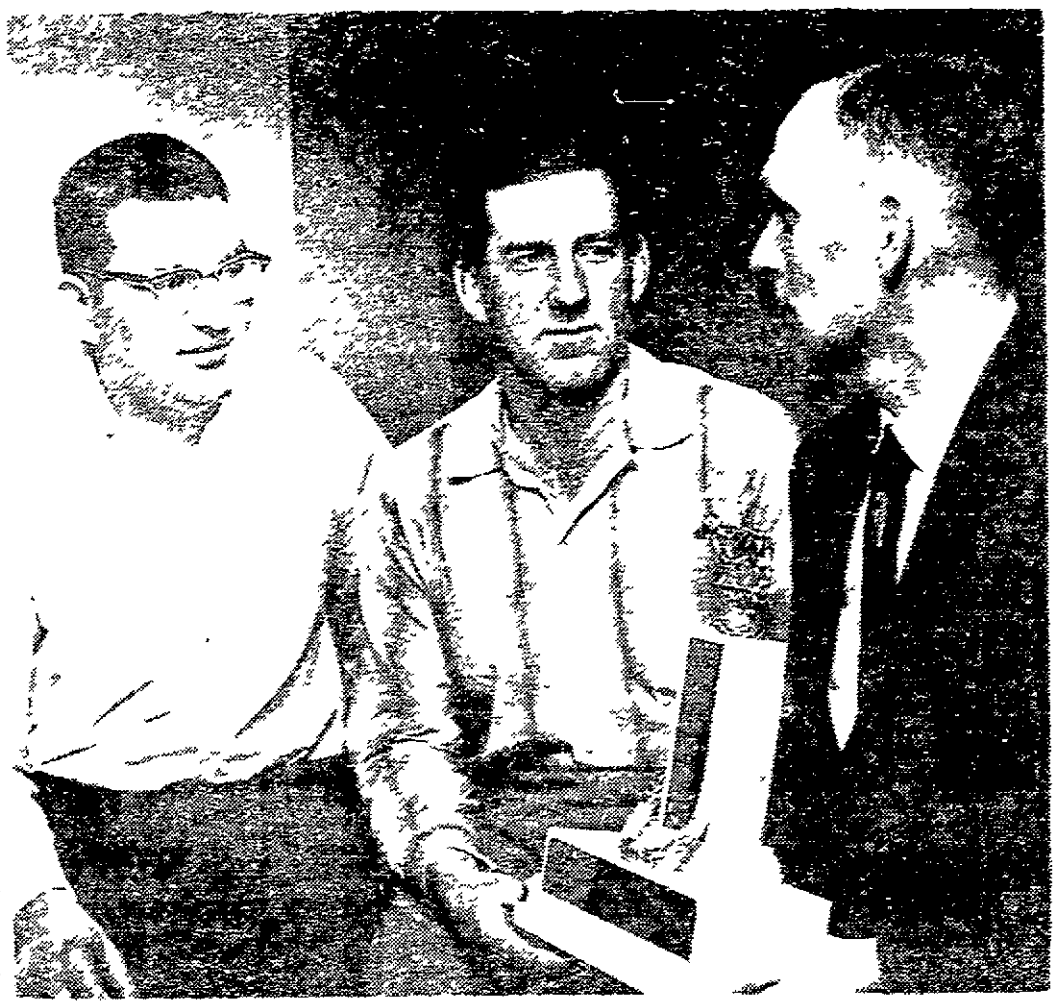
CHILTON — Chicago, Washington, D.C., and Canada will all be visited this summer and fall by Calumet County 4-H club members who will be selected at interviews Saturday, March 18, here at the court house.

Members must apply to the committee of adult 4-H leaders and former club members Evaluation sheets by the local 4-H leader in the club and a self-evaluation sheet are filled out beforehand for the committee

Past years' records in 4-H will be considered for selection of any of the awards. Younger members doing excellent work are in the best position for selection in future years. The current year's record must also be up to quality and standards or alternates will be picked to replace those selected for first choice March 18

Scholarships will include financial help for the Washington, D.C., citizenship short course Aug 26-Sept 3 and State 4-H Club Week June 13-16 The National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago Nov. 26-30 is a full paid scholarship from the national 4-H sponsor except for about $25 from the member

Three members will be selected for a week exchange trip to Canada July 15-22. The cost will be under $25 for each member. One adult leader or couple will chaperone the group and drive.



Lavern Wehrman, route 2, Black Creek, re-elected president of the Outagamie County Guernsey Breeders Association, tells new directors of its achievements. Joining him are Robert Engel, route 2, Shawano, and Gerald Gaertig, route 2, Oconto Falls. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Want Insurance Acreage

Signup for Feed Grain Lagging in Valley Area

Farmers in the Fox Valley region may want to keep insurance acres on which to raise corn for their dairy herds and more profits rather than sign them up for federal control and payments under the 1967 Feed Grain Program.

This was the view of one veteran observer in explaining the slow signup rate at county offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) in the valley Deadline for signups is Friday, March 17.

The feed grain program controls from a quarter to a third of the base acres in the region but signups locally and nationally are lagging

The observer said it appeared that farmers were saying they could raise the feed cheaper than buy it A gradual increase in cash cropping in the region also may cause the lag.

Area Report

Here is a report of signups as of March 2 from eight area counties

Shawano — 63 per cent of last year's number 701 are signed representing 19 per cent of the total feed grain base on farms in the county.

Waupaca — 63 per cent of last

Dairy Cattle Being Converted to Beef

BY O. P. CUFF
Special to The Post-Crescent

Ever since the 16th century when the Colling Brothers of England and Amos Crookshank began breeding what we have always known as beef cattle, there has ben great progress in that respect.

The so - called beef cattle were bred to develop carcasses that would yield a large percentage of the most desireable and costly cuts.

During the past few years there has been a marked change in the concept of production of beef, a change in quite a different direction. Instead of continuing to develop and breed choice and prime beef cattle, many of our farmers have turned to the production of beef with dairy cattle, a concept never thought of 50 years ago and in fact a practise we tried to get away from.

Like any other progress we have made in farming, there are always some who question if the progress is in the right direction.

Holstein Steers

A survey of the situation here in Wisconsin will show that many of our feed lots that were filled with beef cattle in the past, are now filled with Holstein steers. Those who have had experience in feeding dairy cattle are wondering if we are to change to feeding them for beef, if feeding bulls would be more advantageous and if there should be some study and research along those lines.

There are a number of facts concerning the feeding of dairy cattle for beef and sausage use that should be given further consideration.

This is becoming an increasingly sausage eating nation. Sausage makers agree that bulls are ideal for this purpose.

Produced Cheaper

A three-year-old Holstein bull, well fed on roughage and a small amount of grain will sell for about $300 to $400 on the market today.

A 15-month-old bull, full grain fed, will bring at least as much as a steer the same age and fed the same. With available figures and experience we are led to believe that bull beef can be produced 20 per cent cheaper and will be just as desireable on the butcher's block.

If the time ever comes when we stop importing lean meat for sausage, and turn to producing our own sausage meat under our own government inspection the Wisconsin Holstein bull will be up to bat and we should be in the field.

Approximately 60 Dairy Farmers from Outagamie County attended a series of clinics on dairying which concluded this week at Black Creek. The series was arranged by Agricultural Agent Russell Luckow. Ervin Van Handel, route 1, Kaukauna, above, checks with Prof. James Crowley, UW extension dairyman, while Curtiss Skorczewski, route 1, Black Creek, below, consults with Prof. Wayne Burch, UW extension veterinarian. USDA Lowering Interest Fees On Support Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — With some easing of the money situation, the Agriculture Department will reduce effective March 15, from the current 5.5 to 5 2 per cent a year interest it will pay on private funds advanced for farm price support loan programs.

The department obtains private funds for this purpose through the sale of what it calls certificates of interest.

Increase Compensation Rates For Cherry, Berry Pickers

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Boosts in the piece rates of compensation for Wisconsin cherry and strawberry pickers have been ordered by the state industrial commission to be consistent with the new minimum hourly rates set by the commission for women and minors.

The new minimum rate for cherry picking will be 27 cents per nine-pound pail or three cents a pound, and for strawberries nine cents a quart, producers have been informed.

The new hourly minimum rates are $1.25 for adult women and for minors 18 years of age and more, and $1.10 for minors 17 years of age and over. The rates apply to agricultural as well as other employment, and in the case of agricultural work the Wisconsin rates are higher than those under the new federal wage-hour law which sets a minimum of $1 an hour.

Outagamie 4-H Project Training Sessions Set

BLACK CREEK — A foods and nutrition project training meeting for Outagamie 4-H leaders will be conducted March 14 and 28 at the community hall here. Mrs. Judy Stellwagen Schroeder will conduct the sessions all of which start at 8 p.m.

Tractor and automotive project leaders and members will be meeting simultaneously there for training sessions. Conducting them will be Peter Ver Voort, Clarence Marx, Clair Bodoh, Alvin Wendt, Club Agent William Shaw and Agricultural Agent Russell Luckow.

Fruitgrowers to Confer Friday

Prof. Earl Waide, University of Wisconsin horticultural specialist, will discuss fungicide recommendation for 1967 at the annual meeting of the Outagamie County Fruit Growers Association at 11 a.m. Friday at the Black Creek Community Hall.

Processing Porkie's Carcass

Handling Changes Can Up Profits

Giving pigs "proper care" immediately before slaughter and handling carcasses in the right way pays off in dollars to meat processors.

In fact, the kind of carcass one gets as a result of pre-slaughter and post-slaughter handling can spell a million-dollar difference in profit or less to the meat processor. This is a conservative estimate of Ernest J. Briskey and other meat specialists of the University of Wisconsin. Here's how they arrived at that estimate.

Ideally, pork for processing should be dark red, firm, and dry instead of pale, soft, and watery Whether a carcass is of either quality depends on a number of physiological processes taking place in the meat And these physiological processes are greatly influenced by the care pigs get just before slaughter and how the carcasses are handled

Generally red, firm, dry meat gives a larger yield of processed products than pale, soft, and watery meat, says Briskey and his colleagues For example, on the basis of yield differences for hams, loins, butts, picnics, and bellies, a red, firm carcass can average 4 to 5 per cent more meat than a pale, soft, watery carcass

If only 18 per cent of the carcasses are affected by this difference in meat quality, then the financial losses could amount to a sizeable sum over a certain period. Assuming that a pound of processed meat product costs only 50 cents, the yield differences between high and low quality carcasses would mean a $1½ to $2 million loss annually for a processing plant slaughtering 8,000 pigs per day.

The meat specialists propose several measures which will help reduce the problem:

Regulate the temperature in holding pens before slaughtering. A day or two before slaughtering, withdraw all food Any chemical or physical agent that can relax the animals will improve carcass quality. Immediately after removal of the visceral organs, cool the carcasses rapidly and process the meat quickly.

Farm Share of Food Dollar Drops

WASHINGTON (AP) — The farmers share of the consumer food dollar, continuing a decline begun a year ago, now averages 38 cents compared with 42 cents a year ago

Reporting this today, the Agriculture Department said the retail cost of a given quantity of food originating on U S farms during the first half of 1967 probably will hover near the level of the last quarter of 1966

The spread between farm prices and retail prices increased to a record size during the last three months of 1966 The department said a quantity of food costing $1,097 at retail gave farmers $149 and food processors and distributors $679

"Operating costs of food marketing firms likely will average higher in 1967 than in 1966," the department said. "Hourly earnings (including fringe benefits) by increases in output per of food marketing employes will man."

State Still Ranks Second With Smaller Calf Crop

Consumers found a smaller supply of veal for weinerschnitzel and other veal dishes last year as a result of a decrease in the number of calves born to herds in both Wisconsin and the nation, according to the Wisconsin Statistical Reporting Service.

Wisconsin's 1966 calf crop of over 2 million head was 3 per cent below the previous year, but continued to be the second largest crop in the nation. The crop last year was smaller as a result of the decline of milk cow numbers.

About 20 per cent of the calves born on Wisconsin farms annually are saved for dairy herd replacements either in the state or sold to dairymen in other states and foreign countries. Most of the remaining calves born each year are marketed for veal.

Marketings Up

While there were fewer calves born on Wisconsin farms last year, the cash income from marketings was considerably above 1965. Prices received for slaughter calves sold by the state's farmers averaged $28.28 a hundredweight, or 25 per cent above 1965.

Texas leads all states in the number of calves born each year. The 1966 calf crop of over 4½ million head was 1 per cent above the previous year. These calves come mainly from beef herds.

The nation's calf crop last year was 1 per cent below 1965 as a result of the decline in the number of milk cows offsetting increased beef cattle numbers.

SAVE UP TO $2.00 TON

on FERTILIZER Wed. & Thurs.

WHY THIS PLANT WAS BUILT!

This area has many progressive farms using an ever increasing volume of fertilizer to grow more and better crops. Bigger yields, and better quality make it profitable to fertilize properly. Our native soils are lacking on one or more nutrients needed for bumper crops, and each farm or field needs fertilizer blended to take care of those deficiences.

The cost of these fertilizers is a definite factor in the margin of profit accruing from the use. There are really two factors here: 1. Using the right fertilizer so that nutrients already in adequate supply are not wastefully duplicated. 2. The actual ton-cost of the fertilizer must be reasonable if a good profit margin is to be maintained.

We at Greenville Cooperative Fertilizer Plant have designed our operation to do both — Give you exactly what you need, at a price that will give you a good profit margin.

Warned Against Overproduction

Survey Farmers for Crop Planting Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department expects to know by March 20 what kind of plans the nation's farmers have for expanding crop production this year.

The agency is checking farmers throughout the nation on their plans for planting such spring crops as spring wheat, corn, barley, sorghum grain, tobacco, potatoes, soybeans, rye, peanuts, dry beans and flaxseed.

The results will be made public March 20.

Deadline Nears

The department also is nearing the close of a signup campaign for farmers desiring to cooperate with this year's production adjustment programs for wheat, feed grains and cotton. The government has called for an increase of up to 31 per cent in the wheat acreage over last year, about 13 per cent for feed grains and 10 to 12 per cent for soybeans.

Farmers must sign agreements of cooperation in order to become eligible for price supports and payments under the grain and cotton programs.

Meanwhile, Edwin Christianson, vice president of the National Farmers Union, has issued a statement cautioning farmers to "avoid the temptation toward vast overproduction in 1967."

He said there have been disturbing signs that farmers might go overboard in planting extra allowable acres to crops which, he said, might easily get into surplus trouble with one big crop.

Two Guernsey Associations to View Merger

Calumet May Join Manitowoc; Eye Hephner's Bill

CHILTON — Calumet County Guernsey Breeders will consider a proposal to merger with Manitowoc County breeders due to their dwindling numbers and begin operating on a district basis.

Their Calumet numbers have narrowed down to a dozen in recent years. The annual meeting is 1 p.m. Monday at the courthouse assembly room here.

Monday's program also will feature Calumet Assemblyman Gervase Hephner, NFO President Joe Juckem; FB President Edgar Steinbach; and Holstein President Reuben Ott in a panel discussion of Hephner's bill on "low calorie butter."

Les Peckham and George Chambers from the state and national associations will bring news of activities on their levels.

"Bobbie" Stanelle, Brillion, and Allen Lintner, Chilton, are president and secretary-treasurer of the Calumet association.

NFO Feed Is Saturday At Wautoma

WAUTOMA — The Waushara County chapter of the National Farmers Organization will sponsor its annual whole hog sausage feed at the high school, here, from 5 to 9 p.m. Saturday.

Guest speaker will be Robert Manke, national director from Wisconsin.

Farm Prices Show Decline

Milk Fees Drop; Cows Unchanged; Hogs, Lambs Down

MADISON (AP)—Prices Wisconsin farmers received for their products in February were down from January with a decline in milk prices the main reason for the drop, the Agricultural Reporting Service noted today.

Prices received last month for milk cows were unchanged from January but were $35 higher than a year ago. The February price was $280 per head.

Hog prices, at $18.75 a hundredweight, were 30 cents below January. Lambs brought $20.70 per hundredweight, down 50 cents from January.

The February milk price was $4.49 per hundred pounds, a drop of 10 cents from January. Corn brought $1.30 a bushel in February, about the same as in January.

Refinishing Furniture Starts With Good Wood

BY WILLIAM SHAW
Outagamie County 4-H Agent

There is more to refinishing furniture than sanding off one layer of varnish and applying a new one, reminds University of Wisconsin home furnishings specialist Jane Graff.

Even before the old finish is removed one should consider whether the furniture is really worth the effort. Furniture worth refinishing will have good wood, sound construction and interesting design.

Varnish and paint remover are recommended for lifting the old finish. Lye is not usually satisfactory, she warns, because it may burn the wood or darken it. If not entirely removed, lye may injure the new finish.

Read Instructions

Brush on the remover and let it stand until the finish is softened. Do only a small area at a time and brush in one direction. In all cases, read the instructions supplied by the manufacturer before you begin.

Remove the finish with a putty knife, scraping "with" the grain. Use a tooth brush and steel wool for cleaning carvings and scroll work. Final applications of the remover may be rubbed off with a soft cloth.

After the old finish has been entirely removed, clean the wood thoroughly with denatured alcohol, unless otherwise specified on the label.

Next, include all those little steps which make your refinishing job complete. It will be worth your while to reglue loose parts, remove dark spots and raise dents before revarnishing.

If one of the joints is loose and needs glueing, scrape off all the old glue. If the wood is very smooth, it may be necessary to cut it or scrape it with a knife because rough surfaces glue together better.

A good grade of furniture glue should be applied and then the joint tied or clamped together firmly to help set the glue. If you use cloth strips to tie the parts together, dampen the cloth first so that it will tighten as it dries.

Raising dents and bruises in old furniture can be done, says Miss Graff, although it requires some care. Apply a wet blotter or woolen cloth over the dent and surrounding area of the wood. Press a hot iron in a circular motion over wet blotter or cloth to produce steam.

It may take several applications to help raise the dent. This treatment cannot be applied to veneered wood, points out the furniture specialist, because it has a tendency to loosen the veneer.

Sometimes dark spots can be bleached out by covering the surface with a weak solution of oxalic acid. However, applying the bleach to only the darkened area may leave spots, so for more uniform results cover the entire surface with the bleach. Naturally, the dark spot will require more acid than surrounding areas.

Feed Grain Signup Behind; May Even Supply, Demand

CHILTON — Sylvester Wagner, chairman of the Calumet ASCS County Committee, reminded farmers of the March 17 deadline to sign up in the 1967 Feed Grain Program.

To date 225 farmers in Calumet County have signed up to participate in the 1967 Program. In 1966, 360 farmers participated.

Wagner said, "We have made a lot of progress in bringing the supply in line with demands, eliminated surpluses and now need to maintain this balance now and in the future.

"It would be easy to ruin prices and create an imbalance between supply and demand," he said. "All-out feed grain production is not needed at this time."

Wagner urged all feed grain producers to sign up and participate in the 1967 Program.

A total of 36 cattle have been consigned for the April 8 sale at Fond du Lac. Requirements are 10,000 pounds of milk and 500 pounds of butterfat.

Milk sales showed a 2 per cent gain, 5-6 per cent for Golden Guernsey milk shipped to Lake-to Lake Dairy Co-op.

Russell Luckow, county agricultural agent, suggested the association encourage dairy projects among 4-H and members of the Future Farmers of America chapters. He noted growing enthusiasm among dairyman at both the Holstein and Guernsey breed state conventions this year.

Pacific Conference Planned by LBJ

suspend the tax break last fall only because of inflationary pressures.

This time he acted because the economy has been sagging a bit and seems in need of a shot in the arm.

But he told questioners his move doesn't mean he's abandoned his proposed 6 per cent income tax surcharge, which he's asked Congress to approve effective July 1.

"We see no reason to change that recommendation," he said, and predicted economic developments later this year will provide arguments for the proposal.

Johnson's rather offhand announcement of his plans to travel several thousand miles to meet with Lodge and Westmoreland came after he was asked about reports Lodge plans to resign.

Talk on Future

He said Lodge had talked with him several times about eventually leaving the ambassadorship. Then he added that he would fully explore the envoy's future "in Vietnam or elsewhere, if he cares to do that."

After the television cameras were turned off and reporters were leaving the room, some crowded around the President to ask when and where the Vietnam conference would take place.

Johnson just smiled and said nothing.

George Christian, press secretary, who was besieged with inquiries within minutes, said there would be an immediate word on the timing or locale of the meeting.

On other topics Johnson said:

The government is very hopeful that despite January's triple tragedy in an Apollo spacecraft, the nation will be able to meet its goal of landing men on the moon by 1970. However, Johnson cautioned "I don't think there is any guarantee that we will at all."

CIA Subsidies

Regarding subsidies by the Central Intelligence Agency for student and other groups, "I regret very much some of the intemperate statements and some of the severe criticisms that have been made about various government agencies including the Central Intelligence Agency." Saying it would be better for all Americans if there were unity of opinion, he said he expects a report on all CIA activities later this month and after receiving it, he'll "make such decisions as may be indicated."

"I realize that there are differing opinions" on overhauling the military draft. On such politically touchy subjects as continuation of deferments for college students, "I will reach a decision when Congress has had a chance to act."

He believes the Soviet Union wants peace and that the United States and Soviets have been able to find areas of mutual agreement despite the Vietnam war.

Midair Collision Might be Cause Of 26 Fatalities of where a Lake Central Airlines turbojet went down in a snow-sleet storm Sunday night with 38 aboard. All were killed

The Civil Aeronautics Board, still investigating that tragedy, quickly turned to search for the cause of the second one. Some members of the investigating team sent here came from the scene of the earlier crash.

"We don't know what happened yet," said Ed Slattery of the CAB at the scene. "No one saw it."

The Federal Aviation Agency refused to say there had been a collision in the air. But the DC9 had been in contact with the Federal Aviation Agency traffic control at Dayton by radar at 11:54 a.m. and Burgstahler by radio with the Springfield Airport, 20 miles to the south, at 11:50 a.m.

The weather was clear and bright.

Collision Course

U.S. Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, Urbana newspaper and radio station owner, said he had learned there were indications FAA radar had shown the planes on a collision course.

"There was no indication of any problems," Tann reported.

The airliner left New York's LaGuardia Field for Chicago, with stops at Harrisburg, Pa., and Pittsburgh, with a full load of 70 passengers. At Pittsburgh 56 debarked and 15 passengers boarded.

Residents in the crash area reported hearing one boom — some thought it was a sonic boom — and then an explosion

"I couldn't believe it could burn so fast," Francis H. McCaffery said. McCaffery looked out the door of his home when he heard his sister cry. "My God, it's a plane." He said he saw the airliner 75 feet above his house, then clear the treetops and explode. Debris shot into the air. McCaffery said the plane burned in seconds.

Stalin Daughter Defects to West

er, but she apparently gave it up after meeting Singh.

Miss Stalina was rarely seen in public, but there was a report that last March on the anniversary of her father's death she placed a bouquet on his grave in Red Square.

Affection From Father

Stalin doted on his daughter and Russians in the know said she was one of the few persons he showed affection to. In the last years of his life she spent much time with Stalin in his dacha or country house 20 miles west of Moscow.

The airport source would not say where Miss Stalina went after her arrival in Rome, but the official news agency Ansa said there were reports she was taken to the U.S. Embassy to wait until she could go to the United States.

The public information officer of the U.S. Embassy in Rome, Gordon A. Ewing, told newsmen, "We have no information" on the initial reports from unofficial sources in Washington.

The U.S. Embassy spokesman in New Delhi was unusually guarded

'No Comment'

"No comment is all I am saying," he told newsmen. Asked whether there might be an announcement later he replied: "I doubt it very seriously."

James Reston, writing in the New York Times from Washington, said reports reaching the U.S. capital said Miss Stalina went to India as a tourist and told U.S. officials there she did not intend to return to the Soviet Union because she believed she was "in danger." He added that it was denied in Washington that she asked for asylum in the United States

Reston pointed out that the defection of Stalin's daughter obviously was an embarrassment to the Soviet Union. And officials in Washington — because of the current delicate U.S.-Soviet negotiations over Vietnam, the treaty to control the spread of nuclear weapons, and to exchange consulates — "were being extremely cautious not to give the impression that they wished to add to Moscow's difficulties"

Ruins of Long-Sought City Found in Hill South of Rome

ROME (AP) — A farmer whose hobby is archeology has discovered the ruins of a long sought city razed by Roman conquerors 2,459 years ago

The site was actually dug up long ago by suppliers of the antiquities black market who probably didn't realize what they had found, experts said.

Bernardino Tofani, the farmer and amateur archeologist, spotted signs of ruins during a Sunday picnic with his family on the Belriposo — Beautiful Rest — hill south of Rome.

Helped by his son and another farmer, he started digging and later reported to the government Fine Arts office in Rome.

Prof. Alpino Pizzoli, a Fine Arts official, said random excavations on the hill disclosed that the truncated walls and columns uncovered belonged to the ancient town of Volscia Longula which got its name from the Volscae tribe and from the fact that it was spread over the long hilltop.

The town was destroyed by the Romans in 492 B.C. at the end of a long war. The conquerors were said to have spread salt on the ruins to signify Volscia Longula had been wiped from the face of the earth forever.

Pizzoli said investigation showed that clandestine excavators had unearthed part of the ruins seeking antiquities for the black market and then tried to cover their traces by filling the holes they had made.

"They probably never imagined archeologists have been looking for the site of Volscia Longula for hundreds of years," Pizzoli said.

refurbish the press gallery — including wall-to-wall carpeting.

Nor is it only through salaries that the House rewards its workers. At an estimated cost of $12.9 million, which undoubtedly will be higher when the final cost is known, two underground garages for employes are nearing completion on Capitol Hill.

The garages have three levels, capable of parking a total of 1,276 cars. With 1,650 spaces tucked into the bottom four levels of the Rayburn Building, 869 places on the Capitol grounds, and 1,392 Senate parking places, there are nearly 6,000 spaces available on Capitol Hill — none of which are open to the thousands of tourists who come to see their Capitol each day. And if the visitors do find a place to leave their cars, they have to pay 25 cents each for a guided tour. This revenue is pooled and divided among the guides, netting each of them about $12,000 a year. A Senate-approved bill pending in the House would eliminate the charge.

Something to Eat

Tourists also find it hard to get anything to eat at the Capitol, although the taxpayers contributed more than $500,000 to help operate House and Senate restaurants last year. The money went to make up ever-mounting deficits — $260,000 in the Senate and $245,000 in the House.

The House recently raised restaurant prices 10 per cent in an effort to trim the deficit by $50,000, but early indications are that a drop in business, not in losses, will be the main result. The prices are now comparable with those in commercial restaurants, but the congressional restaurants primarily have only a luncheon business and yet have to remain open whenever Congress is in session, making it hard to operate economically.

Another extra: Haircuts. They're free for senators in the Senate barber shop. The House clings to its half-price haircut, with the public paying the other half. It employs 10 barbers at salaries of $6,000 each and lets them keep all the money they take in at $1 a head. Senate barbers also get a basic $6,000 a year. Tips average about $1.25 per haircut.

In most cities the going price is $2 or more. The Capitol barbers buy their own supplies, but pay nothing for rent or utilities.

The House and Senate also provide swimming pools and gym facilities for their members with full-time attendants on the payroll, and appropriate $13,000 each to operate chauffered limousine for the leaders of both parties.

Hikes All Over

In all, the cost of the legislative function in Washington has climbed precipitately in the last decade. In 1957 appropriations for the House, Senate and Library of Congress totaled $78 million. This year the request is for the House, Senate and Library of Congress totaled $78 with high-salaried positions — in the other branches of government, however. Appropriations for the judiciary jumped from $40 million to $86 million during the same period, and spending for the executive office of the President went from $10.4 million in 1957 to the current request for $26 million.

Civilian federal employes — including civilians at the Defense Department — now total 2,848,179. The total 10 years ago was 2,387,015

The last attempt Congress made to control the population explosion on its own payroll was in 1946 when it passed a law limiting each standing committee to 10 staff members — four professional and six clerical.

The dismal failure of the law is illustrated by the fact that today, Senate committees limited to 150 staffers by the statute, employ 615. What the committees did was create subcommittees, which then hired their own staffs.

16 Subcommittees

The leading example of such proliferation is the Senate Judiciary Committee. It has spawned 16 subcommittees and now employs 198 staffers, 106 of them professionals.

A few weeks ago Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., tried to lop off one of the subcommittees which had been set up 15 years ago to conduct a study of juvenile delinquency.

Going back to the original action, he showed it was intended that the subcommittee would complete its work in one session and disband, with a total expenditure of $50,000. The Senate listened politely and overwhelmingly approved a 16th year for the subcommittee, which has now spent $1.3 million. On Monday, the Senate defeated 51 to 23 Ellender's move to block authority for Senate committees to hire 48 additional staffers at salaries up to $25,890.

One reform that administration committee members would like to see is the adoption of budgets by House committees. Now, millions of dollars are appropriated each year to run committees, largely on the strength of the chairman's statement that that is what he needs.

"It's a helluva way to run things," says a concernedmember.

Now it is generally admitted that the system has failed. It works only if doctors do not overprescribe and if addicts do not sell their surplus to people not yet addicted. Both practices have become common.

The number of heroin addicts has risen from 62 officially recorded in 1958 to 670 last September. And they grow steadily younger: none under 20 in 1959, 145 in 1965.

The use of marijuana has also shown a marked increase since 1960.

As part of a planned campaign to prevent spread of addiction among youngsters, police are stepping up the number of raids on parties, youth clubs and cafes where the drugs are pushed.

British Aware Of Multiplying Drug Problem

Police Intensifying Efforts to Save Youths From Habit

By GRANVILLE WATTS

LONDON (AP) — Schoolgirls turn to vice to get narcotics — fashionable London church is scene of dope pushers — 19-year-old girl dies after drugs party.

London newspaper headlines tell the sad story.

Suddenly the British have awakened to an appalling problem in their midst — teen-age narcotics addiction.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government, concerned over the soaring drug addiction figures, is drafting amendments to existing laws.

In Britain family doctors are allowed to prescribe heroin and cocaine for addicts.

Special Centers

Under proposed legislation, addicts will be able to obtain supplies only at special drug centers in hospitals.

There are 1,000 narcotics addicts recorded through the system of voluntary registration and prescription records. The unofficial figure is put at 2,000-3,000.

This compares with 532 in 1962. The Vera Institute of Justice in New York, engaged in a joint study with the British, says Britain will have at least 10,000 addicts in the 20-year age range within five years.

The accent on youth is worrying the British. Ben Parkin, a Laborite, told the House of Commons that he knew of cases where schoolchildren were peddling pep pills — called purple hearts — in the classrooms and playgrounds of their schools.

Children Are Agents

"The tragic situation is that the children who become addicted to purple hearts are unable to find the money to purchase more supplies except by acting as agents themselves," he said.

Dr. John Owens, consultant psychiatrist at a Birmingham Hospital, observes: "The teenage culture today is not against drug taking."

Authorities at Cambridge University are investigating charges that the hallucinatory drug LSD is being produced by science students on the campus.

Until recently the British were proud of their permissive attitude toward addicts. Authorities believed they were striking the right balance with humane treatment of addicts as sick people needing medical attention.

In 1960 a government committee reported that the scale of drug addiction was so small and so well controlled that "we see no grounds for suggesting further statutory control over habit-forming drugs."

Now it is generally admitted that the system has failed. It dist for the Communist Viet Minh.

By 1958, Phat had risen through the Communist ranks to become chairman of the executive committee in the Saigon-Cholon-Gia Dinh capital area. He became deputy chairman of the NLF in 1963.

Tho, 56, a lawyer, was born in Cholon, Saigon's Chinese section. He was a political prisoner of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem but escaped in October 1962. The Communists announced his appointment as NLF chairman in 1963.

The United States originally refused to hold peace talks with the Viet Cong in any form, contending that the Communist guerrilla force did not constitute a legal government. But over the past two years the Johnson administration has gradually relaxed this position.

President Johnson in May 1965 said the question of Viet Cong representation at the conference table was not insurmountable. Administration officials later said Viet Cong representatives could be part of a North Vietnamese negotiating team.

Interest Rates at Some Savings and Loans Cut to 5½ Per Cent

CHICAGO (AP)—The interest rate on some new loans to member savings and loan associations in Wisconsin and Illinois was reduced from 5¾ to 5½ per cent Thursday by directors of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Chicago.

The new rate is retroactive to March 1 and will apply only on new loans in excess of the association's FHLB loan balances outstanding as of Feb. 28 "less mandatory repayments as made."

It is the second rate reduction this year returning the rate on such loans to 1966 levels.

A spokesman said the new rates "should assist savings and loan associations in financing expansion of the housing market."

adverse developments in the economy."

A Democratic member of the House Ways and Means Committee criticized the administration and the Federal Reserve Board for not lowering interest rates significantly before the announcement about reinstatement of the investment tax credit.

Rep. Al Ullman of Oregon said he does not oppose the reinstatement as such, but "the most important means of reinvigorating our economy is to get interest rates down now."

The President's moves drew immediate praise from the business community and spurred a flurry of late trading and higher prices on the Pacific Coast stock exchange. The New York stock exchange already had closed before Johnson made his surprise announcement of the tax move Thursday in a message to Congress and a televised news conference.

The surprise was tempered by much advance speculation that, because of several indications the economy was losing some steam, a shift in administration policy might be under way.

Most of this speculation, however, had centered on the possibility Johnson might withdraw the income tax proposal.

Asked about this by newsmen, Johnson vigorously restated his belief that the surcharge should be enacted and said his administration expects to be able to make a good case for it when the time comes.

But some congressional sources said Johnson could hardly do otherwise without shaking confidence in the administration contention that the economy will be strong enough by midyear to absorb a deficit-narrowing tax boost.

Pushers Find More Marijuana Sales if They Provide Stamps

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A state narcotics agent reports that trading stamps are being given with marijuana purchases in San Francisco's hippie district.

Supervising agent Matthew O'Connor said Thursday that an undercover investigator bought four ounces of marijuana at a "hippie pad" in the Naight-Ashbury district for $30 and was given "eight bonafide trading stamps, of a type you'd receive, say, at a gas station."

O'Connor said that although "the agent was flabbergasted he managed to regain his cool in time to arrest Carl O. Angle, 21, who was charged with selling marijuana. Three others also were arrested.

the Mekong Delta, where a dozen allied military operations are in progress, no contact was reported with the Viet Cong.

However, the elusive enemy showed Thursday morning it still has plenty of capacity to hit hard and run. Viet Cong units launched simultaneous attacks on Duc Hoa, 12 miles west of Saigon and the headquarters of the Vietnamese 25th Division, and against a nearby district town

A Vietnamese spokesman said moderate casualties were inflicted against one government battalion, with enemy casualties unknown.

The paratrooper action was typical of the isolated clashes that have characterized Junction City and other military operations in Vietnam.

Military sources said the unit from the 173rd Airborne Brigade occupied the jungle-shrouded camp after a brief firefight. As they searched through the thatched huts, Viet Cong gunners opened up on them from the deeper jungle with automatic weapons

Some Viet Cong snipers were tied in trees. Others were concealed in bunkers outside the camp perimeter. The paratrooper company was pinned down for five hours and withdrew toward evening under artillery cover.

in his proposal, but that "agriculture has taken a back seat for years at the University and we intend to do something about it."

Legislative sources indicated that Nuttelman has already had private inquiries made and has found that upper echelon University administrators are apparently reluctant to approve priorities in research and building appropriations that are related to farmers' concerns.

Other and lesser university departments are being favored over the College of Agriculture, he claimed.

Nuttelman is expected to argue, when the proposal comes up for a vote, that agriculture and activity immediately associated with it in the processing, distribution and sale of farm produce accounts for at least 40 per cent of the gross annual income of the people of Wisconsin.

Jersey Breeders Favor Retaining Tax on Oleo

FOND DU LAC (AP) — The Wisconsin Jersey Breeders Association favors the retention of a tax on colored oleomargarine when and if the ban on the spread is lifted by the legislature.

Delegates to the association's annual convention Saturday took no stand on whether the ban should be repealed but adopted a resolution favoring a tax.

Another resolution called for legislation to cut back dairy imports to 1961-65 levels.

Freeman Backs Rural Development

By OVID A. MARTIN
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has thrown his support behind a rural areas development program that Congress failed to act on last year.

The legislation would authorize the federal government to make financial grants to multi-county groups to develop technical plans preparing the way for economic expansion in their areas.

Such plans would seek to encourage business and industry to build plants in the areas. They also would aim at developing better community services—such as improved water and sewage systems, better health and school facilities as well as recreational areas—designed to encourage industrial development.

The proposal was considered at some length by congressional committees last year, but the session ended before action was taken.

In a talk before the legislative conference of the National Association of Counties Monday, Freeman said "your organization gave support to this proposal a year ago. I earnestly hope your support of the multi-county planning concept will continue."

The sources in Moscow said Miss Stalina had been living in the Soviet capital with an Indian Communist named Brijesh Singh who worked as a translator for the Soviet "Progress" publishing organization.

The informants said Singh died last December or January at the age of 59 and was cremated in Moscow. They said Miss Stalina obtained permission to accompany his ashes to India and visit his family there.

Stalin's daughter used the name Stalina because Russian women customarily add an "A" to their names.

She has lived in obscurity since her father's death in 1953 but was the subject of lively gossip while he lived. Reports had circulated in Moscow of numerous romances, and several of her lovers were reportedly jailed for incurring Stalin's displeasure.

Married at 17

At 17, she reportedly married a student named Grigory Morozov but was forced by her father to divorce him. One report said she had had four or five husbands since then. She was reported to have had two children by her first marriage, a son now 21 and a daughter now 15, and to have left them in the Soviet Union.

After Stalin's death she reportedly attended an institute in Moscow specializing in philology. She reportedly speaks English fluently.

Jailed Hoffa Again Appeals for New Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa, jailed after the U.S. Supreme Court refused last week to hear his appeals, has turned to the high court again in hopes of getting out.

Hoffa's attorneys asked Chief Justice Earl Warren to free Hoffa on bail from Lewisburg, Pa., federal prison until the federal court in Chattanooga, Tenn., rules on a motion for a new trial.

The President tossed some jibes at Republican critics saying "some few are denouncing the war in Vietnam because it eats into social programs — which most of their party voted against."

Tax Incentives Restoration Met With Favor

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's call for restoring some powerful business tax incentives appears to be getting favorable early reaction in Congress.

But some lawmakers were looking today beyond the immediate issue — restoration of the 7 per cent investment tax credit and of some advantageous depreciation rules — to question whether Johnson still expects Congress to add a surtax to individual and corporate income taxes by July 1.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee announced a hearing next Tuesday and said the tax-writing group hopes to have the investment credit measure cleared for House action during the week.

Democratic Leader Carl Albert said the bill would be scheduled for debate before the end of the week if possible.

Byrnes Sees Trouble

But Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., while agreeing the incentive restoration probably will have easy going in the House, said it might spell later trouble for the President's proposed 6 per cent income tax surcharge.

"How can we march up the hill with a big tax cut for certain taxpayers, and then a few weeks later march down the hill with a tax boost?" he asked.

The House Republican Leader, Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, welcomed Johnson's move to restore the investment tax credit but said he is surprised "that the President still clings to his proposal for a 6 per cent income tax surtax in the face of

Clash Comes During Attack On Steel Mill

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force Thunderchief jets shot down a North Vietnamese MIG fighter, probably downed a second and damaged a third during a raid against a Communist steel fabricating mill 38 miles north of Hanoi today, a U.S. spokesman reported.

The F105 Thunderchiefs, flying from bases in Thailand, were attacking the Thai Nguyen steel plant when they encountered the MIGS.

No U.S. planes were reported damaged.

Total Now 36

A total of 35 MIGS have been reported downed in previous encounters over North Vietnam.

The Thai Nguyen plant makes bridge sections, cargo barges and petroleum drums. A spokesman said the "bombs were on target" but gave no other results.

The last duel between U.S. planes and North Vietnamese MIGs occurred on Jan. 6, when two of the Red jets were downed.

The raid over the North came during a comparative lull in ground fighting in South Vietnam, punctuated by a sharp clash between U.S. paratroopers and the Viet Cong in the tangled jungles of War Zone C.

Fighting died down to its lowest intensity in two weeks along the demilitarized zone, the scene of constant mortar attacks against U.S. Marine positions.

Viet Cong Supposedly Install New Chief to Talk With U. S.

BY KENNETH L. WHITING

SAIGON (AP) — A change of leadership in the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front to smooth the way for direct peace talks with the United States was reported today by allied intelligence sources.

Huynh Tan Phat, deputy chairman of the Viet Cong's political arm, has replaced Nguyen Huu Tho as chairman, these sources said.

Reports of a change in the front's high command have circulated in Saigon government circles for more than a month, the sources said. Interrogation of Viet Cong prisoners and defectors and captured Communist documents appear to confirm the reports.

Phat Tho

Replacement of Tho by Phat reportedly was "for the purpose of treating directly with the United States" in peace negotiations. The sources said the Liberation Front plans no place at the table for Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's Saigon government. That alone would appear to be an insurmountable obstacle to negotiations between the Viet Cong and the United States.

American intelligence sources offered two possible reasons for the switch.

They said Phat might appear more acceptable to the Americans at the bargaining table. Tho is a widely known Communist figure in South Vietnam with strong ties to Hanoi. Phat is known mostly to party intellectuals and is relatively unknown outside Communist circles.

Could be Scapegoat

Another possible reason, the sources said, is that Hanoi wants Phat to negotiate so he can be discarded as a scapegoat if talks break down. Tho would retain real power.

Phat is now believed to be at NLF headquarters in Viet Cong-controlled areas of South Vietnam or — more likely — in Cambodia.

The clandestine Communist liberation radio usually reports Tho as being in South Vietnam. However, intelligence sources say he spends most of his time in or near Hanoi.

Phat, 41, was born in My Tho in the Mekong Delta and was trained as an architect by the French in Hanoi. He was arrested in March 1946 as a propagan-

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department said Thursday Marine Pfc. Douglas L. Kramer son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kramer of Milwaukee, and Marine Pfc. Daniel J. Orlinowski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex B. Orlikowski of rural Athens, Wis., have been killed in action in Vietnam.

Time, Place Unannounced By Johnson

Westmoreland, Lodge to Attend War Policy Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says he'll take part in a Vietnam strategy conference later this month, "in the Pacific area somewhere."

This surprise disclosure, voiced Thursday at a news conference, left questions unanswered — mainly where and exactly when.

Johnson said he would be meeting in the next few weeks with Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador in Saigon, and Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the American commander in Vietnam. But he wouldn't specify the site except as being "in the Pacific area."

The 30-minute session with reporters also brought from Johnson a reaffirmed defense of American policy in Vietnam — and an apparent off-the-cuff slap at Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., who has suggested possible other ways to resolve the conflict that last week produced record American casualties.

Johnson, wearing a deep-hued blue shirt for his first news conference on live color TV, also came up with another surprise: An announcement that he is asking Congress to restore immediately the 7 per cent tax credit business had been claiming until last Oct. 10 on new investments in plant and equipment.

He persuaded Congress to

Jet, Private Plane May Have Collided

URBANA, Ohio (AP) — While grim investigators search for the remains of the last of 26 victims, a farmer told today of seeing a Trans World Airlines plane hit something in the air, probably a light plane, before they both crashed Thursday.

James R. McGuire said he saw "the big plane hit something. I couldn't tell what."

The DC9 TWA jet disintegrated in flames on an approach to Dayton's Municipal Airport. A private twin - engine beechcraft fell at the same time.

Bodies of the victims were being taken from the scene to a National Guard armory here today.

Moments before the crash, veteran airline pilot Karl B. Kohlsatt of Chicago had been warned of "unknown traffic" in his range by the Federal Aviation Agency.

Wreckage of the airliner and bodies of those aboard — 21 passengers and four crew members — were strewn through woods and gullies nine miles west of here.

AP Exclusive on House, Senate Finances

BY JOHN RECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — A generous Congress has pushed the salaries of its top employes to such levels that the House postmaster makes $550 more yearly than the postmaster of Chicago.

In the affluent society on Capitol Hill, $20,000-a-year jobs are commonplace. There are 494 of them, ranging up to the $26,500 paid to the head doorkeeper of the House — only $1,500 less than a member of Congress gets.

And while Congress talks of whittling down the Great Society programs, there are no signs that an economy wave threatens the spectacular success of its own private war against poverty.

Costs Skyrocket

Over-all payroll costs have skyrocketed 84 per cent in the House and 53 per cent in the Senate in the last six years. They are continuing to rise as the staffs of members and committees on both sides of the Capitol steadily expand. The House payroll increased by $6.4 million last year and staff additions just approved by the Senate are expected to increase the payroll 18 per cent. Senate committee costs more than doubled between 1956 ad 1966 — climbing from $4.7 million to $9.6 million.

Senate salaries totaled $25.89 million last year. The House total was $46.5 million.

In many cases, the salaries being paid appear to have little relationship to the economics of the market place.

The House postmaster, with less than 100 million pieces of mail to deal with yearly, gets $24,500 a year. Chicago's postmaster, responsible for 6.6 billion pieces, gets $23,950. The Senate, which generates less mail, pays its postmaster $19,635 about $1,000 more than the postmaster gets in Cleveland, where the mail runs to 1.8 billion pieces.

The manager of the bank that keeps accounts for the 435 members in the House gets $20,800 a year; the cashiers, $14,800. Banking sources say the manager of the average small private branch bank makes $10,000 or less and the cashiers' pay ranges from $4,000 to $7,000. The Senate has no bank.

Annual Raises

Fed by nearly annual pay raises, protected by patronage and all but screened from public view by formidably inadequate bookkeeping practices, the fat salaries have spread across Capitol Hill.

The shorthand reporters who record debate make $22,000 a year; the men who call the roll and those who record it make $19,200. The Senate chaplain, who reads a brief prayer to open each session, gets $15,830. The House chaplain gets $15,559.

Persons doing routine office work can make as much as $12,000, and messengers nearly $10,000, but at the lower job levels salaries are generally more in line with those outside Congress.

Salaries paid by the senators and representatives to their own staff aides also are more attuned to normal office practices, and the employes put in long hours, frequently working six days a week.

But aside from the members' own staffs, many House and Senate employes have duties only when Congress meets. This averages about four days a week, with recesses between annual sessions.

The legislative committees are a major source of the $20,000-and-up jobs. There are 133 of them on Senate committees, 79 on House committees and 14 on joint committees. The ceiling is $25,890 for both House and Senate committee staffs. The Senate boosted its top only last week to match the House.

One Staffer

Each House member is entitled to pay one staffer in his or her own office at the top rate of $20,650, but only 127 of the 435 do so. In the Senate, which has higher allowances, 109 aides get more than $20,000. In addition, the Senate itself has 25 top jobs, such as secretary, parliamentarian and sergeant-at-arms, paying more than $20,000, and the House has seven.

Congressional employes are eligible for the government's pension system under which a person with 30 years' service can retire at a little more than half-pay. Employes contribute 6½ per cent of their salary to the pension fund; the govern-

Snow Melting; Skiing Still Good

Fox Cities — Cloudy tonight with low near 30 degrees. Saturday, 40 per cent chance of light snow or drizzle, with high near 35 above zero. Light and variable winds becoming northeast Saturday.

Road and Ski Report — The snow cover is gone in much of southern Wisconsin, but there's still plenty of opportunity to ski in the Fox Valley area and further north. All main highways are clear; some snow and ice covers secondary roads.

Appleton — Observations for past 24 hours at 10:45 a.m. show high, 43; low, 31 degrees. Barometer 29.85 and steady. Winds from southeast at 9 miles per hour. Humidity, No precipitation.

Sun sets today at 5:52 p.m., rises tomorrow at 6:14 a.m. New Moon tonight at 10:30 p.m. Prominent stars are Rigel and Arcturus. Visible planets are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

Health Endangered by Sewage, Bad Plumbing, Expert Says

CHILTON —Sewage running into ditches in rural areas, trailer courts with inadequate septic tanks, and other improper plumbing installations, cause some of the sanitation problems Calumet County is facing, state health men told health officers, town chairmen and county board members at a meeting at the court house.

Donald Carter, general sanitarian, and H. W. Reinke, plumbing inspector of the State Board of Health's third district at Fond du Lac, urged town and city health officers to strictly enforce all laws, codes and standards which affect sanitation.

Trailer courts, Reinke said, usually have problems because they did not properly determine their needs relative to the sizes of septic tanks and the variety of water usages that must drain into the tanks. To correct this, he said, the courts must either cut down on water usage, or have plumbing installed at the right depths and new septic tanks buried, which are big enough to handle the waste materials.

Advises Tests

Carter stressed the importance of what he called "perculator tests" which determine the water consumption of the land on which the proposed septic tank is to be located. He said the tests should be made by a registered engineer to assure that readings indicate the soil type is the kind to absorb the water, or carry it off. Improper readings, made by an inexperienced person, can end up to be costly, he warned.

Reinke then explained the procedures for making application for installation of a spetic tank. He said that unless a master plumber inspects the site, which must meet all necessary requirements, the application would be rejected by the state plumbing inspector. This ruling is by order of the Plumbers' Code of July 1966.

The men discussed waste disposal units, design, construction of plumbing, and Reinke pointed out that some families who encounter periodic cases of sickness might investigate their water supply. For example, he said in such a situation he took water tests and found a large bacteria count, which was caused by improper plumbing installation.

Plumbing Faulty

Reinke said cross-connections between drainage and sewer systems are often health hazards, especially where water softeners, automatic washers and dishwasher drainage pipes filter the waste back into the drinking water. This all stems from faulty plumbing, he said, and is one of the reasons sanitation codes and standards had to be put into effect and enforced.

The men said that sanitary districts are being set up in some areas. These must consist of at least 51 per cent of the registered voters, who then take action on area water pollution

Mrs. Elizabeth Behnke, Calumet County health nurse, talked on the importance of good health habits relative to sanitation.

Claims Territory Shift Would Dilute Democratic Vote

STATE PAGE
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Assemblyman William Rogers, a Kaukauna Democrat, charged Thursday that a plan to reapportion Outagamie County's three Assembly districts was an attempt to use "raw political power" for "pure gerrymandering."

Rogers said that the plan, introduced in the State Senate by an Eau Claire legislator, was an attempt to reduce the Democratic voting tendencies of his district by substituting Republican areas for areas which constitute part of the bulwark of his voting support.

The plan, introduced by Sen. Raymond Johnson of Eau Claire in an amendment to the only reapportionment bill which can be passed until the 1970 census, is an attempt to exert "raw Republican political power," Rogers said.

Johnson is a freshman Republican legislator and the bill involves three districts, two of which are held by fellow Republicans — Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich of Appleton and Ervin Conradt of Shiocton.

Remove Areas

Rogers charged that the reapportionment bill's amendment would remove areas from his district which in the 1960, 1962 and 1964 elections voted an average of 51 per cent Democratic.

The areas placed in his district voted only 36 per cent Democratic in the same three elections, he charged.

The areas removed from his district could easily be counterbalanced by the dominant Republican tendencies of the portions remaining of the districts they are to be placed in, he claimed.

Election returns for the 1966 election are not yet available for a comparison study, he said.

Froehlich, when asked about the Rogers charge, replied "I haven't checked that out."

He said that he will present figures to challenge Rogers' claims, however.

Brillion Man Dies After Heart Surgery

BRILLION — Richard E. Doughty, 31, 125 Dewey St., Brillion died Thursday morning at Madison after heart surgery there Tuesday.

He was employed as a production control clerk in the office of the Ariens Co. He graduated from Waukesha High School.

Survivors are his widow, two sons, two daughters, his parents, one brother, three half-sisters and four half-brothers.

He was a member of St. Bartholomew Lutheran Church and the Brillion Conservation Club.

Clintonville Legion to Observe Anniversary

CLINTONVILLE — The American Legion's 48th anniversary dinner is scheduled Saturday evening at the Veterans Memorial Building. The cocktail hour will begin at 6 p.m., followed by a dinner prepared by the Auxiliary.

K of C Delegates

CHILTON — Ken Dickrell, grand knight, and Arthur Kopf, trustee, have been named to represent the Calumet Council, Knights of Columbus at the state K of C convention at Eau Claire May 14-16. Cyril Schaefer and Russell Gasch are alternate delegates.

Spring Vacation Set At Clintonville School

CLINTONVILLE — Spring recess in the public schools will be March 22, 23 and 24. Classes will resume March 27.

There will be classes the first two days of the spring recess "week" to make up for the time missed due to adverse weather this winter.

500 Attend Funeral

Sorrow Hovers Over Wautoma

WAUTOMA — One of the chapters of the story of a grizzly, mass slaying committed in a remote Fish Lake cottage last Sunday came to an end here Thursday afternoon when three of the victims were committed to their graves.

Funeral rites were conducted in St. Joseph Catholic Church for Marvin P. Behr, 62; his daughter Barbara, 15, and his step - daughter, Mrs. Carol McBrair, 25.

Church Jammed

Services for the fourth victim of the crime, for which James D. McBrair, 27, has been charged with four counts of first degree murder, were Wednesday afternoon at the Assembly of God Church. The fourth victim was Cheryle Oleson, 14, who had been babysitting in the cottage for Mrs. McBrair's two children.

More than 500 relatives and friends jammed the church for services conducted by the Rev. George Weix.

The closed coffins were taken from Goult - Patterson - Hardell Funeral Home to the church shortly before the start of services.

Behr's flag - draped coffin was the last to be taken into the church and the last to be removed after the services. Inside the church, Behr's coffin was flanked by the two holding his daughter and stepdaughter.

Wautoma American Legion Post 317 provided a six-man honor guard for Behr at the church and at graveside. He was a veteran of World War II.

Father Weix began his rites with the reading of Psalm 50 from the Old Testament of the Bible and closed with the reading of Psalm 114.

Several newspaper photographers, television cameramen and reporters were at the church, but remained outside with their cameras at the request of the family.

Begin Testing

Thursday also was the day that McBrair began receiving psychiatric examinations at Central State Hospital in Waupun. The examinations, which are not to exceed 60 days, have been ordered by Circuit Judge Robert H. Gollmer Baraboo.

Jon Wilcox, the Wautoma attorney who was appointed McBrair's defense counsel by Waushara County Judge Boyde Clark, said Thursday if McBrair is found to be mentally capable of standing trial, he will request a preliminary hearing in County Court. When McBrair was formally arraigned Wednesday morning in County Court and then bound over to Circuit Court, Wilcox reserved the right to request a preliminary hearing at a later date.

Practically all details surrounding the four deaths have been withheld by Waushara authorities who have cited Supreme Court rulings regarding pre-trial publicity. All they have revealed is that the murder weapon was a .22 caliber rifle and that the deaths occured between 3:30 and 4 a.m. Sunday.

The First of the Three Caskets leaves St. Joseph Catholic Church in Wautoma after a combined funeral service for three of the four victims in Sunday's mass slaying. More than 500 friends, relatives, townspeople and reporters jammed the church, while cameramen waited outside at the request of the families. A Legion Honor Guard was in attendance at the church and cemetery. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Work With Green Bay

Dean Predicts Four-Year Classes at Valley Campus

The University of Wisconsin-Fox Valley Center (UW-FVC) will not be a satellite campus of the Green Bay university, but an integral part which eventually will offer some courses on the junior and senior level, Prof. Harry M. Hutson new FVC dean, said in an interview today.

Dean Hutson, who will take over his fulltime duties around June 1, arrived in Appleton for a visit Monday night, and is leaving Friday morning. He has spent the intervening days at the Menasha center, meeting faculty, trustees and a few community leaders from Outagamie and Winnebago counties.

Friday the dean will attend a noon meeting in Madison, where he will meet UW department chairmen, and in the afternoon he will observe a board of regents session, and meet them and UW President Fred Harrington.

Talks To Weidner

Hutson spent part of his time here with Chancellor L. A. Adolphson of the UW Center Systems, and Dr. Edward Weidner, chancellor of the UW-Green Bay.

"We did have a chance to talk about the relationship of the Menasha campus to the Green Bay university, and I agree with the philosophy of Dr. Weidner, that the success of the educational program in northeastern Wisconsin, depends on how tightly the four campuses can be drawn together," he said.

Hutson referred to Green Bay, Fox Valley Center, Manitowoc and Marinette campuses.

"This eventually will be a four-campus university," he said, "with free exchange of faculty and if necessary, of students."

The enthusiasm of Dr. Weidner is contagious, Dean Hutson said.

Regional Focus

"Weidner feels, and again I agree, that each of the four campuses should have its own regional focus."

He explained that visions for Entertainment will feature mostly high school students in combo groups, comedy acts and quartets.

Judges will be Mrs. James Knauf, Mrs. Russell Gilbertson, Charles Nikolai and V. G. Reinkober. First place award will be $10, second place $7.50 and third place $5.

Jane Kopf will be mistress of ceremonies. The talent night is directed by Diane Wilson, home economic teacher.

Chilton Girl Injured In Two-Car Collision Northwest of Jericho

CHILTON — Elizabeth J. Schmitz, 18, route 3, Chilton, was injured about 7:35 a.m. Thursday when the car she was driving collided with another vehicle at a town road intersection two miles northwest of Jericho.

The Schmitz car was traveling north and one driven by Fred P. Ecker, 33, route 3, Chilton, was headed east at the time of the crash.

Milwaukee Man Fined $30 on Chilton Charge

CHILTON — Leon B. Mueller, Milwaukee, was fined $30 by Calumet County Court Judge D. H. Sebora after being found guilty of speeding by a six-man jury.

Mueller was charged with driving his car 35 miles per hour in a 25 m.p.h. zone on N. Main Street at 8:45 p.m. Dec. 17. He pleaded innocent of the charge January 23.

Luncheon Tickets

CLINTONVILLE — Tickets still are available for the St. Patrick's Day 1:30 p.m. luncheon and card party Friday at the St. Rose Catholic School hall. Mrs. Everett Pierre is ticket chairman.

Probation for Chilton Killing

Charge Reduced to Manslaughter in Shooting Death

MANITOWOC (AP) — Cora Belle Young, who pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the Dec. 22 shooting of 38-year-old Raymond Orr in the farmhouse where they lived in rural Chilton, was placed on five years probation Thursday by Circuit Judge F. H. Schlichting.

Miss Young testified that she shot Orr after he came home drunk and beat her.

Dist. Atty. Robert Koutnik, who reduced the original charge of second degree murder, told the court Orr's blood had an alcohol content of .19 per cent. The legal test for drunkenness in Wisconsin is .15.

Fine Woman $110 For Speeding

CHILTON — Judith L. Popp, 21, route 2, New Holstein, pleaded guilty of speeding 80 miles per hour in a 50 m.p.h. when she appeared before Calumet County Traffic Judge D. H. Sebora Monday.

He levied a fine of $110 and costs and suspended her driver's license for 25 days. She was arrested at 7:45 p.m., Feb. 16, on State 57 in the Town of Chilton.

Embarrass Churches List Worship Hours

EMBARRASS — The Rev. Edgar E. Barg will conduct services at 7:30 and 10:30 a.m. Sunday at the Zion Lutheran Church.

—A layman will conduct the 10 a.m. Sunday service at the Embarrass Congregational Church.

Part of $1 Million Program

New Power Line for Bonduel

A new high-voltage transmission line being built by the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. (WMPCO) between Appleton and Bonduel at a cost of approximately $1 million will be put into service soon.

Construction has been completed along the 30-mile stretch from the north Appleton substation in the Town of Freedom to the White Clay substation in the Town of Washington.

At the north Appleton substation the new 138,000-volt line will receive power from the 345,000-volt transmission system that connects Milwaukee with Minneapolis. At that substation the power is stepped down to 138,000 volts for transmission over several company lines including the new one.

The new line will carry power along French and Lawn roads to State 29, then northwest 7 miles to the White Clay substation. At White Clay the power will be stepped down to 34,500 volts and transmitted to distribution substations serving Bonduel, Shawano, Gillett, Pulaski and surrounding towns. The new line is also tied at White Clay into an existing 138,000-volt transmission system that carries energy to and from the Iron Mountain, Mich. area.

"This new 138,000-volt transmission line is part of a construction program designed to reinforce power supplies throughout east-central Wisconsin," Otto Boll, the firm's chief engineer, said.

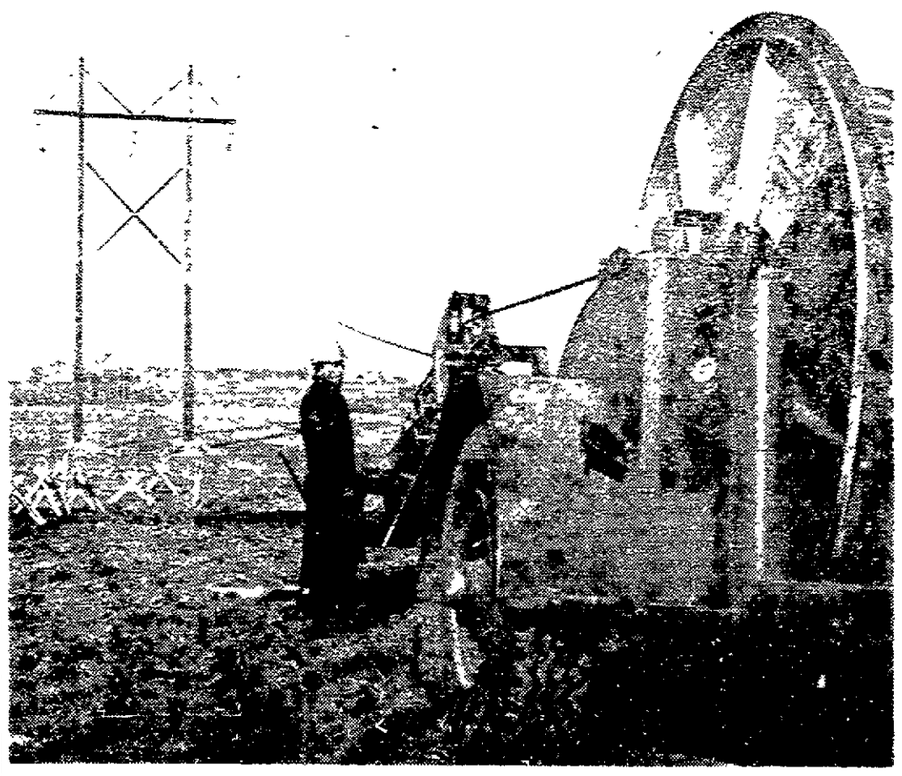
Shield Wires

Work began in the fall of 1965. Last fall, poles, hardware and insulators for the line were assembled on the site. The 75-foot-high structures were then raised into place along the route.

Crews from Superior Electric Co., Appleton, which is building the line, began stringing cable in December. Three cables, each more than an inch in diameter, are suspended from the H-frame structures. Two other cables attached at the top of the H-frames are shield wires. They shield the conductors from the effects of lightning.

"Before the line can be energized later this month, crews must finish enlarging the White Clay substation to handle the additional circuit," Boll explained. A steel super - strudture is being added, as well as two 138,000-volt circuit breakers and associated equipment.

"When the line is placed in service, it will not only enable us to better serve residents of the Bonduel area," he said, "it will also help us to prepare for future growth in the surrounding villages and towns."



A New 138,000-Volt transmission line built by the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. between Appleton and Bonduel will be placed in service later this month. Three cables and two shield wires were strung on H-frame standards along the 30-mile route. The new line, built at a cost of $1,000,000, will reinforce power supplies throughout east-central Wisconsin.

Sturgeon Spearers Get Trophies at Festival

STOCKBRIDGE — Plans have been completed by the Chamber of Commerce directors for the annual Sturgeon Festival to be held at 2 p.m. Sunday in the high school.

The chamber will award a traveling trophy for the heaviest sturgeon registered in the area during the season. A permanent trophy for the heaviest sturgeon and for the heaviest walleyed pike registered will be given by an Appleton brewery. A permanent trophy to last year's pike winner also will be given by the Chamber and three prizes of 10 "sturgeon dollars" will be presented to the three registering the largest sturgeon each week.

The program, arranged by Emil Kufahl, public relations chairman, will be composed of a two-hour movie, "Fabulous Fishing in the Panamas"; entertainment by the Stockbridge Starlites; skits by children attending the public school; a baton twirling act and a declamation presentation.

Coffee and donuts will be served by the committee.

"Alice" Contest

Entry blanks are available at the Stockbridge State Bank for the Alice in Dairyland Contest to be held in Hilbert May 20. April 15 is the deadline.

A meeting of the retail committee, headed by J. R. Leach, was held Thursday. Promotional dates were set.

A general membership meeting will be held April 4 at the village hall.

7 Fishermen Fined Total Of $305 in Calumet Court

CHILTON — Seven fisherman paid fines and bond forfeitures totaling $305 in Calumet County Court this week for game law violations.

Paying $75 fines for failure to tag sturgeons were Arnold Reinat, route 1, Chilton; Orlando Bauer, Sherwood, and Orley V. Grow, Greenville, Mich.

Reinat was arrested Feb. 11 on Lake Winnebago off the Town of Stockbridge shoreline. Both Bauer and Grow were arrested Feb. 18 off the Town of Harrison shoreline. Arrests were made by Conservation Warden Richard Streng.

Paying $10 fines for failing to obtain sturgeon licenses were David J. Vendel, New Holstein, and Charles De Kulek, Manitowoc.

Fines of $25 for possessing another person's sturgeon tag were paid by Lee Getschow, Kenilworth, Ill. and Joseph Enders, route 1, Menasha. The arrests were made in the Town of Harrison.

Peter D. Tadyck, Fond du Lac, was fined $10 for fishing with more than three lines. He was arrested in the Town of Brothertown.

New Foster Home Will Be Finished in 90 Days

Privately Financed Facility Near Shiocton Sets Precedent, Welfare Worker Tells Group

SHIOCTON — Construction of an Outagamie County group foster home for boys will be completed in about 90 days, Lavern Leach, welfare department caseworker told 30 residents of Bear Creek and Shiocton who attended a public forum this week.

The home, being built by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Peeters, route 1, is the first in Wisconsin to be privately financed, and designed, as a group home.

Leach explained that the eight to 12 boys who will live in the home will attend schools in the Clintonville district and participate in church and other activities in Bear Creek and Shiocton.

Purpose of the meeting was to explain to residents what the home would mean to the community, and how citizens could help the home and the boys.

Basic Costs

Leach said that although basic costs are being borne by the Peeters, the county would be paying about $5,000 for equipment that would not be required by a normal family group. He said the county would be grateful for any financial or material help to provide the bedding and furnishings for the eight boys' bedrooms, television and record player for the boys' lounge, a desk, three chairs and four-drawer file for the group home office and interview room. The county must also supply heavy duty appliances, cookware and table settings, dining room furniture and linens.

Broken Precedent

Referring to the private financing, Leach said he felt the Peeters had broken a precedent because the welfare department has had several inquiries from other counties since the group home was publicized. He emphasized that there would be no cost to Outagamie County taxpayers for construction.

"Institutional cost for each boy under the care of Outagamie County is $600 a month," Leach said. He added that cost to the county for each boy at the group home would average about $200 a month.

Leach also said that the boys who would be sent to the group home do not need institutional care, but for various reasons, are not able to make progress with their own parents, or with a tightly knit family group.

"What these boys need mostly is a neutral setting and firm and consistent limits where the group controls the individual boy, he said.

Safety Officer Post Proposed For Outagamie

Action Taken After Council Hears Details From Brown County

Officials of the Outagamie County Safety Council Thursday night proposed establishment of a public safety officer post in the sheriff's department.

The recommendation, supported by Sheriff Norbert Marx, came after an information meeting headed by Sgt. James Pierquet, safety officer for the Brown County traffic police department.

Fifteen persons were at the courthouse meeting called by the county safety unit. Included were Marx, Sgt. Edward Metko, Board Chairman Sylvester Esler, and several Outagamie County supervisors, including representatives of the board's law enforcement committee.

Hear Officer

Pierquet, safety officer for four of the eight years the program has been in existence in Brown County, said his duties include coordinating vehicle inspection and registration programs and public safety programs, with emphasis on those relating to schools.

He said about half of his work is in the schools.

He also handles the county's bicycle registration, inspection and safety program, phases of the school bus safety program, and assists in the department officer training program. Although his job as safety officer is full time, he also is a vacation replacement for some of the ranking officers.

Pierquet said his 1957 budget, exluding his salary and car expense, is $4,170. His salary is $630 a month.

Has Equipment

The police sergeant, who said he assists in driver education programs, has a variety of camera, sound and safety equipment for his work.

Marx supported establishment of a safety officer position in his department, and explained the duties should be assigned full time to one man. Traffic police now do some public safety promotion work, mostly in the schools.

Appleton Supv. George Greisch, chairman of the law enforcement committee, promised close review of a safety director plan, should one be formally presented.

Esler said he has requested additional information on the plan from Myron Lotto, Brown County board chairman.

County safety council officials also pledged assistance in efforts to establish a safety officer position and program.

Entry Blanks Available At Clintonville Office For 'Alice' Competition

CLINTONVILLE — Entry blanks for "Alice in Dairyland" contestants may be obtained at the Clintonville Association of Commerce, office, 75 S. Main St., according to Earl Moldenhauer, association secretary.

Entry dates are from March 15 through April 15.

An applicant must be 19 years of age as of March 15, 1967, must not have reached her 25th birthday, must never have been married, and must have been a resident of the state for at least one year immediately prior to March 15.

Dean Predicts 4-Year Classes At UW Center

the Fox Valley Center call for more involvement with research and instruction that affects the paper and other industries in the area, regional government and planning, and small business.

"I am impressed with the stimulating academic atmosphere on the FVC campus, and in fact, with the acceptance of, and blessing on, higher education that is evidenced by Wisconsin citizens and the legislature," he said. He added, "My reception in the community has been friendly, and I am happy with the support that is indicated for this school by the people I have met."

The new dean praised the dean, who has been acting dean, as well as public information officer and teacher for the past year. "He has carried out his duties extremely well, and is making it easy for me to make the transition from my post in Baltimore to this one," Hutson said.

Hutson is presently director of the graduate program at Towson State College in Baltimore, Md., and before that had been chairman of its social service department for three years.

Four Children

Hutson's wife Betty, holds a teaching degree from Brenau, a woman's college in Gainesville, Ga., "However, she isn't teaching now, because she is busy being mother to Harry Jr., 19, sophomore at Hamilton College, Clinton, N. Y.; Sally, 15, 10th grader; Peter, 12, 7th grader, and Andrew, 7, first grader.

From January 25 to June 30, 1966, the family lived in Oxford England, and the three youngest children went to school there while Hutson, on his sabbatical, studied history at Oxford University. In July, Harry joined the family and they spent a month touring France, Italy and Spain.

Hutson spent some time looking over the City of Appleton, where he thinks he would like to establish a home.

He hopes to do some sailing, and to find some interesting subjects to carry on his hobby as a "shutterbug."

Hutson has been active in the Red Cross swimming safety program in Baltimore and hopes to continue this activity here as a volunteer.

Reflect on Activities

Brillion Girl Scouts Ponder the Organization's Many Objectives

BRILLION — Girl Scouting, to a volunteer leader, may mean fulfillment of a desire to help others; to a father driving a group of Brownies to a troop outing, it may offer realization that his daughter is not the only little girl who giggles a lot, and to an 85 year old woman, Girl Scouting may stand for an hour's enjoyment received from tray favors and a musical program presented by an area troop at a home for the elderly.

Brillion's 92 Girl Scouts are reminiscing about the year's activities during National Girl Scout Week (March 12 to 18). To them Girl Scouting has meant exchanging ideas and sharing experiences. Highlight of the year for some was Jan. 31 when 400 Girl Scouts from area cities met here to hear 19 Two Rivers Senior Scouts tell of their week at "Our Cabana" a residential center owned and operated by the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts at Cuernavaca, Morelos, Mexico.

Visited TV Station

Junior Scouts in the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades earned their Hospitality Badge by planning and preparing a roast chicken dinner "with all the trimmings" for the 31 members of their troop recently. The girls made invitations, tray favors, place cards, centerpieces and helped serve the meal to fulfill requirements for the badge.

Plans are being formulated by the seventh and eighth grade Cadettes to "adopt" a Korean child. Several fund-raising evenis are planned to raise the $120 necessary. Adoption is renewable each year as long as the group wishes to provide money for care of the child.

Made "Mobiles"

The 10 high school girls who are Senior Scouts have made "mobiles" for children's wards at six city hospitals. The wire toys were affixed to hospital beds and offer enjoyment to convalescing youngsters. Senior Scouts also baked Christmas cookies and sent them to Viet Nam to the family of Bui Quang Thach, last year's foreign exchange student. They are presently assisting the Brillion Jaycettes with the "Welcome to Brillion" booklet.

Ice skating parties, a trip to a museum, a gift-wrapping demonstration, an inspiring talk on flag etiquette, Christmas caroling for the aged and ailing, and a Valentine party with Girl Scouts from Hilbert and other individual troop activities readily remembered during this week which commemorates the 55th birthday of Girl Scouting in the United States

Custodian to Resign New London Position

NEW LONDON — The resignation of Virgil Weber, 1014 Shiocton St., as custodian at the senior high school has been announced by Lester Werner, business manager.

Werner said Weber's resignation would be effective April 1. Weber, a carpenter, is to return to construction work after leaving the school. He had been employed since the beginning of the school year.

Applications are being accepted at the high school business office for the position.

Timber Rights To Land Sold By New London

Weyauwega Man Will Clear Tract Bought Recently

NEW LONDON — Timber rights on property the city council bought for $5,500 about three months ago were sold for $5,255 at Wednesday's council meeting.

Ervin Struck, Weyauwega, submitted the high bid to the board of public works. A second bid of $3,025 was submitted by Niles Waters, route 2.

Struck will be issued a timber deed to the 55 acres the city purchased from Mrs. H. J. Miles, 821 Oshkosh St. Logging of the area, mostly soft maple and ash, will be done over a two-year period.

With the sale of timber rights the purchase of the property cost the city about $4.45 per acre.

The city purchased the site as an eventual industrial-commercial complex after the swampland is reclaimed through landfill programs. Eventually the Embarrass River would be rerouted through the property to increase its value and usefulness.

4-Year Campus Plan Might Need Legislation

CCHE Will Offer Bill if Attorney General Rules Full Program at Schools Is Illegal

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — If the attorney general rules against full four-year operations of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay, legislation would have to be enacted during this session of the legislature to allow the operation of the complete university in 1970, the state Coordinating Committee for Higher Education (CCHE) voted unanimously Thursday.

It took the position in preparation for a coming decision of Atty. Gen. Bronson LaFollette, who has been asked by state administration commissioner George C. Kaiser to rule on the legality of planning being conducted in preparation of the opening of the Green Bay and Kenosha County campuses.

If LaFollette holds that a 1965 law authorizing the start of the new schools does not specifically allow them to offer instruction to all four undergraduate classes in 1970, the CCHE voted, then its executive director Angus Rothwell must insure the introduction of legislation this spring to allow the classes to be offered as planned.

Questions Planning

Kaiser has asked LaFollette to rule because legislation creating the school authorizes only a third and fourth year institution to start. He also raised questions about the expenditure of planning funds beyond a statutory limit in the act creating the new schools.

The legislation will be introduced only if LaFollette holds that state planners have been improperly planning the full four-year university without statutory authority.

The action came after adoption of a policy position calling for the opening of the schools as third and fourth year branch campuses in 1969 with conversion to full four-year operations in 1970 by closing the existing Green Bay two-year center and similar schools in Racine and Kenosha.

The position also calls for a 25 per cent space increase for the Green Bay school, and a total project cost for the two campuses which could reach $36 million during the 1967-69 biennium, according to UW vice president Charles Engman.

Milton Neshek, Elkhorn, a state universities regent and member of the CCHE, warned that the sudden boost in enrollments at the two new campuses could be dangerous to existing schools at Whitewater and Oshkosh. The new campuses were planned to divert students from campuses, he said, but too fast an enrollment increase — from a projected 1,300 students under the previous plan to 5,100 students in 1970 under the new proposal — "could leave us not only with empty dormitories, but with empty classrooms."

The Whitewater school recently has been plagued with an excess of dormitory space because of low enrollments.

CCHE chairman Walter Kohler said the time to consider such possibilities "is almost long past." The purpose of the new schools is to slow enrollments at other state institutions, he said.

He called the new proposal "a modest suggestion."

In other actions, the CCHE:

—Voted to express support for cuts made by Gov. Warren P. Knowles in the financing requests of higher educational systems for the coming two years when considered by the legislative Joint Committee on Finance next week. Two exceptions were made — backing a $2 million request for state funding of a share of local equipment costs of the new technical institutes being planned, and a partial backing of a state university research funds request. The CCHE voted to support restoration of $18,000 of the $234,000 request.

They voted to back almost $50 million in budget reductions, from a total state tax fund request of $354 million.

Defer Action

—Approved the creation of technical school districts in Racine and Waukesha Counties, but took no action on a Fox Valley district made up of Outagamie, Winnebago, Calumet and Waupaca Counties pending further local action to solve area problems.

—Voted to oppose two bills before the Legislature calling for a sizable fee increase for out-of-state UW and state university students. Minimum nonresident enrollment fee would be $1,500, at both systems, compared with the university's present level of $1,050 and the state universities' $625 to $636.

The bills also require that if "actual cost" of educating a student is higher, a higher fee will be charged.

At Madison, under the plan, total fees could reach $1,825 annually.

"We feel that these bills would impose a severe means test on students," said Gale Kelley, a CCHE staff assistant.

Back Television

—Backed the introduction of legislation creating a statewide educational television system governed by a board containing representatives of both public and private education on all levels. The state-supported system would include four new stations and two translators, to join three educational stations now operating, and a Minnesota transmitter which reaches into Wisconsin.

Total state cost to construct the system, and operate it during the coming biennium, would be $1,265,000, according to the staff. Annual operating costs in the future would be about $891,000.

Federal aid used to start the project would total at least $800,000.

During Spring Recess

Tour of East Planned By Clintonville Students

CLINTONVILLE — Ninety-seven senior high school students have registered for a trip to New York, Washington and other historical points in the East, during the spring recess. Six adults will chaperone the group.

Plans are to leave Clintonville March 20 for Green Bay where the group will board a charter plane bound for New York.

Scheduled the first day will be a lecture tour of lower Manhatter, a lecture tour of the United Nations Building, and the Radio City Music Hall for premier showing of a movie and the Rockettes in a stage show.

The second day will include a cruise to the Statute of Liberty, and a visit to the Empire State Building. The balance of the day will be free to shop on Fifth Avenue, and at 8 p.m., a Broadway play or television show will be viewed.

Battlefields

Scheduled March 22 are Philadelphia, Valley Forge, Gettysburg, a lectured tour of the battlefields of the Civil War, and evening arrival in Washington, D. C.

The March 23 schedule includes a special tour of the White House and several memorials before going to the Smithsonian Institute and the Bureau of Printing and Engraving; Mount Vernon, and a night tour of Washington.

The final day features a tour of the FBI Building, Capitol Hill visits to the House, Senate, Supreme Court and Congressional Library, before departing.

The group is scheduled to arrive back in Green Bay at 8:40 p.m. March 24.

The Guaranteed Income

Doctrinaire American conservatives have been considerably shaken by the proposal of Professor Milton Friedman that the United States figure out a means of a guaranteed income to fight poverty. Professor Friedman was Senator Barry Goldwater's economic advisor in the 1964 presidential campaign and a guaranteed annual income is considered a radically liberal suggestion.

Robert Theobald, also an economic expert, has also come out for the guaranteed income plan but he rather well explains the difference between his ideas on the subject and those of Professor Friedman. Nevertheless, whatever the differences in reasons, the results might well be the same.

In brief Dr. Friedman suggests that a guaranteed income be provided through the means of a negative income tax. While an individual with an income of less than $600, for instance, does not have to pay a tax, that is the only benefit he gets. Dr. Friedman's proposal would be for him to get money back from the federal government depending upon how far under a specified amount his income is for his particular family. The advantages to the plan, according to Professor Friedman, would be assistance to the chronically impoverished without upsetting the economic system through increased governmental interference as the various subsidy plans now do. But Professor Friedman points out that the level of return to the poor would not be so high as to interfere with any financial incentive to work. His point of view was expressed in the conservative publication National Review.

Mr. Theobald, writing in the liberal New Republic, agrees that "it is impossible for the rulers of a modern state to allow any group of citizens to starve." He agrees that "one of the main threats to the survival of freedom is the rapidly growing intervention of government bureaucracies in individual lives." But he feels that a guaranteed income must enable an individual to live in decency and dignity and he somewhat discounts financial incentives as the reason people work or at least work hard. He feels that the guaranteed wage would put into action the belief that "each individual has a right to a minimal share in the production of his society." Aside from this philosophic consideration Mr. Theobald feels that the development of the computer age makes the guaranteed income essential because there simply is a saturation point as far as consumption — and therefore production — is concerned. And here he sees "the desirable goal for the American socio-economy as full unemployment rather than full employment." Work then will become meaningful and not merely to survive.

Aside from economic predictions which depend to a large extent upon one's economic philosophy, there is involved here the question of why people work. In the United States we have two conflicting attitudes. The one evolves from the Puritans that work in itself is good almost regardless of what it is and that there is even salvation in work. On the other hand we have an opposition to work most obviously observed in the increased holidays and the shorter work week. What people do with leisure time is becoming of increasing concern to sociologist. And a few are beginning to notice that some people work very hard when they are in income levels where money is obviously not the incentive. Not all, but many artists in all fields and dollar a year men in government seem to be working for something beyond either financial remuneration or fame. And at the other end of the spectrum we have the currently chronically unemployed and in all practicality, the unemployable. Some are mentally, physically or morally incapable of doing any kind of work for any length of time. And others have somehow determined that no work at all is the ideal situation as long as somebody else pays for their idleness.

There are some imposing arguments for a guaranteed income in the immensely wealthy United States. A system with no strings tied except the matter of income and the size of a family at the least could serve to eliminate the complex and often unrelated systems of grants, loans and subsidies which today have not solved the problems of poverty.

India's Problems Similar to China's

The non-Communist world and probably those Communist peoples aligned to the Soviet Union have generally been encouraged by the upheavals in Red China. Communism obviously has not been the cure-all for the vast problems that beset that nation. And the aggressive type of no-coexistence communism in particular has so far not overwhelmingly caught the fancy of all Chinese.

But the ever-growing problems in democratic India indicate that it may well be that India and China share a fate that has little to do with what form of government they have.

The West, the United States in particular, has long hoped that India would be able to demonstrate to the world and the peoples of the underdeveloped nations especially the advantages of the democratic system over any other. Certainly Indians have tried democracy with enthusiasm. Even Krishna Menon originally opposed the heavy hand of state control which was inherent in the type of socialism he came to espouse. Billions of dollars have been sent to India along with a great deal of technical assistance and almost always with the belief that the vast nation would be able to thrive economically and socially with its political affiliation.

But it is hard to see whether any real economic strides have been made in India. As some health and sanitation measures improved, the population soared. Agricultural progress has not been able to keep up with the population growth. And throughout the country there is a vast amount of religious fanaticism and traditions that stymie sound programs: hunger, disease and hopelessness that contribute to the cheapness of human life; and even some remnants of anti-colonialism which handicap reasonable looks at the problems of today.

The recent national elections left the Congress Party still in control of Parliament but with its strength seriously depleted. Those who capitalized on the Congress Party's losses were not generally sound political opponents from the point of view of democracy but Communists on the one hand and fanatical racial and religious leaders on the other. The issues in the election over what might be sound government policies to try to pull the nation out of the swamp of poverty, hunger and fear dissipated into complaints about cow slaughter and language differences.

Both China and India have millions of people who are desperately poor. They have millions who suspect and fear those in other parts of the country and India, even more than China, has millions who cannot understand the spoken or written word of millions of others. Neither nation yet has any tradition of true federation. China was pulled about by its own various war lords and the special interests of different countries of Western Europe. India's real unity was only through Great Britain or the opposition to that control and both are things of the past.

Americans of course are impatient. But real stability for either China or India — or probably for the majority of the former colonial nations of Southeast Asia and the sub-continent — is going to take a long time. There is no indication yet that any particular form of government is going to hasten the process.

No Visa to Nixon

The Polish Government made no explanation as to why it turned down a visa request by Richard Nixon. But no explanation is needed. The trouble is that Americans are too popular in Poland for the Communist government's peace of mind.

When he was vice president, Mr. Nixon visited Poland in 1959 and received a tremendous welcome. The streets of Warsaw were jammed with crowds and children literally engulfed the vice president with flowers. In 1964 when Senator Robert Kennedy visited Poland on what he had termed a private visit, the Polish Government had learned a lesson or thought that it had. No mention of the senator's time of arrival was made but the cheering crowds were there all the same.

This time the Gomulka regime is taking no chances. Mr. Nixon simply won't be allowed inside the borders whatever the lessening of tensions between Eastern Europe and the West.

Kraft Writes

Gradual Bombing Scaling Down Might Solve Problems in Vietnam

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

WASHINGTON — We may never know whether a chance to end the Vietnamese war was missed during the recent Tet truce. But there is no reason, least of all the President's churlist disposition to justify everything he does as entirely right all the time, to complicate future opportunities.

On the contrary, the important thing now is to prepare the ground better for the next chance to talk. And that means, above all, initiating a gradual scaling down of the bombing of North Vietnam.

As it happens, there is cause to be skeptical about some of the things now being said about the talks between Prime Minister Harold Wilson and Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin at the time of the truce. To be sure, the first session, on Feb. 6, appeared to be fruitful. For the British and Soviet leaders broached the possibility of a mutual freeze on the American and North Vietnamese military build-up in South Vietnam.

MILITARY PREVAILED

But almost immediately after the Tet truce, which began next day, American intelligence discovered near the South Vietnamese border a third North Vietnamese division, not previously spotted in the vicinity. The military ran to the White House with that news, claiming the other side was only using the truce to improve its position and demanding stepped-up bombing raids.

By Wednesday, Feb. 8, the President had accepted that view and decided he was going to resume bombing at a higher level. To Dean Rusk there was given the not unwelcome task of justifying the decision.

In his press conference of Feb. 9, the secretary of state asserted that this country could not accept the "unconditional and permanent" cessation of the bombing of North Vietnam which, according to him, the other side was "demanding" as a condition for talks. That statement shut the door on Mr. Kosygin who, in the evident hope of sliding around the issue, had not been talking about a "permanent" cessation.

Thereafter Harold Wilson could only play for time and (particularly in his midnight dash to see Mr. Kosygin at Claridges Hotel) publicity as a peace-maker. He knew the game was up even before the bombing of North Vietnam was resumed on Feb. 14.

Indeed, he has said that chances for settlement were spoiled by a victory of the hawks in Washington. And he has even cited as the chief hawk the President's special adviser for national security affairs, Walt Rostow.

The lesson of this experience is that the President has to insulate himself against the pressures of his military advisers. For it was his sensitivity to their advice that decided him to resume the bombing of North Vietnam before there was a fair test of what a suspension of the bombing might yield.

Thereafter the effort to justify that decision in the absence of persuasive evidence that the other side would not talk, first led the secretary of state to make points that can only complicate future negotiations. In the same self-justifying vein the President said a great many things he will live to regret — including, notably, the unjustified claim that the Russians had agreed to negotiate on the anti-ballistic missile, or ABM.

LIMITED OBJECTIVE

But how does the President protect himself against his military advisers? The way, I think, is to demonstrate the limitations of what force can do. It is to show that the United States can achieve its very limited objective in Vietnam without steadily expanding the war.

The scaling down of the bombing of North Vietnam suits that objective perfectly. For interdiction of supplies and men moving from North to South Vietnam — the one original purpose behind the bombing which remains valid — can be achieved by concentration along the frontier as well as by hitting the politically sensitive areas around Hanoi.

In the process of scaling down from the bombings around Hanoi to a concentration around the frontier, the pattern of linear escalation of the war would be broken up. That would demonstrate to all concerned this country's capacity to realize its aims without expanding the war.

Then, when the moment comes round again, when the present thumb-screwing mood has passed and the instinct for conciliation returns to Washington, the President would be able to use the bombing as a flexible instrument of policy. He could, that is, turn it off entirely without an overwhelming chorus of charges that he was betraying our men in the field.

Group for Governor's Safety Laws

Editor, Post-Crescent:

We were delighted to see a quotation from your newspaper in the Wisconsin State Journal supporting the Governor's highway safety bill. Safety is not a political matter; death is non-partisan. You know this, we know this, the public that gets killed knows this, but the legislators do not know this. Hence, by all possible methods, the voters at home must be awakened to write to their voters in the capitol to pass this bill. Women for Highway Safety has just organized in Madison; it would like to encourage women all over the state to organize and that the public be urged to write to their legislators and that the public attend, if possible, the first hearing, March 20, at the capitol in Madison. But everyone can take time to write a letter.

Point out that money-wise the state stands to lose 10 per cent or $5 million from federal highway funds if the implied consent part is not passed.

Normal School a White Elephant

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for March 2, 1867.

Normal School — an elephant! — The last Oshkosh Northwestern abounds in locals, among them one which will be grimly relished by Neenah and Menashaites, and residents of other localities — unsuccessful contestants for the location of a Normal School.

It is confessed quite frankly that they paid too great a price for the prize, which, before secured, "distance lent enchantment to the view," but after counting all the cost—a portion of which may have not appeared visible to the naked eye.

Its Aladdin qualities of speedily enriching every property corner in Oshkosh has "faded like the baseless fabric of a dream," and left a pile to pay instead.

Wisconsin Report

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The young man from the newspaper was kind enough to telephone to verify some of the details for the obituary notice about the Old Fellow.

The standard materials, age,

Wyngaard

residence, descendants, were quickly told.

But then came the more difficult question. What did he do?, the reporter wanted to know.

What did he do? He was a humble and quiet man. He had worked hard during a long life, stretching from the Minnesota lumber camps of his young manhood, to the emerging factories of the papermaking Fox River Valley of six decades ago. He had given his family faithful care. He loved his home and his garden, respected his neighbors, was proud of his country, hated injustice, and unpretentiously upheld a religious faith that was the envy of some of his relatives and neighbors.

What did he do? By the standards of the day he was a very ordinary man. He left as little mark on the history of his times as did millions of other Americans.

THE DECISION STANDS

But then there was a recollection of what was told to a high school commencement class in the Old Fellow's neighborhood a few years ago. Perhaps he will be remembered as the most important member of his family, like hundreds of thousands of others of his 19th Century generation, because of his decision as a boy many years ago to become an American.

The Old Fellow was born in a tiny, crowded and poor country of northern Europe.

He was born a subject of a man named William III, heir to the ancient House of Orange, in a bleak little village. The most energetic and creative of the young men and women there at the turn of the century, as for a hundred years, were leaving their ancestral grounds for the bright promise of a new and free life over the flowing horizon in the land known as the United States. Like many other emigrants, he was the youngest son. Through patient hording he put together the price of a third class passage across the Atlantic. He ardously made his way inland to a new Wisconsin town known as Kimberly, where there were earlier settlers who spoke the same language and came from the same province in the old country.

The chances are strong that some of the Old Fellow's forbears in the first part of the 19th Century fought in the armies of Napoleon, maybe at Moscow, perhaps at Waterloo. The homeland was then ruled by a vassal of the French imperialist. The conscripts in conquering armies leave no records, as the Old Fellow knew, and thus he said little about his heritage.

But in the last years of his life, one of his own descendants assured him that whatever achievements might have been accounted by unknown progenitors in the cockpit of Europe, his act in departing the Old World and settling in the New made him the most important of all of the ancestors in the family line.

THE BIGGEST MAN

What did he do?

He provided for his descendants the most precious legacy possible — the opportunity to live and prosper in a great and free country, with the heirs of millions of others from many lands who now compose a political system and a society unique in the history of the world.

Three generation of Americans now acknowledge the progenitorship of the Old Fellow. Some of them are yet too young to reflect upon his achievement and the priceless estate he left, as they study in the advanced school system that was only a vague dream in his own boyhood.

He was a good man. He was 85 years old when he died peacefully a few days ago.

He was my father.

There's Lesson to be Learned From Blizzard

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In reflecting about the Great Chicago Blizzard of '67, many persons have commented that a city-wide crisis of this kind "brings people together" and makes them "more human toward one another."

What actually happens in

such situations is something quite different. People's aggressive tendencies are directed outward, toward a common enemy — in this case, the storm.

As their aggressive tendencies are drained off, away from each other, they are then enabled to behave in a more friendly fashion. They are no longer suspicious and fearful of each other, but united against an external foe.

The prime example in our time, of course, was the splendid behavior of the British people under the Nazi bombings, when they conducted themselves with great nobility. Sacrifice and heroism became ordinary incidents, and strangers became like members of one family.

"This is the way it should be all the time," many persons observe wistfully — and, ideally, it should be. But the human animal is genetically endowed with an aggressive drive, and only exceptional circumstances allow us to divert this drive from those around us.

Indeed, the major problem of survival for the human race may consist in finding a suitable substitute-object for our aggressive tendencies. This is what William James meant when he said, a long time ago, that mankind most desperately needed to find "the moral equivalent of war."

Nature is one enemy that allows us to divert our aggression — an earthquake, a flood, a tornado, a blizzard, any of these threatening phenomena permit us to focus our aggression on things instead of people, and to unite in warring on them.

Likewise if the human race were threatened by an invasion from Mars, we would quickly find that all our sublunary differences shrink into nothingness — color and country and language and custom would seem unimportant compared with our common plight as human beings attacked by strange and forbidding creatures from another planet.

If we are going to control our future, and avoid the mass suicide that is now so feasible in the atomic age, we are going to have to find, or invent, this "moral equivalent of war," which will allow us to use our aggressive drives for united and constructive purposes, rather than for mutually destructive ones. Only some massive challenge from the outside can prevent us from annihilating our own species.

Cause, Correction of Hammer Toe Explained

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My mother has a condition on her feet that I believe is called hammer toe. Exactly what is this condition? Will it cripple her? She is in constant pain and has difficulty walking.

Dr. Molner

Can it be cured by surgery? Should she see a foot specialist? This has been going on for years and I would like to see her free of pain. She is 56. — Mrs. J.R.

Hammer toe is a deformity in which the toe is bent downward. It usually involves the second toe, but sometimes others. Wearing shoes a little too short is the commonest cause.

It will not cripple your mother, but it will continue to be painful and make her hobble around, and it is not uncommon for the pain to be intensified by the formation of callus or even an ulcer at the tip of the toe.

Wearing shoes that are long enough, together with splinting the toe to draw it back to normal position, sometimes succeeds, but if the condition has continued too long, this may not work, and surgery may be necessary. For this she should consult an orthopedic surgeon.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have learned many interesting things from your column but have never seen a discourse on shingles. I came down with the disease four months ago. — L.M.

Until you had shingles yourself, you probably skipped over such discussions. Actually so many readers asked about the ailment — it is painfully common — that I answered the accumulated questions in a booklet, "The Facts About Shingles," which you may obtain by sending 10 cents for printing and handling and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Molner, care of The Post-Crescent.

Dear Dr. Molner: I recently had a hysterectomy and on the insurance papers I noticed "total abdominal hysterectomy and bilateral salpingo-oophorectomy." What does this mean and how does it differ from a hysterectomy? — Mrs. A.L.

Hysterectomy is removal of the uterus. Depending on circumstances, the tubes and ovaries may or may not be removed.

The "salpingo" refers to the tubes, and "oophorectomy" means removal of the ovaries. Bilateral means this was done on both sides.

Thus the half dozen words on the insurance form mean that the uterus, ovaries and Fallopian tubes on both sides were removed.

Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter is 4 and for three years has had a body odor that at times is overwhelming. She can reek even after a bath. At other times there is barely a trace. Surely this is not normal. — Mrs. H.

It is neither normal nor common. In small children the sweat glands are not as active as in an adult so we dismiss that possibility.

Since the odor comes and goes it might be that some food you give her is responsible. Some of the B vitamins can produce odor in some individuals.

Stool or urine may be responsible. Have you checked for evidence of faulty digestion, or for urinary infection which can produce a strong odor? If you have not told your pediatrician about this, you should do so.

Birth Control Is For These Birds

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco's health director says the city will try giving pigeons a birth-control chemical to solve the pigeon population explosion.

Dr. Ellis D. Sox says a mixture of cracked corn and an antifirtility compound will be fed to the birds in the 10 city areas where pigeons can be legally fed.

The city now traps pigeons and releases them in remote areas. So far about 8,000 have been banished to the hinterlands.

Nobody Yields In Arguments About Vietnam

Communists, Too, Unwilling to Make Needed Concessions

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The argument over Vietnam is at a dead end.

In this country the Johnson administration and its critics are simply repeating what they have long been saying. They sound like a record with the needle stuck.

But so do the North Vietnamese and the Communist world.

Unless President Johnson yields to his critics here, which is unlikely, and unless the North Vietnamese make concessions, which seems unlikely, this war is probably destined to continue indefinitely.

Johnson again Thursday at his news conference stated this government's position.

1. It wants peace. It wants to get peace talks started. Five times it stopped bombing North Vietnam, hoping the enemy would use the pauses to give some sign they wanted to talk. They didn't.

Cease Fighting

2. The bombing will continue unless the North Vietnamese are willing to indicate — in order to get talks started — they will tone down their fighting if the American bombing stops.

Johnson made two other points: He doesn't think the North Vietnamese can win; and he said in effect he thinks the North Vietnamese believe that if the criticism continues the American position will weaken and they will wind up ahead.

This can be interpreted as meaning Johnson thinks the criticism here at home is encouraging the North Vietnamese to continue fighting.

Two distinguished men, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., who was an assistant to both Johnson and President John F. Kennedy, pretty well represent the kind of criticism Johnson gets.

See What Happens

Although the five bombing pauses didn't induce the Communists to move towards peace, the senator thinks Johnson should order another pause just to see what happens. He didn't say how long the pause should last.

Schlesinger was harsher. He doubts the administration is sincere in saying it wants peace. This is the only interpretation which can be placed on a statement he made this week.

He said he has concluded the administration "does not wish to negotiate now" and that the urgent need is to "explore every opportunity to slow down the war." He suggests this country scale it down.

Meanwhile the Communist world — meaning North Vietnam and the Soviet Union — have said there must be a "definitive" pause in the bombing before anything can be done toward peace. And one North Vietnamese diplomat in Cairo said the pause must be "permanent."

'Permanent' Pause

Unless Johnson, of course, announced a "definitive" or "permanent" pause meant no more bombing ever, how long would it take the North Vietnamese to decide it was forever? This point has never been discussed in public.

There has even been argument over "definitively" and "permanent" and whether definitive means permanent. Johnson said, so far as he is concerned, what the Communists mean, no matter how they put it, is a permanent pause.

Now all sides are locked in their stated positions. But one thing is always overlooked by those who are arguing for more time and concessions for the North Vietnamese to see if they will be willing to talk peace.

It's this: They have had plenty of time, and various outlets, for making it clear they will discuss peace if the Americans do so and so. So far they have never made any of this clear.

Meanwhile, month after month, Johnson has protested he wants peace and is willing to go a long way out of his way to get it. Yet, he is the one who gets the criticism.

While he dealt mildly with his critics Thursday, he did take one crack at them in answer to a direct question. He said some of them don't have enough information before they sound off.

Illinois Democrats May Tap Stevenson, Shriver

Report Mayor Daley Likes Duo For U. S. Senator and Governor

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

CHICAGO — An Illinois Democratic ticket of Adlai Stevenson III for Senate and Sargent Shriver for governor has suddenly become a serious possibility for 1968.

Mayor Richard Daley, the last of the old bosses, says nothing publicly, but to close aides he has speculated on precisely this combination of famous names.

What is bringing nightmares to Daley is the prospect, however remote, that Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois might become the Republican presidential nominee next year. With Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader, all but certain to seek re-election to a 4th term, Daley perceives in a Percy-Dirksen ticket a hideous threat to the Democrats, and to his own power as Democratic boss. To meet that possible threat, he is now casting about for the strongest possible combination of Democrats to go on the ballot under President Johnson's name.

Daley is a fastidious ticket picker. Last year, it was Daley who personally persuaded Adlai Stevenson, son of the two-time Democratic presidential nominee, to run for state treasurer. Stevenson didn't want to run. He preferred another term in the State House of Representatives which he hoped to use as a launching platform into the U.S. Senate in 1968. Sensing magic in the Stevenson name, however, Daley insisted — and was rewarded when Stevenson ran almost 500,000 votes ahead of the top of the ticket to win by some 80,000.

Gives Talking Point

Stevenson's willingness to go along with the mayor last year gives him a potent talking point with Daley if he decides to make a serious bid for the senate next year. Daley's voice will be decisive — assuming, of course, that Daley wins re-election himself to a fourth term as mayor in the city election this April.

But while Stevenson has bargaining power with Daley, and the proven vote-getting power exhibited last November, powertsar Shriver has neither. Shriver made it clear to Daley, in a talk in Chicago several weeks ago, that he would like nothing better than to run for governor. That chat followed a Shriver tongue-slip that angered Daley. Early this year Shriver publicly indicated he might be interested in the governorship, prompting headlines in the Chicago Sun-Times and an immediate rebuttal from Daley that Daley was backing the incumbent Gov. Otto Kerner for a third term.

In fact, however, Daley is not committed to Kerner and if he merely nods in Shriver's direction, Kerner would unquestionably bow out — perhaps to a high administration job, perhaps to a federal judgeship.

Shriver is now in his third year in the politically most unrewarding job in Washington — head of the Anti-Poverty Program. His dilemma is that he cannot now leave Washington until the new poverty program has cleared Congress. Even then, he could not return to Illinois to run for governor unless he had a green light from Daley. Thus, Shriver's entry into elective politics in his adopted state of Illinois is entirely in Daley's hands.

Daley Has Problem

But Daley may decide he needs Shriver as much as Shriver needs him. In addition to the nightmare of a Percy-Dirksen ticket, Daley confronts two ever-increasing problems: The white backlash, and its cost to the Democrats; and the paradoxical corollary of the backlash — the defection of Negroes, who now number one-third of the city, from their traditional Democratic base.

Consider Chicago's 27th Ward, now nearly 75 per cent Negro, where the Daley organization is run by Irish overlords who have now moved outside the ward but continue their political domination inside the ward, with total control of patronage. Symptomatic of Negro anger at this modern-day political colonialism was the reaction of Negro voters at a political meeting on Feb. 20 called to question the ward alderman, Harry Sain. Sain showed up at the meeting and was subjected to the sharpest, most hostile questioning of his nearly 40 years as alderman.

The lesson was clear: Negro antipathy for the Democrats is growing, threatening to reduce Daley's control of Chicago. In that atmosphere Shriver, cloaked in the mantle of poverty-fighter, could be Daley's drawing card for holding the Negro vote.

New Film Series Opens With Noted 'King Kong'

Outstanding Movies Scheduled Fridays At Lawrence; Addition to Classics Group

Lawrence Film Classics, under the leadership of seniors Joel Claydon and David Elliott, will swing into a second series of movies scheduled for Fridays. The film classics will continue on Sundays as well.

The first one opens tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Stansbury Theater, Lawrence Music Drama Center. It's the old horror show "King Kong."

The series will be on Fridays at 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. According to Elliott and Claydon, the last recent extra festival series on silent films proved so popular with townspeople as well as students that the group decided to bring outstanding and unusual movies to the campus

"Casa Blanca," starring Humphrey Bogart and Ingrid Bergman is scheduled for March 31: "Young Cassidy" with Rod Taylor will be shown April 7: "Requiem for a Heavyweight," April 14. the Polish movie "Repulsion," April 21; a group of short silents will show Friday, April 28 and Saturday, April 29.

A collection of films made by students will comprise the National Student Festival showing May 26 All of these movies were given awards.

Last in the series, June 2, will be "The Great Chase," a collection of filmed sequences from the comedies of the famous Keystone Kops.

Note Program Change For March AGA Session

Alfred Pingel, program chairman for Appleton Gallery of Arts, announces a change of program for the Tuesday night meeting of AGA in the hospitality room of First National Bank.

Mr. Pingel will discuss the subject Impressionism and Impressionistic Artists. The original program on New England artist Winslow Homer will be presented later in the spring by Phillip Sealy, AGA president and devotee of artist Homer and his work.

The March meeting starts at 8 p.m.

Tony Finds Love on 'Time Tunnel'

7-8 (Channels 11-6-9) — Tony Newman discovers love in the 13th Century can have the same devastating effects as it does today in The Time Tunnel. Zipping all the way back to the year 1287, the time study adventurers are caught up in a barbaric battle for power between Kubla Khan and a grandson of Genghis Khan. The historic happenings mean little to Tony however after he meets one of the prizes of the battle, a beauteous Mongolian princess.

6:30-7:30 (Channels 2-7-12) — One of the better Wild Wild West shows starts with West and Gordon serving guard duty on the life of President Grant When they reach a deserted town. West scouts around and finds a citizen whose explanation is: "We had an epidemic . . . of broken necks." And two scenes later he himself is striken.

6:30-7:30 (Channels 4-5) — Tarzan gets both class and classes with Julie Harris guesting as a missionary who wants to take Jai away from Tarzan and place him in a mission school.

7:30-8 (Channels 2-7-12) — Some funny dialogue spotlights Hogan's Heroes. To wit: "If this prisoner escapes you'll be leaving yourself . . . carrying snow shoes and a map of Russia." The reason for this outburst by Colonel Klink's Commanding General is the transference to Stalag 13 of an exvaudevillian professional escape artist who has escaped from nine other camps.

7:30-8:30 (Channels 4-5) — There's much to commend on The Man From U.N.C.L.E., not the least of which is a straight dramatic appearance by singers Sonny and Cher. Cast as a dress manufacturer's cutter and fetching model, the pair find themselves tightly entangled in a spy plot that centers on a dress whose pattern contains a secret code.

8-10 (Channels 2-7-12) — Friday Night Movie, Jerry Lewis starring in "The Geisha Boy," is a bonanza for Lewis fans and a bust for everyone else. It contains all the slapstick madness for which Jerry is famed, coupled with the intense pathos of the stumbler who can do no right. In it Jerry is a broken down magician on a U.S.O. tour.

8:30-9 (Channels 11-6-9) — An inane story which is not too far from the average Phyllis Diller Show provides at least a few laughs including a Drive-In Beauty Parlor. You stick your head in the hole and get a beaut treatment, kind of like an automatic washer. Focal point of the story is a beauteous model (posing for Bradley) whose shortwave messages to her sailor boyfriend provoke a spy hunt.

Rockin' Round the Valley

Band Drops Last Part Of 'Borrowed' Name

BY CHUCK POSNIAK

As the television commercials say, "to get rid of your headache all you do is drop the little seltzer tablets in water and drink."

However, one of the area's favorite rock and roll groups got rid of a headache in a different way. Instead of dropping the tablets down their throats, they dropped the word Alkaseltzer from their name.

Speedy and The Alkaseltzers, as the group originally was called, has become in the last three years the highest paid trio in the Midwest.

They play in North and South Dakota, Michigan, Minnesota, Illinois, Indiana, Nebraska and Ohio. Their popularity became so big that the heads of a certain headache remedy company heard of them. It was then advised that Speedy and The Alkaseltzers drop the latter part of their name.

Now Called Speedy

Speedy, as the group is now called is made up of three of the most versatile musicians in the state. Leader Butch Moore is able to play organ chords with his feet with the aid of a special pedal he invented. At the same time he plays lead guitar and sings. Butch also is adept on bass guitar, piano, saxophone, trumpet and drums.

Jerry Laridaen, Speedy's bass guitar player, also is able to play lead guitar, drums and organ. In between his vocalizing he plays the tumpet.

Jim Bisbee, the group's drummer (and in my opinion best singer), is known around the state as a top notch performer on the drums. His drum set is unique in that it has two snares. One is played on a snare stand where it should be, the other on the floor with a foot pedal Jim, who can play trumpet while playing drums, also doubles on bass and rhythm guitars.

Has Great Harmony

To augment its instrumental versatility, the group has fabulous vocal harmony Among the three singers they can play any type of music from Country and Western, old standard to rock and roll. Thus they have been able to gain popularity in the clubs for 21-year-olds as well as the 18-year clubs.

Having made its mark in the Midwest, the group plans to introduce to the national market in the next few weeks its first record. "Stop The World" backed with "Donna."

If these songs turn out as well on record as live, Speedy will become more well known than the little television advertising puppet which had the name first.

If you have hemorrhoids you should read this ad

It tells about a new formula for home therapy that may well bring you long-lasting relief and comfort

If you seek more relief than you may now be getting, join the thousands of hemorrhoid (pile) sufferers now turning to new M.P.O. Developed by famous Mentholatum Laboratories, M.P.O. works in these five ways:

1. Helps ease pain faster. M.P.O. contains more medically accepted pain-relieving ingredients than the preparation you may now be using . . . to help reduce pain and discomfort.

2. Helps shrink swollen tissues. M.P.O. quickly releases the proven vaso-constrictor, Ephedrine Sulfate.

3. Helps relieve embarrassing itch. M.P.O.'s medication is homogenized for faster absorption, faster action.

4. Helps make relief last longer. M.P.O.'s more temperature-stable base holds medication in place for prolonged action.

5. Helps fight danger of infection. Proven germ-killer, Hexachlorophene, combats bacteria.

Test it yourself for the next three days. If not satisfied that M.P.O. helps you more than the preparation you're now using, return unused portion for full refund. Available in stainless ointment or suppositories at all drug counters.

Weddings, Fashions Spotlighted in News

This was wedding week for two young women in the national news. One was Liza Minelli, daughter of entertainer Judy Garland and Vincent Minelli, who was married with parental smiles to Peter W. Allen of Sydney, Australia. The couple was wed in New York and will live there. Smiling, but under less happy circumstances, were Theodore Gunther, Las Vegas, Nev., and Christina Frangescou, who said their marriage vows in Nicosia, Cyprus. His wealthy parents said they would disinherit him if he wed his childhood sweetheart, daughter of the family's Greek Cypriot chauffeur. The ceremony was performed Thursday, without their approval. The bride is an airline hostess.

Fashion cornered some news space this week. British model Twiggy, otherwise known as Lesley Hornby, 17, toured a British home exhibit on a bicycle Monday. The cockney girl wanted to come to the U.S. to model and sell her Twiggy Enterprises clothes, but the British passport office refused her, claiming that as a minor, she might be taken advantage of abroad.

Not a Mini

Betty Furness, appointed by President Johnson to the position of a Special Assistant for Consumer Affairs, wore a very brief dress to a press conference in San Antonio. She declared the skirt was not mini — only short.

Over in mini-land, models on London's Bond Street deserted their brief uniforms and donned long trousers for spring. The style change is part of the trend that makes it more and more difficult to tell the hims from the hers. It's all part of the equal status trend, 'tis said. In Cape Town, South Africa, Gary Burne, dancer in a local show, appeared on the street in a skirt eight inches above the knee. He said he was winning a bet, but teens termed it 'fab'.

Ring, License

In Salinas, Calif., rock 'n' roll singer Gary Lewis, 21, and fiance Sara Jane Suzara, 22, looked at diamond rings and applied for a marriage license. The son of Jerry Lewis is in the Army at Fort Ord. The wedding will be Saturday at St. Paul the Apostle Church in Los Angeles.

In St. Louis, Mo., the Magdala Foundation purchased a Victorian mansion and plans to use it to establish a 'charm school' for female ex-convicts.

Died in Paris

A companion of Gertrude Stein in the American expatriate artiste colony in Paris in the 1920's died this week in Paris at 89. Alice B. Toklas helped entertain some of the great writers and artists who took up residence abroad in those post-war years.

And this week it became official. The young married who claimed not to be in the announcing business acknowledged that she and her husband, Patrick Nugent, are indeed expecting a child. The first grandchild of President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson is awaited around mid-June. Mother Lucy only wants what every other mother wants — a healthy baby.

It's Official. Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Nugent are prospective parents. The daughter and son-in-law of the president acknowledged to newsmen Sunday after services at St. Francis Xavier Church in Stonewall, Tex., that they expect a child in June. At right is Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell, Long Beach, Calif., unanimously chosen by the nominating committee of the National Federation of Republican Women as choice for its president. A fight shapes up between her and conservative Mrs. Phyllis Schlafly for the post.

Britain's Princess Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, will vacation in this beach house on exclusive Lyford Cay, 16 miles west of Nassau, Bahamas. The home is owned by Jocelyn Stevens. The couple will arrive this weekend. At right are Theodore Gunther, 22, whose millionaire parents threatened to disinherit him if he married their chauffeur's daughter, Christina Frangescou. The couple was married this week in Cyprus in spite of the threat. Below, a blind high school student, Laurinda Steele, 16, of Crevy Chase, Md., had the help of Mrs. Hubert Humphrey in learning about spring fashions. Model Jo Peterson showed a miniskirt and sweater set. Said Miss Steele, "It's almost too much to take." (AP Wirephotos)

Gary Lewis and His Fiancee admired diamond rings in a Beverly Hills jewelry store. They will be married Saturday in West Los Angeles. Miss Jinky Suzara is from the Philippines. At right, Judy Garland and her children, Joseph, 11, and Lorna, 14, arrived for the wedding of her daughter, Liza Minelli, to Peter Allen. Joseph and Lorna are children from Miss Garland's marriage to Sid Luft.

Hospital Unit Sets Card Party

KAUKAUNA — The Kaukauna Community Hospital Auxiliary will sponsor a public card party at 7:45 p.m. Sunday in Holy Cross School gym. Proceeds will be used for scholarships for girls interested in nursing.

Mrs. George Hurst, Mrs. John Ashauer and Mrs. William Landreman are the planning committee members. Tickets are available from Auxiliary members and will be sold at the door.

AHS Class of '37 Plans June Reunion

The Appleton High School class of 1937 is planning a 30th anniversary reunion June 17 at the Elks Club. The steering committee had begun making arrangements and preparations at organizational meetings. The group will meet again at 8 p.m. April 12 at the home of Mrs. Percy Menning, 57 Fox Point Drive. Interested members have been invited to attend. Anyone having information and addresses of graduates who have moved out of the area have been asked to contact Mrs. Eugene Kohl.

Mr. and Mrs. Park Bruyette will have charge of dinner and the program. Mr. Bruyette will also direct the steering committee, assisted by Mrs. Menning and Mrs. Kohl. Merrill Potter will be chairman of finances and reservations, and Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hoepper, assisted by Mrs. Wallace Hagman, invitations.

Committee chairmen are Mrs. John A. Bauhs, and Mrs. J. Arthur Kapp, decorations and registration; Dr. Keith Giese, properties; John Hurley, publicity; Robert Besch and Mrs. Ruth Danielsen, gifts. The welcoming address will be given by John Rosebush, who will also act as master of ceremonies. Assisting the chairmen are Mrs. Warren Fulcer, Mrs. June Campbell and Mrs. Lester Deltgen.

National BPW Awards Grant to Ohio Member

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., has awarded the sixth annual United Nations Fellowship to former Ohio state senator and city mayor Mrs. Catherine R. Dobbs, Barberton, Ohio.

This grant enables a Federation member to study first hand one of the agencies or commissions of the United Nations. Mrs. Dobbs plans to study the Human Rights Commission and the status of women, Miss Sarah Jane Cunningham, McCook, Neb., national president, announced.

As an active participant in state and city government, the fellowship winner has served as mayor of Barberton, Ohio, from 1956 to 1962 chairman of the city's planning commission, member of the zoning board of appeals and the public health board and state senator from 1949 to 1950.

Other activities have included membership on the Council of States Governments and legislative chairman of the National Order of Women Legislators. Mrs. Dobbs was graduated from Akron University, Akron, Ohio.

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., founded in 1919, has a membership of 178,000 throughout the U.S., Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. Established to promote the interests of business and professional women, it is a member of an international organization represented in over 30 countries.

Ceremony Performed

Mrs. Edwin Davidson, 1843 S. Kernan Ave., and Alvin Lietz, 1516 W. Spencer St., were married at 7 p.m. Wednesday at Riverview Lutheran Church. The Rev. F. E. Thierfelder performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her son, Ronald Davidson. Honor attendants were her daughter and son-in-law, Mrs. Glenn Kasten, Menasha, and Edward Felauer.

After a wedding trip to Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Lietz will live in Appleton.

Spring Wedding Planned by Miss Laedtke

KAUKAUNA — A spring wedding is planned by Miss Louise W. Laedtke and Cyril C. Van Der Horst. The announcement has been made by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Laedtke, Waupaca. He is the son of George Van Der Horst, route 3, Kaukauna, and the late Mrs. Van Der Horst.

Louise W. Laedtke

Miss Laedtke was graduated from Wisconsin State University-Stevens Point, where she was affiliated with Alpha Kappa Rho, honorary music fraternity. She is employed by Kaukauna High School. Her fiance is with Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co.

BPW Officers To Discuss Spring Plans

Officers and chairmen of Appleton Business and Professional Women's Club will plan spring events when they meet Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Mildred Inman, route 1, Appleton.

Among items to be discussed will be participation in the Good Neighbor Fair scheduled April 29 at Valley Fair shopping center. Proceeds will be used for a scholarship to be awarded to a woman who has re-entered the working world and is interested in continuing her education.

Appleton BPW Club will meet at 6:30 p.m. March 21 at the Elks Club for dinner and a panel discussion on civil rights. Members of the Fox Cities Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International) will be guests. Mrs. Pearl Kottmer will be chairman.

Fox Valley District 6 will elect officers at an April 15 semi-annual meeting at Whitey's Altona, New Holstein. Miss Virginia Brussow will preside.

better. He may tell you. Instead, smile gallantly at the opponents and say: "Your defense was sensational."

South captured the king of hearts with the ace and tried for the diamonds by taking the king and ace. When the queen of diamonds failed to drop, South led a low club from dummy and won a finesse with the queen.

Declarer next cashed the ace of clubs and gave up a club to the ten. East returned the ten of hearts, which South had to refuse. West overtook with the jack and returned a spade. East's ten of spades drove out the ace, and now the defenders were sure of five tricks.

It was a good defense, perhaps even sensational, but North interrupted the compliments to point out that South had misplayed the hand.

After taking the ace of hearts, South should take the ace of clubs and then lead the queen of clubs. If the suit breaks normally, South easily makes the four club tricks he needs for game and rubber.

If West has two natural club tricks South must try for the diamonds by taking the king of diamonds and then trying a finesse with dummy's jack. If East has the club length, he cannot get two club tricks.

For example, if East takes the queen of clubs with the king and returns a heart, South wins with the queen of hearts, cashes the king of ace of diamonds (in case the queen falls) and then returns a club from dummy to finesse through East's ten. If East refuses to take the queen of clubs, South takes the Diamonds and leads a club from dummy anyway to limit East to one club trick.

In short, it is correct to play for both the clubs and the diamonds, but South must go after the clubs first.

Daily Question

Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S J 8 7 6, H J 9 7 6 3 2, D 7 6, C 5. What do you say?

Answer: Bid two hearts. A good partner will tend to pass this kind of response; he will rebid only if he has good hearts and 17 or 18 points. In that case you will have to play the hand at three hearts — which should be better than one notrump. If you have the kind of partner who jumps to three notrump at his second turn, you had better pass him at one notrump and take your licking there.

Committee Members of Welcome Wagon Newcomers and Civic League recently got their "March of Toys" underway. Hostesses and toy chairmen met at the home of Mrs. Vincent Crolius to complete plans for the March drive. Members brought toys which will be given to the Golden Agers for repair and then sold at Christmastime. Pausing for refreshments at a table decorated in the "March of Toys" theme are Mrs. Arthur Malin, Mrs. William Rowe, Mrs. Darrel Johnson and Mrs. Howard Plambeck. At right, Mrs. Vincent Crolius welcomes Mrs. David Wigton and Mrs. John Sullivan. (Post - Crescent Photos)

New Idea For Edging Bathtubs

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: How can I neatly and firmly waterproof the joint where bathtub meets the wall tiles? I have tried caulking compound, but my results don't look very good. Also, the stuff has dried out and begun to crack.

A: Many types of bathtub seam sealers are available at hardware stores. You squeeze out a neat seal over the corner as you proceed along. Even neater, in my opinion, are special bathtub edging tiles. These are made to cover and waterproof this joint, and give an extremely finished appearance, like quarter-round molding. If not stocked by your plumbing supplies dealer or hardware store, they should be able to get it for you. Enough for an average tub costs around ten dollars.

Q: I am having new wood gutters installed along my roof edges. Is there any special way to protect them from decay?

A: There certainly is. First, give the wood a good treatment of colorless, odorless wood preservative. Don't skimp. Then line the inside surfaces with asphalt paint or roof cement. Use great care not to let any spatter on your siding; it's near-murder to remove. Give the outside surfaces any top grade house paint, just like your siding.

Q: Economics enter strongly into my plans for a small one-story home. I have been told that concrete block foundation walls will not be as strong as poured concrete, even though the saving is very appreciable. True?

A: Not true. In my book. Block can perfectly well be used for this job, but should be over footings of poured concrete.

Q: I am planning to make some window boxes now, to be ready for spring planting. What kind of rustproof lining can I fit inside the wooden boxes?

A: About the simplest material would be heavy builder's plastic, cut out generously so there's plenty of joint overlapping to cement. This will last almost indefinitely when protected from sun. More elaborate lining can be made of do-it-yourself sheet aluminum, with the joints well soldered. (This can be tricky. If you're not familiar have it done at a sheet metal shop.) Easiest of all: Instead of all this carpentry and effort, why not just get window boxes made of rigid plastic, now so widely available?

Sitting a Shared Responsibility

Scouts Plan Two-Session Child-Care Clinic

The Fox River Area Girl Scout Council will sponsor a two-session babysitting clinic Saturday and March 18 at St. Therese Catholic Church Activity Center.

The program will begin with 9 a.m. Saturday registration. A film, "To a Babysitter", will be shown to the girls, explaining what is expected of them on the job. Sgt. David Young of the Appleton Police Department will present a program on safety. A film on fire safety and a talk by Ken Kositzke of the Appleton Fire Department are also scheduled.

Care of Children

Mrs. Julian Conkey, a nursery school teacher and Mrs. Harry Jollie, of the Visiting Nurse Association, will discuss the care of youngsters up to six years of age at the March 18 session. A panel discussion is planned and certificates will be awarded to those attending the clinic.

Mrs. H. Pete Christensen is general chairman of the program. She is assisted by Mrs. Lloyd Van Dyke, Mrs. Jack Reynolds, Mrs. William Moldenhauer, Mrs. Hubert Wetak, Mrs. Donald Long and Mrs. Kenneth Ligare.

In planning the program Mrs. Christensen, also stresses that parents have a responsibility. Too often the sitter is left on her own in a strange house with no knowledge of the children's needs, where to find things she may need or what to do in case of an emergency.

Arrive Early

A sitter should arrive about 15 minutes ahead of time to allow a parent time to tell her what her duties are. The telephone numbers of the family doctor, where parents might be reached, the fire and police departments and perhaps a neighbor should be left for the babysitter.

The sitter should be warned if any special precautions are to be taken with a child, especially an infant. She should be cautioned to keep the child away from stairs, electrical appliances, strange dogs, the stove and other potentially dangerous areas.

Factors to Consider

Parents employing a sitter should know the sitter they are employing. The age of the sitter in relation to the age of the child, to the hour of the day and to the length of the time the sitter will be needed should also be considered.

The child should know a sitter is taking care of him. He should meet the sitter in advance if possible. However, if he is in bed before the sitter arrives, he should be told that she is coming. Children are often wary and frightened if someone strange suddenly has taken the place of "Mommy".

The sitter should be told if the family owns a pet. If he tends to be unfriendly or jealous of the child he should be confined, and the sitter told where he is.

Big Responsibility

It is suggested the sitter be given less than she can do rather than more. Her first responsibility is to the child. This in itself is a big task.

It is the parents' responsibility to see that the sitter gets home safely. If circumstances have detained the parents, they should inform the sitter.

Parents of the sitter should know where their child is employed. They can also teach rules of safety and fundamentals of child care in the home.

The responsibility of babysitting is a shared one. Part of it rests with the sitter, but an important and often overlooked part is that of the parents. A well-informed, dependable babysitter can insist her employers provide the necessary information, and for the safety of the child and her peace of mind, she should.
